LITHOGRAPHED AND DESIGNED BY: Anderson Press of Charlotte, N.C.

Media Information

CREDENTIALS: Requests for working press credentials at Carolina home games should be made in writing on company letterhead to Rick Brewer in the Sports Information Office. Brewer's mailing address is P.O. Box 2126, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27514.

Because of the demand for credentials, media agencies which cover Carolina and the visiting school on a regular basis will receive top priority. Other credentials will be issued on the basis of circulation and the availability of space. Tickets will be mailed if at all possible. Otherwise, they will be left at Will Call which is at gate six, directly behind the press box.

Requests are screened with care to insure a working press box. Children, spouses, dates and pets are not allowed in compliance with the working code of the Football Writers Association of America.

PRESS BOX SERVICES: Programs, flip cards, statistics and notes will be provided before each game. A play-by-play will be distributed at the conclusion of each quarter. Halftime statistics will also be available. Complete team and individual statistics, a scoring summary and coaches' quotes will be provided after the game.

Lunch will be served before each game and at halftime behind the main working press area. Soft drinks and coffee will be available throughout the game.

SIDELINE POLICY: Photographers will not be allowed on the sidelines without an armband. Armbands can be picked up in the press box prior to the game. Each photographer must pick up his or her own armband. Under NCAA and Atlantic Coast Conference guidelines, photographers are not allowed inside the 25-yard lines and must remain outside the restraining lines surrounding the field.

PARKING: Press parking at Kenan Stadium is available on an extremely limited basis. Requests for parking passes should be made in advance to Rick Brewer. The parking lot is located on the corner of Gravely Drive and Manning Drive.

POST—GAME INTERVIEWS: Coach Mack Brown will meet with the media following each game after a 10-15 minute cooling-off period. The Carolina locker room will be open to the press at that time.

FILING COPY: The Department of Athletics furnishes a number of telephones for writers to use in moving their copy. Anyone desiring a private phone should contact Southern Bell in Chapel Hill.

The Carolina Sports Information Office has one fax machine which will be available for filing. An operator's fee of $10 will be charged for its use. This fee will go to a student assistant who will stay late to send copy.

INTERVIEWS WITH COACH BROWN: Mack Brown will be available to the media at a press luncheon each Tuesday during the football season. Television and radio tapes can be done at 11:30 a.m. with lunch being served at noon. The press conference follows the meal at Kenan Fieldhouse.

Interviews with Brown at other times during the week can be set up by contacting the Sports Information Office or Becky Medford, Coach Brown's secretary, in the Football Office. Best time to get the coach is between 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., Monday through Thursday. The number is (919) 966-2575.

PLAYER INTERVIEWS: Player interviews should be arranged through the Sports Information Office. Players have been instructed to conduct no interviews unless they have been set up in that manner. The interviews will generally be around lunchtime—after the player's classes and before practice. There will always be players available at Brown's weekly press conference.

Requests for telephone interviews will be handled by players returning calls to the media. No home numbers for players will be given out.

Player interviews are not allowed on the day preceding a game.

PRACTICE COVERAGE: Carolina practices are open to the media. Admission to practice can be obtained by contacting the Sports Information Office. Media practice passes will be handled there. Players are not available for interviews on the practice field, whether they are competing or not. Coach Brown will be available following the conclusion of each session.

RADIO AND TELEVISION SHOW: Over 60 stations in three states will once again carry the Tar Heel Football Network. The network is operated by Village Companies of Chapel Hill with Bill Whitley as manager and Jim Heavner as executive producer. Woody Durham handles the play-by-play with Mick Mixon adding color commentary. In addition to the game itself, the network also features pre-game and post-game comments from Coach Mack Brown, Tar Heel players and the opposing coach.

The Carolina Football Show will be televised across the state of North Carolina each Sunday. The show features Brown and highlights of the previous game. John Kilgo serves as host.

OUTLOOK

Offensive tackle Kevin Donnalley ranks as a leading All-America candidate.

With more depth and experience than in the past two years, North Carolina should be an improved football team in 1990.

However, the Tar Heels still need more of both before they will be able to regularly challenge for the Atlantic Coast Conference championship.

The numbers graphically tell the story for Coach Mack Brown's third UNC team. Carolina enters fall practice with only three seniors listed as starters and only three others rated as number one reserves. Of the remaining top 44 players on the pre-season depth chart, 13 are juniors, 18 are sophomores and seven are red-shirt freshmen.

"We'll still be the youngest football team in the ACC," says Brown. "Only six seniors have played very much and that's going to hurt us in terms of experience on the field and leadership."

Despite the lack of seniors, Carolina will still be a more experienced team this season. That's an indication of just how young the Tar Heels have been for the last two years. All 11 scheduled starters on defense and 10 of 11 on offense have lettered. In addition, there is more talent available than in either of the past two seasons.

Heading the list of returning players for Carolina are offensive tackle Kevin Donnalley, who could be the best player in the country at his position; linebacker Dwight Hollier, a leading candidate for All-ACC honors; outside linebacker Eric Gash, a big-play performer on defense; and punter Scott McAlister, who averaged 42.7 yards a kick last fall.

There are also a number of other players like linebacker Tommy Thigpen, free safety Rondell Jones, outside linebacker Jonathan Perry, defensive tackle Roy Barker and offensive guard Brian Bollinger who have the ability to be standout performers.

In addition, there are some promising young players behind the front-liners. However, the reserves, while better than in 1988 or 1989, are generally untested.

"With more good young players available, we've been able to have competition for positions where in the past we haven't had any," says Brown. "In our first two years we had to take young guys and say, 'You're starting. Now get ready and be as good as you can be.'

"Now for the first time we'll have guys who will have to compete for their positions and that makes your entire football team better.

"Certainly, our depth still isn't such that we can afford any major injuries. That is a great concern. If we get someone hurt we could drop down to playing freshmen again and that scares me to death. We've proven over the last two years that if you're playing too many of those guys, you're going to have trouble winning at this level."

Overall, Carolina figures to be stronger on defense than last fall, more talented on offense and solid in the kicking game. The receivers are a young, but potentially outstanding group, the offensive line shows promise and the linebacking corps could be the best in the ACC.

The team's biggest personnel problem was solved in the spring when Todd Burnett won the starting quarterback job. Inconsistency and injuries at that position have hampered the Tar Heels offensively for the last two seasons.

Brown was forced to use three different players as starters there in both 1988 and 1989. Two were true freshmen and one a red-shirt freshman. The shuffling of quarterbacks was done by necessity, but never allowed Carolina to generate any offensive rhythm.

Burnett, however, did an excellent job in the spring. The 6-6½, 202-pound junior from Burke, Va. out-dueled Chuckie Burnette and Steve Jerry for the number one spot.

"We wanted to come out of the spring with a starter," says Brown. "You can't get established on what you want to do offensively until you have one and know exactly what he can do best."

Burnett started the last five games of the 1988 season, completing 52 of 97 passes. Coaches had planned to red-shirt him last fall, but he was forced into action at mid-season. The hope was he could provide the offense with a spark as he had the previous year.

Unfortunately, he played in only three games before a lacerated kidney and liver put him on the sidelines. He was completely recovered in the spring. In his brief playing time last fall he completed 26 of 48 passes.

"The amazing thing about Todd is that he's completed over 50 percent of his passes each of the last two years even though we've been struggling so much offensively," says Brown. "I think that's an indication of the kind of touch he has on the football. Now we need him to become a better deep passer and improve in the running game. He doesn't mind work and I believe he'll do both."

Burnette, a 5-11½, 198-pound sophomore from Burlington, N.C., played in seven games last season, starting four times. Playing behind an inexperienced offensive line and working with young receivers, he completed just 44 of 133 passes. As the season progressed. he seemed to lose confidence in himself and that also effected his play.

However, Burnette did a much better job during spring practice. He seemed to regain some of his lost confidence and threw the ball much better.

"In Chuckie's defense, it's very difficult for a true freshman to play college football and especially at quarterback," points out Brown. "Plus, we didn't have the type of running game which could take the pressure off him. It was a tough season for him, but we still know he can be a fine player for us."

Eric Blount gives Carolina a breakaway threat at tailback.

The 5-10, 181-pound Jerry worked strictly on the scout team last fall. A red-shirt freshman from Orlando, Fla., he showed good promise in the spring. He runs the ball well, but needs work on his throwing. He and Burnette will fight for the number two quarterback job in pre-season camp.

While the quarterback race attracted much of the attention in the spring, a great deal of time was also spent on developing a tailback for the I-formation. Carolina has produced 19 one-thousand-yard rushers, more than any other school in the country. However, the entire team's rushing total was just 1,431 yards last fall and the Tar Heels averaged only 3.4 yards a carry.

Returnees Eric Blount and Randy Jordan both had excellent springs. Neither had ever gone through a spring practice as a tailback before playing that position last year. The teaching they were able to get in the spring helped them improve dramatically.

Both Blount and Jordan have the speed to be big-play performers. Each showed flashes of brilliance a year ago, but lacked consistency. They began to develop that in the spring work.

Blount, a 5-8½, 190-pound junior from Ayden, N.C., was a wide receiver as a freshman before switching to the backfield last fall. He finished the year as UNC's second-leading rusher with 409 yards. He has great vision of the field and also does a fine job in the passing game.

While Blount is capable of going the distance anytime he touches the ball, he must improve in short-yardage situations. He made progress there in the spring and began to make things happen when yardage seemed unavailable.

The 5-10, 200-pound Jordan does a good job of running the ball inside, in addition to being a breakaway threat. A junior from Warrenton, N.C., he could be a big surprise this fall after gaining only 261 yards last season and averaging 3.9 yards a carry. However, he needs more work in the passing game to be a complete back.

"The experience those two gained last year has been a tremendous help to them," says Brown. "They are going to improve our running game which we so desperately need to do."

Also in the picture at tailback are a pair of red-shirt freshmen, Antuarn Williams and Derrick Henderson. Unfortunately,

Williams was hampered in spring practice by a sprained ankle and Henderson missed all of the spring work because of a knee injury.

Michael Benefield, last year's starter at fullback, has graduated. Mike Faulkerson has moved into that spot after being the number one reserve there last season. A 6-0, 241-pound sophomore from Kingsport, Tenn., Faulkerson is an excellent blocker and an improving runner. He should handle that position well.

Depth at fullback could be a concern, however. Top backup B.J. Runyon played only sparingly last fall. His strength and running improvement over the summer will determine if this is indeed a problem area.

The receiving positions should be one of the team's strong points. Three players who started at one time or another are back at tight end and five very capable players are battling for duty at the two wide receiver slots.

Deems May, Ethan Albright and Craig Brown will handle the work at tight end. May had an outstanding spring and goes into the fall as the starter. A 6-5, 237-pound junior from Lexington, N.C., he is a former quarterback who was shifted to this position just last season. May is a fine all-around athlete who did an excellent job in the off-season conditioning program. Working in the weight room as a tight end instead of as a quarterback, he has added nearly 20 pounds to his frame in the last year. With more experience he can be an exceptional player at this spot.

The same is true for Albright, a 6-5, 232-pound sophomore from Greensboro, N.C. He played as a true freshman last fall and started down the stretch. He also had a good spring, although he was slowed late in the drills by a pulled hamstring.

A sprained ankle hampered Brown, a 6-5, 223-pound sophomore from Virginia Beach, Va., during part of the spring. Although he is the smallest of the tight ends, he may be the best blocker of the three.

Coaches haven't decided how playing time will be split among these players. But, all three are expected to see action. This is one of the best fortified spots on the entire team and the plan is to take advantage of that depth.

That will also be the case at the wide receiver posts where four lettermen are back. Randell Felton, Bucky Brooks and Julius Reese all played as true freshmen last fall, while Joey Jauch was a red-shirt freshman. Joining this group is freshman Corey Holliday who missed the 1989 season with an injury.

"We feel like all five can play," says Brown. "We've got a very competitive situation and that's great. Now we need this competition to force one or two of these guys to jump out this fall ahead of the others."

The team's top returning receiver is Felton, a 6-0, 194-pound flanker from Durham, N.C. He set a number of school pass-catching records for freshmen last year with 37 receptions for 495 yards. That was also the most catches by a freshman wide receiver in ACC history. He is a fine competitor and displayed an ability for making the big catch in the clutch.

Brooks, 6-0 and 181 pounds from Raleigh, N.C., is working behind Felton at flanker. He had 12 catches last year for 144 yards. He's the fastest of the wideouts, but needs to develop more consistency in his routes and his blocking.

The 6-3, 191-pound Reese, a native of Winston-Salem, N.C., has the size, speed, running ability and hands to be a big-play threat. He had 12 catches for 137 yards in 1989 before being sidelined late in the year by a foot injury. With more consistency and experience he could be a key man on offense.

Jauch had 13 receptions last fall for 263 yards and two touchdowns. His average of 20.2 yards a catch was the best on the squad. With an extra year on campus, he may be a little further ahead of the other wideouts at this time. He's a smart player and does a good job of reading secondaries and finding holes in the defense. He also runs well and is a fine blocker. Jauch, 6-0½ and 186 pounds from Vienna, Va., heads into the fall as the starter at split end.

Behind Jauch is Holliday, the biggest of the wideouts at 6-2 and 204 pounds. A native of Richmond, Va., Holliday made two very brief appearances early last year before being sidelined for the season with a pelvic and groin injury. He was granted a medical hardship and an extra year of eligibility.

While Holliday lacks experience, he has fine ability. He was outstanding during the spring, working at both flanker and split end. Despite his lack of game action, he does a good job of recognizing coverages. He also possesses excellent hands and is a good broken-field runner.

The offensive line is talented, but inexperienced. The biggest loss on the entire offense was suffered here with the graduation of guard Pat Crowley, a four-year starter and three-time all-conference performer. In addition, depth is a great concern. Few of the backups have much playing time.

Donnalley gives Carolina a premier player around which the rest of the line can be constructed. A 6-5, 293-pound senior from Raleigh, N.C., Donnalley is a transfer from Davidson who had to sit out the 1988 season under NCAA rules. He then started every game at left tackle last fall and late in the year developed into one of the ACC's best blockers.

Brown feels that if the Tar Heels can enjoy any team success Donnalley could be a top All-America candidate. Professional scouts are high on him because he combines quickness, strength and intelligence with his great size.

"Kevin came here after going to Davidson for two years in order to prove he could play at this level," says the Carolina coach. "He's found he can not only play, but that he can be a dominant player. He was one of the best offensive linemen in our league during the last half of 1989. Potentially, he's as good as anyone in the country."

Returning at the opposite tackle is Andrew Oberg, a 6-7, 265-pound junior from Rochester, Pa. He started all 11 games a year ago. However, he was pushed for that starting job in the spring by Rickie Shaw, a 6-5, 290-pound junior from Whiteville, N.C. Shaw was moved from defensive tackle to provide competition and depth.

Another important player at tackle is senior Bill Boyd from Hampton, Va. The 6-8, 304-pound Boyd has seen spot playing time during his career, but missed the spring work with a shoulder injury. He's capable of playing either side of the line. Another possibility is Steve Mandeville, a 6-5, 251-pound red-shirt freshman from Springfield, Va.

It's at guard and center where the greatest inexperience lies. While Brown feels his three probable starters there have fine ability, none of them have ever played a college game at their current positions.

The guards are expected to be Bollinger and Scott Falise. Bollinger, a 6-5, 261-pound junior from Indialantic, Fla., has outstanding talent. He opened last season as the starting tight end, but was shifted to tackle because of depth problems there. He then was moved to guard prior to spring practice. Bollinger runs very well and has done a good job of improving his strength. With experience and continued development he could be an exceptional player. He teams with Donnalley to give UNC a potentially powerful left side.

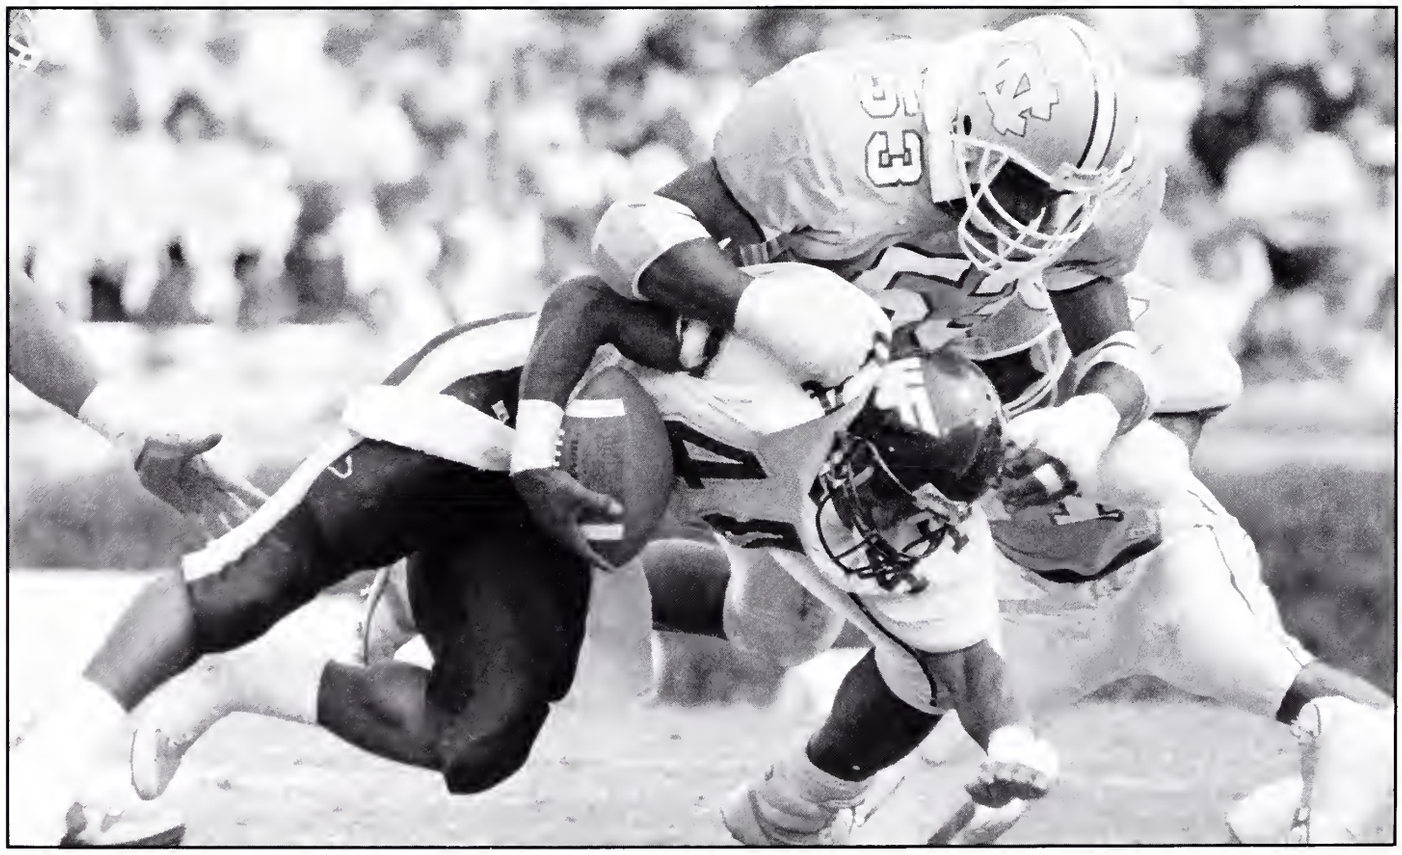
Falise is a 6-3, 269-pound red-shirt freshman from Pittsburgh, Pa. who did a great job in the winter conditioning program. Based on his performance there he opened spring practice as the starter at right guard and never lost the job.

The backups at guard are Dennis Moore, a 6-4½, 251-pound junior from Middletown, Pa., and Curtis Parker, a 6-3, 272-pound red-shirt freshman from Wingate, N.C.

Andy Dinkin, who started the final four games at right guard last season, has been switched to center and is set as the regular there. While his game experience will be valuable, he's had to learn a new set of techniques. He seemed to get the feel for the position as spring practice progressed and showed he can be a solid player at this spot.

Depth at center will come from Bryan Lindsey, a 6-3, 236-pound sophomore from Richmond, Va., and James Demetrakis, a 5-11½, 280-pound red-shirt freshman from Winston-Salem, N.C.

"Last year our offense was very young and that led to too much inconsistency," says Brown. "Hopefully, having our younger people go through a spring practice will help us in that area."



Linebacker Dwight Hollier led the ACC in tackles last year.

Carolina should also be more consistent on defense in 1990 with a letterman set to start at every position. Brown is hoping his defensive unit can continue the progress it made last fall.

"I thought we played much better on defense last season than in 1988, but it didn't always show in scores or statistics," he says. "Our defense simply had to stay on the field too much because we couldn't get anything going offensively. We just wore down as games progressed and in the second half of the season."

The strength of this defense should be at linebacker where the Tar Heels have some of the best talent in the ACC. The two inside positions should be in especially good hands with the return of Hollier, Thigpen and Bernard Timmons.

Hollier, a 6-2½, 232-pound junior from Hampton, Va., rates as one of Carolina's top all-star candidates. He has led UNC in tackles for each of the last two seasons and had more total hits than any other player in the ACC last fall, finishing with 96 solos and 63 assists.

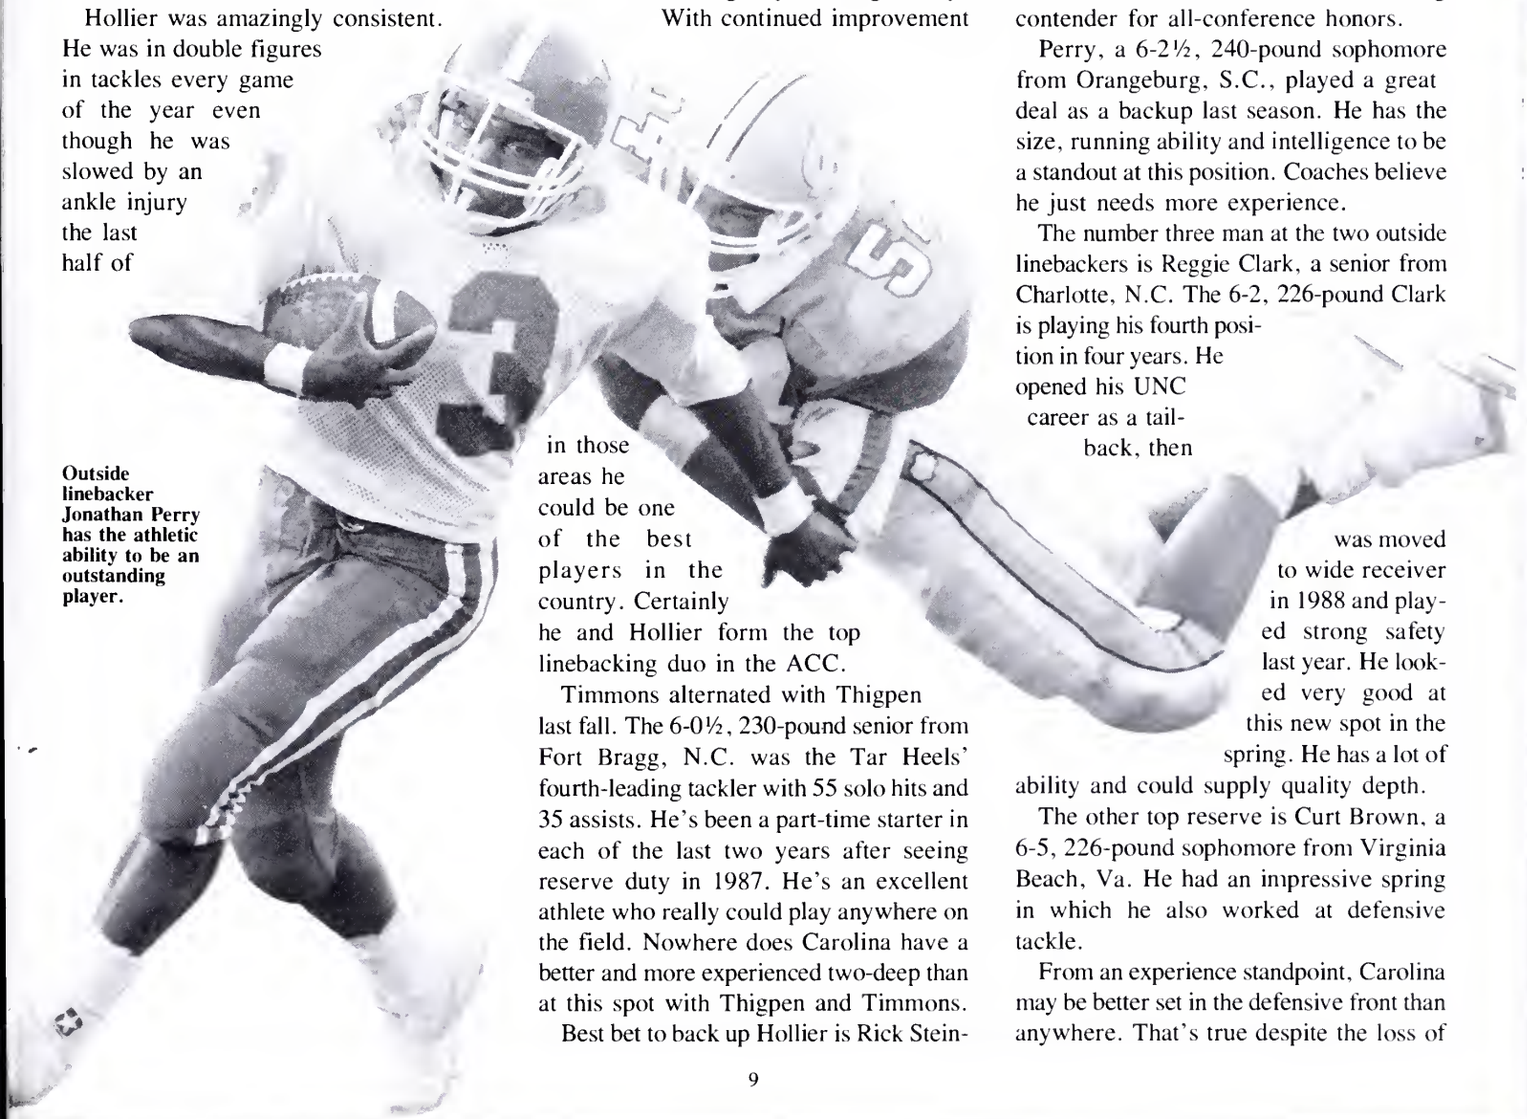
Hollier was amazingly consistent. He was in double figures in tackles every game of the year even though he was slowed by an ankle injury the last half of the season. Brown rates him the best linebacker in the conference.

"Dwight has a burning desire to excel and be a great player," says Brown. "He's also that way in his off-the-field habits and in the classroom. Even as a young player he's been a leader for us, both on the field and in our off-season conditioning program.

"He's tough physically and has proven he can play with pain. Plus, he's a tremendous hitter who makes the big play."

Thigpen, a 6-2, 215-pound sophomore from Dumfries, Va., is one of the brightest young stars in college football. He had a dynamic season as a true freshman last year, finishing second on the team in hits with 59 tackles and 44 assists. He also had five tackles for losses and three sacks. Although splitting time with Timmons, he was 11th in the ACC in total hits.

Thigpen has great quickness and speed, allowing him to make plays from sideline to sideline. He has added weight and strength since coming to Chapel Hill without sacrificing any running ability. With continued improvement in those areas he could be one of the best players in the country. Certainly he and Hollier form the top linebacking duo in the ACC.



Outside linebacker Jonathan Perry has the athletic ability to be an outstanding player.

Timmons alternated with Thigpen last fall. The 6-0½, 230-pound senior from Fort Bragg, N.C. was the Tar Heels' fourth-leading tackler with 55 solo hits and 35 assists. He's been a part-time starter in each of the last two years after seeing reserve duty in 1987. He's an excellent athlete who really could play anywhere on the field. Nowhere does Carolina have a better and more experienced two-deep than at this spot with Thigpen and Timmons.

Best bet to back up Hollier is Rick Steinbacher, a 6-0½, 218-pound red-shirt freshman from Greenville, S.C. He was one of the surprises of spring practice. The Tar Heels need him to develop into a quality player so Hollier can get an occasional rest. Hollier has had to play almost every snap the last two years and that has taken its toll with a number of bruises and minor injuries which have slowed him down. Steinbacher's presence could alleviate that.

Mike Hopkins, coming back from a knee injury, could also help at that spot. He's a 6-3½, 225-pound junior from Falls Church, Va.

Gash and Perry give Carolina a talented set of starters at outside linebacker. Gash has been a regular since late in his freshman season. The 6-2, 228-pound junior from Hendersonville, N.C. had four sacks and seven tackles for losses last fall. His total of 11 hits behind the line of scrimmage was the fourth-highest in the ACC.

A fine pass rusher, Gash has also developed into a good pass defender. With his size and quickness he can be a big-play man on defense. He should be a strong contender for all-conference honors.

Perry, a 6-2½, 240-pound sophomore from Orangeburg, S.C., played a great deal as a backup last season. He has the size, running ability and intelligence to be a standout at this position. Coaches believe he just needs more experience.

The number three man at the two outside linebackers is Reggie Clark, a senior from Charlotte, N.C. The 6-2, 226-pound Clark is playing his fourth position in four years. He opened his UNC career as a tailback, then was moved to wide receiver in 1988 and played strong safety last year. He looked very good at this new spot in the spring. He has a lot of ability and could supply quality depth.

The other top reserve is Curt Brown, a 6-5, 226-pound sophomore from Virginia Beach, Va. He had an impressive spring in which he also worked at defensive tackle.

From an experience standpoint, Carolina may be better set in the defensive front than anywhere. That's true despite the loss of

As a freshman last year Tommy Thigpen was an instant hit at linebacker.

All-ACC tackle Cecil Gray. Barker, Dennis Tripp and Alex Simakas are all two-year lettermen. Depth has to be developed, but the starting three has seen considerable game action. Tripp and Simakas, in fact, are fifth-year seniors.

Barker could be one of the better defensive linemen in the ACC. He has played well in spurts in the past, but last spring began to show the consistency he needs to be a true standout. The 6-4½, 276-pound junior from Central Islip, N.Y. is capable of dominating the line of scrimmage. He's set at left tackle.

Starting at the opposite tackle is Tripp, a 6-3, 261-pound senior from Farmville, N.C. He's one of the team's hardest workers and most competitive players. A former linebacker, he has good quickness which allows him to get in on a lot of plays. He's expected to be one of the team leaders this fall.

Another former linebacker, Randall Parsons, goes into the fall behind Barker with red-shirt freshman Austin Robbins and Curt Brown the top subs for Tripp. The 6-3, 252-pound Parsons, a sophomore from Wilkesboro, N.C., isn't as big as some tackles, but has shown promise. Robbins, 6-6, 259 pounds from Washington, D.C., is a good prospect, but needs repetitions on the practice field.

Coaches have experimented with Brown at tackle in some situations. Because of his size and speed he gives Carolina a completely different look up front. He should see action at this spot, as well as at outside linebacker.

Returning as the starting nose guard is Simakas, a 6-3, 261-pound senior from Pittsburgh, Pa. He only started the last three games of the year, but got extensive playing time throughout the season. He has played everywhere in the defensive front during his UNC career, but really settled in at the nose last fall. He was Carolina's seventh-leading tackler with 69 total hits.

This position does have experienced depth in J.R. Boldin. A 6-1½, 273-pound sophomore from Chapel Hill, Boldin had 45 tackles last year, three sacks and three tackles for losses. He has the quickness and strength to be an outstanding player. He's also capable of playing defensive tackle if needed.

Experience could be a problem in the secondary, however. Even though all four probable starters played last fall, the Tar Heels will still be as young as anyone in the country in the defensive backfield. Three true sophomores and a junior are the expected regulars with two red-shirt freshmen and two sophomores in reserve. Plus, the team's best defensive back last year, cornerback Torin Dorn, has graduated.

The most experienced player is junior Doxie Jordan, a 5-11, 175-pound cornerback from Hampton, Va. He worked at free safety last season and was shifted to cornerback in the spring. He doesn't have blazing speed, but is smart and seems to have a knack for being in the right place at the right time.

Starting on the other side will be Cliff Baskerville, a 5-10½, 171-pound sophomore from Union, N.J. He played a great deal in the last half of 1989. If he can become a more physical player he could be a very good cornerback. He already does an exceptional job of defending the pass.

The backups at cornerback are Thomas Smith, a 5-11, 181-pound sophomore from Gates, N.C.; Sean Crocker, a 5-10, 185-pound red-shirt freshman from Wakefield, Va.; and Lawrence Winslow, a 5-10, 175-pound sophomore from Elizabeth City, N.C.

Of all the positions in the secondary, the one with the most promise may be free safety. Rondell Jones and Bracey Walker both have excellent ability.

Jones, a 6-2, 194-pound sophomore from Sunderland, Md., had a fine freshman season. He was Carolina's sixth-leading tackler with 48 solo hits and 24 assists. He also had two interceptions. He has the size, speed and quickness to eventually be one of the league's best defenders. He's also beginning to develop into a very physical player.

Physical is probably the best adjective to use in describing Walker. The 6-0, 186-pound freshman from Spring Lake, N.C. is a tremendous hitter. He's untested in game situations, but shows fine potential.

Back at strong safety is Cookie Massey, a 5-11, 214-pound sophomore from Rock Hill, S.C. He started the final two games last season after playing as a reserve earlier in the year. He had 48 total hits last fall despite seeing just part-time action. Russell Gibson, a 6-0½, 214-pound sophomore from Lenoir, N.C., returns as the top sub.

Even though Brown thinks his overall defense will again be improved, he sees plenty of room for continued work.

"While we were better defensively last season we still did not do well against teams with balanced attacks," he says. "We had problems against someone who had a good running game and the ability to throw the ball downfield. We must continue developing to handle that type of offense."

The return of McAlister gives Carolina the foundation for a fine kicking game. A junior from Greensboro, N.C., he ranked 11th in the country last year with his 42.7 punting average. McAlister also has an excellent hang time and opponents averaged just 7.2 yards a return.

Place-kicker Clint Gwaltney needs to improve his consistency from a year ago, but Brown feels that will happen. Although Gwaltney made only five of 14 field goal attempts, he displayed the leg to be a long-range scoring threat.

The Tar Heels did a good job of covering both punts and kickoffs last fall. However, they must become better at returning kicks. Coaches will experiment with several different players in the preseason work before settling on their primary return men.

"We're going to be a better football team," says Brown. "I'm encouraged by the fact we run so much better than in the past. And as young as we are, we will still be more experienced.

"But, we need consistency and confidence. We can work on the consistency on the practice field, but the confidence is only going to come from winning some games. That's what we need to do this fall."

Free safety Rondell Jones was sixth on the team in tackles last season.

A Position-By-Position Look

Tight End: Three players split the time at tight end a year ago and all three are back. All have good ability and this could be one of Carolina's best and deepest positions. Former quarterback Deems May had an outstanding spring and heads into the fall as the starter. He has made rapid strides at this spot in just a year at the position. Also certain to see plenty of action are Ethan Albright and Craig Brown. Albright played as a true freshman last fall and was the late-season starter. He has great potential, especially as a receiver. Brown is the fastest of the three and the best technician. Both he and Albright need additional work in the weight room.

Tackle: In Kevin Donnalley the Tar Heels have perhaps the premier offensive lineman in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Donnalley was outstanding in the latter stages of the 1989 season. He has everything a great player truly needs — size, strength, quickness, speed and intelligence. Professional scouts rate him as one of the best prospects in the nation. Back at the other tackle is Andrew Oberg who started all 11 games there last fall. However, he was pressed for his job in the spring by Rickie Shaw, who was shifted from defense. Further depth should come from veteran Bill Boyd.

Guard: Gone from this position are Andy Dinkin, moved to center, and Pat Crowley, a three-time All-ACC choice. Brian Bollinger, a fine all-around athlete, and Scott Falise, a tough, hard-nosed competitor, are the likely starters. Although neither has ever been in a college game at this spot, they have the ability to give Carolina solid play. Bollinger has seen spot action in the past at tight end and tackle. He has the size and speed to be a future standout. Falise, a red-shirt freshman, did an excellent job in the off-season weight program and followed that up with a solid showing in spring practice. He's an intelligent player who just needs experience. Depth is a major concern here. Dennis Moore, who saw some backup action last year, and red-shirt freshman Curtis Parker are the top reserves. Both need more playing time.

Center: Andy Dinkin, a starter at guard in the last half of the 1989 season, has moved into the number one center spot. Although this is a completely new position for him, Dinkin made good progress thoughout spring practice. He has the ability to be a very capable player at this spot. Backup help will come from Bryan Lindsay, who has played sparingly in the past. Lindsay has the athletic ability to be a fine player, but needs more size and strength.

Wide Receiver: This should be one of the strongest areas on the Tar Heel team. The split end and flanker positions have both depth and talent. Three true freshmen — Randall Felton, Julius Reese and Bucky Brooks — shared playing time last fall with red-shirt freshman Joey Jauch. The experience they gained should be a tremendous asset this season. All four seemed much more comfortable during spring practice. Also in the picture for playing time is red-shirt freshman Corey Holliday, who was out last year with a groin injury. There should be great competition for the starting jobs. However, regardless of who starts, all should get plenty of playing time.

Quarterback: A good showing in spring practice has moved Todd Burnett into the starting job for the fall. A rising junior, Burnett is the most experienced player at this position. A fine medium-range passer, he has become better at throwing the long ball. Although he still needs to improve in certain aspects of the running game, he is a more accomplished runner than a year ago. Chuckie Burnette and Steve Jerry ended the spring battling for the backup spot. Burnette played a great deal as a true freshman last fall, while Jerry was red-shirted. Burnette has fine passing ability, but must regain the confidence he lost while going through some hard times in 1989. Jerry is the best runner of all the quarterbacks, but needs to work on his throwing.

Tailback: Although Aaron Staples, the starter much of last season, is gone, Carolina does return Eric Blount and Randy Jordan. They shared the position with Staples during the course of the year. Inexperience was a problem for both last fall. However, the playing time they got in 1989 should prove invaluable during the upcoming season. Both showed tremendous improvement during spring practice. Each has excellent speed and is capable of being a big-play performer. Backup help will come from a pair of red-shirt freshmen, Antuarn Williams and Derrick Henderson.

Fullback: With Michael Benefield graduated, Mike Faulkerson is the new starter here. He was the top backup in 1989. Faulkerson is a big physical player who is an excellent blocker. That makes him an ideal fullback in the I-formation. However, he has also begun to develop into a good runner after getting just 11 carries last season. That running ability adds versatility to the Tar Heel attack, providing another threat in the backfield. Developing depth at fullback was a major goal in the spring. B.J. Runyon, mainly a special teams player last year, goes into the fall as the top reserve. He needs work in the weight room over the summer to start solidifying this position.

A Position-By-Position Look

Outside Linebacker: Big things are expected from the players at this position. Eric Gash is one of the top defensive players in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Jonathan Perry, scheduled to be the other starter, showed outstanding promise last fall as a true freshman. In addition, Reggie Clark was moved from the secondary to this spot in the spring and showed he can be a solid performer. Another possibility is Curt Brown who had an outstanding spring.

In fact, this really shapes up as one of the team's strong points. Gash was a consistent player in 1989 and also proved he could make the big play, ranking among the ACC leaders in sacks and tackles for losses. Perry is one of Carolina's best young players and Clark has picked up the new position very quickly. Brown is greatly improved from last year when much of his action came on special teams.

Tackle: Although All-ACC tackle Cecil Gray has graduated, this could eventually be an improved position for Carolina. Starters Dennis Tripp and Roy Barker have good experience and there could be better depth than last season.

Tripp started eight times at tackle a year ago and Barker made four starts at nose guard. Tripp, a senior, won't be the biggest tackle in the ACC, but he has excellent quickness for a defensive lineman. Barker heads into his junior season with all the physical tools to be a standout. He's coming off a solid showing in spring practice.

Depth will be provided by former linebacker Randall Parsons, red-shirt freshman Austin Robbins and Curt Brown, who worked here in the spring as well as at outside linebacker. If the Tar Heels are indeed to be stronger at tackle than they were last fall, these three must continue to improve to provide quality backup help.

Nose Guard: Alex Simakas gives Carolina a solid performer at this spot. He's a senior with experience and a lot of savvy. He did an excellent job in the off-season strength program and is now faster and stronger than in 1989. He teams with Tripp and Barker to give the Tar Heels a good trio of starters in the defensive front. Sophomore J.R. Boldin provides excellent depth. He has fine size, strength and quickness. In addition, he played quite a bit last season and thus has valuable experience.

Linebacker: This may well be the strength of the entire Tar Heel football team. Carolina's linebacker corps should be the best in the ACC and could rank among the top groups in college football. Dwight Hollier, who has started every game for the last two years, returns at one spot with Bernard Timmons and Tommy Thigpen back at the other. Timmons and Thigpen split time at that position last fall. Finding a more talented threesome would be difficult to do anywhere.

Hollier was a second-team All-ACC selection last year after leading the league in tackles. He probably would have been a first-teammer except for Carolina's record. He heads into his junior season regarded as one of America's best linebackers. Like all great players at this spot, he has a remarkable ability to find the football and then make something happen when he gets there.

Timmons, a senior, has a great deal of natural talent. He could play anywhere on the field and just needs a little more consistency to be a standout here. Thigpen broke into the starting lineup as a true freshman last year and did a brilliant job. He was the Tar Heels' number two tackler. He's added more strength and weight in the off-season to go along with his outstanding quickness. Additional help at linebacker could come from red-shirt freshman Rick Steinbacher. He did a good job in the spring and goes into the fall behind Hollier on one side.

Cornerback: Both of last year's starters at cornerback, Torin Dorn and Clarence Carter, have graduated. But, the projected starters here do have some experience. Cliff Baskerville split time with Carter down the stretch last fall and now will move into that spot. Doxie Jordan, who worker at free safety in 1989, has been shifted to the other corner. Jordan has played cornerback in the past and did a fine job in spring practice. These players make Carolina competitive here, but both still need more experience and strength.

Thomas Smith, who like Baskerville played as a true freshman last season, will provide depth on one side with newcomers Sean Crocker and Lawrence Winslow battling for the top backup spot on the other. Carolina will certainly miss the ability of Carter and Dorn, a fourth-round NFL draft choice, but inexperience looms as the major problem on the corners.

Safety: Rondell Jones and Cookie Massey, sophomores who saw a great deal of action last year, give Carolina experience and talent at free and strong safety. Jones started six games and Massey the final two in 1989 at those positions. But, both played a lot throughout the season. Both are capable of developing into very physical players in the secondary, something Carolina has been lacking for a while.

Russell Gibson, who saw spot action last fall, is working behind Massey. Depth at free safety should come from red-shirt freshman Bracey Walker. Walker was one of the surprises of spring practice. He's a very physical player and could be a standout.

A Conversation With Mack Brown

Q. What did you learn about your football team this spring?

A. I learned that our players have not lost any of their desire or obsession to turn this program around and win again. That's what you always worry about — Will the players give up? Will they get down?

Well, I know now this bunch isn't even close to that. Getting down hasn't been a consideration. In fact, they worked harder and we were more physical this spring than in either of our first two here. So I think more than anything else, I learned that.

Secondly, I discovered that we're quicker on defense than we have been. The third thing that I found out is that we also have improved speed on offense. We had more big plays offensively this spring than at any time since our staff has been here. The reason for that is simple — we have more guys touching the ball who have a chance to make them. We're still not as consistent as we need to be, but we have the ability to score at any time from any part of the field.

Q. You thought your defense was better last year than it had been in 1988. Now you have lost a couple of key defensive players in Cecil Gray and Torin Dorn. What's the outlook on defense this fall?

A. I think we'll be a better defensive football team than we've been in either of the two previous years. But, our offense has to help us more and keep our defense off the field. We were much better last year, but it was hard to notice it at times because our defensive players stayed on the field so much. We've got to do a better job of controlling the football so our defensive unit can get some rest.

Certainly we're going to miss Torin and Cecil. They did an outstanding job last year of holding together a defensive team that was playing better than it often appeared. We need guys that have been around like Dennis Tripp, Alex Simakas, Reggie Clark, Doxie Jordan, Roy Barker, Eric Gash and Dwight Hollier to step up and take that leadership role. We're still a very young team and we need to continue to get that type of leadership.

Q. What is the quarterback situation going into the fall?

A. The starting spot is Todd Burnett's. He did a good job in spring practice to earn the position. He's our most experienced quarterback and that gave him an edge over Chuckie Burnette and Steve Jerry. But, he also played very well. He's an accurate passer who has a good knowledge of our offense. He's worked hard and increased his arm strength. He has also become a better runner although he still needs improvement there.

Steve did some excellent things running the football in the spring, but needs to improve in the passing game. Chuckie did some great things in the passing game, but needs to be more consistent and regain the confidence he lost last fall. With work over the summer, either of these two could challenge for the starting job.

Q. How much improvement did your tailbacks show in the spring?

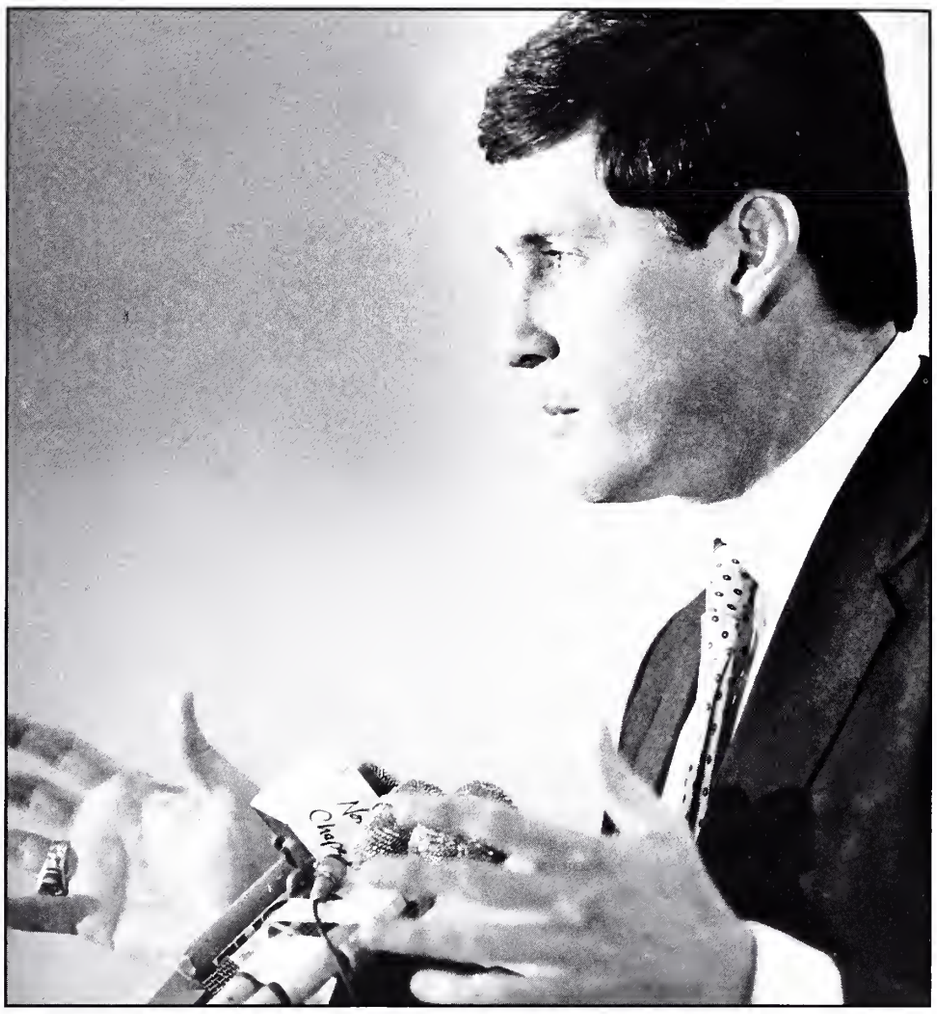
A. When you compare how they played last fall to how they were playing at the end of the spring, it's like talking about night and day. And, that's why you have spring practice. Randy Jordan got his confidence back. He was breaking tackles and going to the right place. Eric Bount completed his transition from being a finesse wide receiver to playing a more physical position like tailback. We really put those young guys in a tough spot last season by asking them to play tailback without benefit of any college experience there. Now that they have gone through a spring practice there, I will be disappointed if you don't see great improvement in them this year.

Q. Your staff has now been here for two seasons. Where has your team made the greatest progress in that time?

A. We've made the greatest progress in speed and strength. We did not feel like we had great strength when we came here. When we came we had three guys the pro scouts timed under 4.6 in the 40. This year we had 16. Rich Tuten's strength program has really paid dividends in both those areas.

Q. What has really impressed you the most about your first two seasons in Chapel Hill?

A. I think the thing that has impressed me the most is the way our fans have continued to hang in there and support us after two disastrous seasons like we've had. That's almost un-American now in college sports. I've really enjoyed the upbeat attitude our staff and players have had while working to overcome adversity. I haven't felt that any part of the program has been disjointed, been disloyal or fallen apart through two of the toughest football seasons that anybody has had. I'm very proud of that. I guess that has impressed me because that's very difficult to do these days.



Q. How would you assess the quality of Atlantic Coast Conference football?

A. It's much improved and much better than the national perception. We probably do not have great players in the numbers that some other leagues do. But, as far as upfront, quality players, the better teams in our league can compete with most people nationally.

Q. How good of a player is Kevin Donnalley?

A. Kevin Donnalley can be as good as anybody in America at offensive tackle. He's like Pat Crowley was for us last year except he's 6-5. Kevin gained a lot of experience last year after coming here from Davidson. There was some question if he could compete at this level as he had at Davidson where he did an outstanding job. There's no question now.

He's gone from 275 pounds to 295 in one year and seemed to handle that without any problem. He still has very good quickness which the pro scouts love so much in a big person. We feel like he can be as good as anyone anywhere at this position. The thing you look for in any sport is a dominating player and Kevin Donnalley can dominate a defensive lineman.

Q. What makes Dwight Hollier such a good player?

A. Dwight Hollier rarely makes a bad step and that's as much a key to being a great linebacker as anything. He's a very intelligent, very intense, very physical player who is an excellent leader for us. He has as much respect as anyone on our football team. He enjoys the game and makes big plays. He doesn't have the 4.5 speed of some linebackers, but he makes up for that with heart and a knack of finding the ball and getting to it. He has to be one of the best linebackers in our league and the nation.

Q. Your team has been honored by the College Football Association for graduating over 70 percent of its seniors for two straight years. That's higher than the percentage of regular students who graduate. What has been the key to that?

A. There are several factors. Our assistant coaches, who spend so much time with the players, have put an emphasis on getting a degree. We talk about it in recruiting and we talk about it regularly after the players get here. Our academic support system with John Blanchard and Brian Davis does as fine a job as anybody in the nation. That's a commitment that comes from Chancellor Hardin through John Swofford to that department, both financially and time-wise. If you're recruiting the right type of people and you put the emphasis on it, they'll understand it's important and get the work done. Our goal as a football team is to win the CFA graduation award and the ACC championship in the same year.

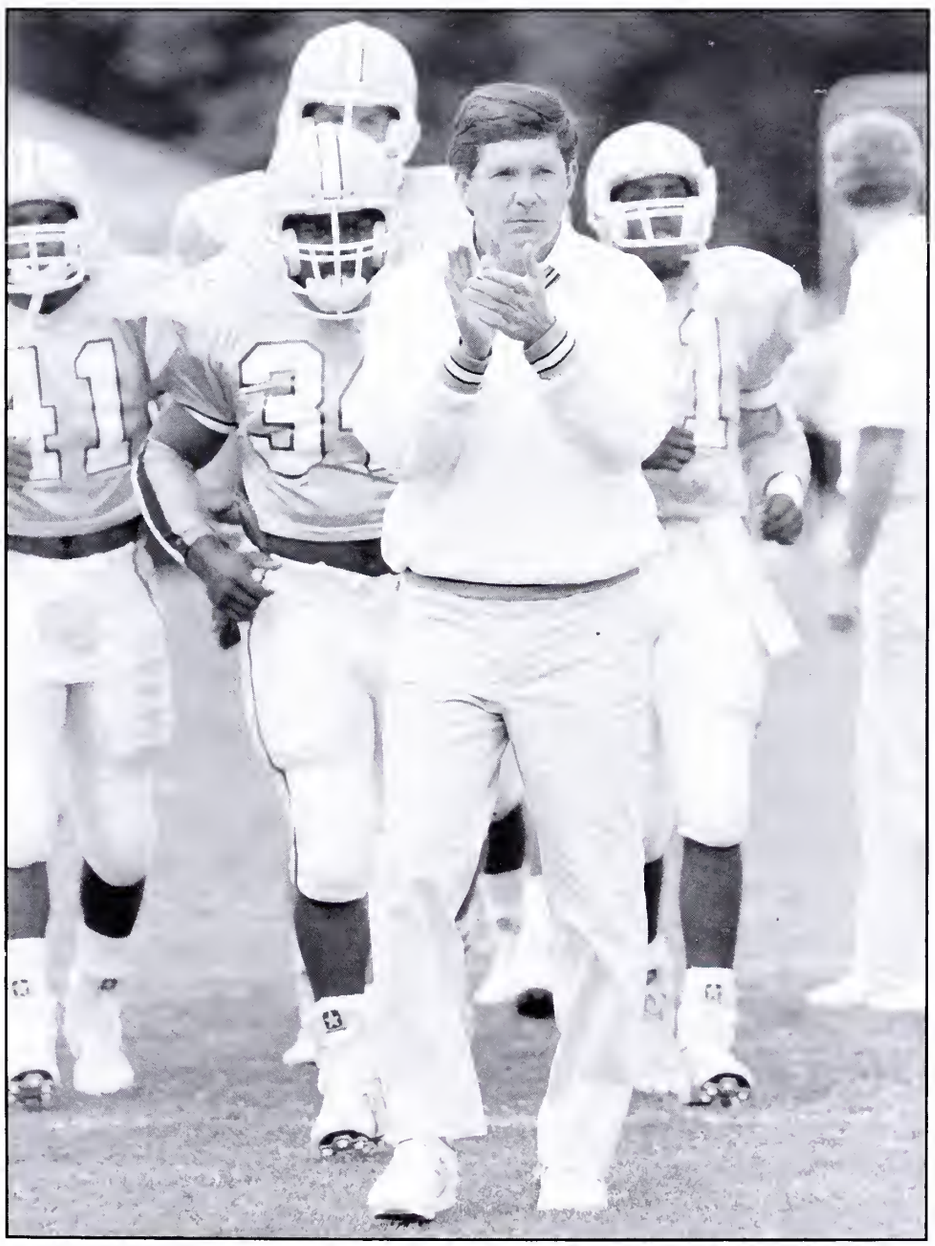
Q. Why did you go back to coaching a position this spring?

A. When I first got here I felt there were a number of things I had to do from a public relations standpoint. I wanted to let the media get to know me and understand our program, I wanted to get out and meet high school coaches and I wanted to go touch base with our Educational Foundation people.

But, winning is now one of the most important things we need to get done. I want our players to understand that I'm going to be spending more of my time involved on a day-to-day basis with helping them try to reach the goals they've been working so hard for over the last two years.

Q. How did the off-season strength program go?

A. If Rich Tuten isn't the best strength coach in the country, he's certainly as good as anyone else. I know he's got the attention of our players. They know that if they put forth the effort, they're going to get stronger and faster. We had very few injuries in the spring and we did a lot of hitting. The players deserve credit for that, but it's also a tribute to Rich's ability to put them in the right strength program.



Q. Of this year's 20 incoming freshmen, 15 are from the state of North Carolina and two others are from Virginia. Why have you concentrated so heavily on this area in recruiting?

A. You need to be able to recruit at home and sell your program there before you can consistently go to other parts of the country and get top players. We certainly don't want to go far away and end up taking a lesser player than there is here at home. One of the things that has helped us is that the people who are close to this area understand better where our program is and where it's going. They see the attitude of our fans, the commitment of our institution and the attitude of our current players. So it's been easier to recruit those guys closer to home who have a better understanding of how the program is being built than recruiting on a more national level. We have done some national recruiting and want to do even more once we get our program where it needs to be.

Q. Even though Carolina has struggled on the field the last two seasons, you have had two very good back-to-back recruiting classes. How have you accomplished that?

A. I think there are four reasons. We have a staff that enjoys recruiting and works very hard at it. They're very proud of how they do that part of their jobs. They understand that the type athlete, type student and type character you sign will decide whether you win games or not. Secondly, it's easy to recruit young people to a tremendous institution like this. They know it's almost impossible to top a Carolina education and our athletic facilities are as good as anyone's in the country.

Number three, our fans have been very supportive. High school players and parents can see that. And if the support is this good when we're struggling, how good can it be when we start winning?

The fourth part of this success has been our current players. You cannot recruit well unless your current players tell recruits they're happy here, unless they believe in the staff, unless they feel like they're being treated properly, unless they feel like they're going to win. So the best testimony to our recruiting is the young people we have on campus right now and their belief in the future.

Q. You have played 19 true freshmen in your first two seasons here. Is this something you plan to continue doing?

A. Under different circumstances we would not have played that many freshmen. We've had to put some freshmen in games because of our numbers situation more than because of their maturity or their readiness to play. We would like to continue playing freshmen if they're ready to go in and be a dominant player or an outstanding backup. What we want to get away from is playing them simply because there are no other people at their position when they show up.

Q. How far along is Carolina in rebuilding its football program?

A. In the past people have told me it takes you two years to figure out your problems and a third one to start correcting them. I felt like this would be at least a five-year project when we started and I think it's turning out that way. In the first year of a coaching transition, you usually don't have a great recruiting class. So our recruiting of last year and this year, our freshman and sophomore classes for next fall, are really what we're building our program on with the addition of some other players who were already here. And until those players get to be juniors and seniors and you can increase your numbers, you've still got a long way to go.

There are two ways to know your program is getting there. One is when you can sign a Tommy Thigpen, a Parade All-America linebacker, and be able to red-shirt him. The other is when you can play poorly and still win some games. Those will be the signs that we are pretty good — when we're signing great players and you're not hearing from them for a year or two and when we're winning on off days.

Q. What are your expectations for the upcoming year?

A. I expect us to be much better than we've been in the last two years. We certainly should be better coached and have a better plan based on our talent simply because we know more about our players now. I expect us to go into ballgames without people saying we have no chance to win. We should at least have a chance now. And I expect us to beat teams who are not as good as we are. I expect us to be better in all phases of play than we were last year. We are an improved football team and I expect us to show it.

91 Troy Barnett

Defensive Tackle

6-4, 230, Sophomore

Jacksonville, N.C.

Non-scholarship player who came out on his own last fall... Worked at outside linebacker on the scout team last year...Moved to defensive tackle during spring practice...Has the ability to contribute in the future...However, has a lot of work to do...Must improve his speed and strength...Seems to have the attitude to do that...Played football and basketball at Southwest High School...Played center, offensive tackle and defensive end on the fooball field...Won two letters...All-county and all-conference choice...Team MVP...Coached by Phil Padgett...Also lettered twice in basketball and was chosen his team's top defensive player...Good student who won three academic scholarships for college...Was a member of the National Honor Society...Class president in all three years of high school...Has a brother, Alonza, who was on the North Carolina A&T football team last year...Enrolled in the General College at Carolina with an interest in biology...Born May 24, 1971.

2 Cliff Baskerville

Defensive Back

5-10½, 171, Sophomore

Union, N.J.

Ended spring practice as a starter at left cornerback...Got important experience a year ago...Coaches had planned to red-shirt him when the season began...But, problems in the secondary gave him a chance to play...Missed the first four games before seeing action against Wake Forest...Started against Maryland and Duke and played as a backup in the other five games...Probably played his finest game against South Carolina...Had his only interception that day and also broke up two other passes...In addition, made three tackles and assisted on two others...Made a big play at Georgia Tech when he fell on a blocked punt in the end zone for a touchdown...Finished the year with 18 solo tackles and eight assists...Broke up four passes...Considering his inexperience, did a good job as a pass defender...Possesses good speed and quickness which help him as a cover man...Needs to get bigger and stronger...While last year's playing time has been valuable, he still needs more game action...Did a fine job in spring practice...Played especially well in the latter stages of the spring work...Was an all-metro, all-county and all-conference selection at Union High in 1988...Played quarterback, halfback and cornerback...Won his honors on defense with 48 tackles...Team defensive MVP...Also rushed for 608 yards on 77 carries, averaging 7.9 yards an attempt...As a junior he helped Union win conference, district and state championships...His team was ranked fifth nationally in the final USA TODAY Top 20 poll...Won three letters in football...Coached by Lou Rettino...Also earned three baseball letters...Taking pre-business courses in the General College at Carolina...Born August 27, 1971.

15 Ronald Bess

Defensive Back

5-7½, 171, Sophomore

Pinetops, N.C.

A walk-on who came out for the team last fall...One of the backups at cornerback...Has a good attitude about the game...A hustler who has contributed on the practice field...Came to Chapel Hill from Southwest Edgecombe.

12 Eric Blount

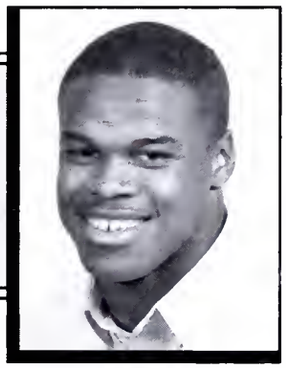
5-8½, 190, Junior

Ayden, N.C.



Heads into the fall as Carolina's starting tailback...Plans call for him to split time here with Randy Jordan...Was shifted to this position last fall after playing wide receiver as a true freshman in 1988...Was really put in a tough situation last year...Had to play tailback without benefit of a spring practice at the position...Made the position change because the team needed another quality player at tailback...Considering everything, he did a fine job...Wasn't as physical as a tailback needed to be, but that could have been expected with his move from a finesse spot like wide receiver...Was a much more physical player in the spring as he had gained strength and more knowledge about the position...Seemed more comfortable than he had been last fall...Position seemed more natural to him...Made great progress throughout the spring work...Had 13 carries for 81 yards in the Blue-White Game and scored twice...Still must work on his strength and endurance to handle the punishment a tailback has to take...Has the speed, quickness and running ability to be a big-play performer...Needs to become more consistent...

Despite his inexperience, finished as Carolina's second-leading rusher last fall with 409 yards...Averaged 4.8 yards a carry...Had a 33-yard touchdown run against VMI, the longest run from scrimmage of the Tar Heel season...Finished that game with a season-high 102 yards on 10 carries...His only other TD of the year also came in that game on an 11-yard run...Second best rushing effort came in the season finale with Duke...Had 76 yards that day on 13 carries...Almost made one of the biggest plays in Tar Heel history against Clemson...Broke off a 97-yard scoring run against the Tigers only to have it called back by an illegal procedure penalty...Had that play stood, it would have erased the oldest mark in the UNC record book — S.A. Ashe's 95-yard run from scrimmage against Trinity in 1895...Blount started at tailback against Maryland, Clemson and South Carolina...Opened in the backfield at fullback at Georgia Tech...Separated a shoulder in the Navy game...Missed the Wake Forest game and then saw only spot action at Virginia because of that injury...Was used as a kick returner for the second straight year...Had a 40-yard punt return at N.C. State, the longest for the Tar Heels all year...Returned a kickoff 40 yards at Maryland...Tied a school record with seven kickoff returns in that game with the Terps...Averaged 4.5 yards a punt return and 23.1 yards per kickoff return...That 23.1 average was the best at UNC since Phil Farris's 26.8 mark in 1979...Finished third in the Atlantic Coast Conference in kickoff returns and eighth in punt returns...Was seventh in the league in all-purpose yardage...Now has the eighth-best career kickoff return average in Carolina history at 21.9...Has returned 47 kickoffs for 1,030 yards...Is closing in on Randy Marriott's school record for career kickoff return yardage of 1,180.

Started eight games at split end in 1988...Although he had been mainly used as a running back in high school, he was shifted to wide receiver because of a need there and a chance for him to play quickly...Had 17 catches for 211 yards...Longest reception covered 20 yards...Most catches in a game was five at Wake Forest...His 17 catches were at the time the most ever in a season by a Carolina freshman...That record was broken by Randall Felton last fall...Only Tar Heel player to return a punt that year...Brought back 15 for 148 yards and a 9.9 average...Longest return was a 32-yarder against Virginia...Had three returns that day for 50 yards...Also had a 27-yard return against N.C. State...Only the third freshman to lead the team in punt returns since frosh became eligible in 1972 and just the second true freshman...Mel Collins was the other in 1974, while Walter Bailey was a red-shirt freshman when he did it in 1983...Blount also led the ACC in punt returns...Was the first Tar Heel to lead the league since Greg Poole in 1981...Also had 23 kickoff returns for 476 yards, an average of 20.7 yards an effort...Longest kickoff return was a 61-yard run against Louisville...Had five returns in that game for 141 yards...Gained 127 yards on six returns against Duke...Was an all-purpose performer at Ayden-Grifton High School...Played running back, defensive back and wide receiver and also returned kicks...Set 13 Eastern 2-A Conference records during his career...In 10 regular-season games as a senior, he had 2,011 all-purpose yards...Rushed for 1,103 yards on 147 carries, averaging 7.5 yards an attempt...Had four receptions for 110 yards, intercepted 10 passes for 149 yards, returned 15 punts for 439 yards and brought back six kickoffs for 210 yards...Added 743 more all-purpose yards in the state playoffs...Averaged 29.3 yards a punt return...Scored 20 touchdowns...Had four TDs on plays over 75 yards — a 90-yard punt return, an 85-yard kickoff return, an 80-yard reception and a 76-yard run...Ran for 1,008 yards as a junior, averaging 8.6 yards a carry and scoring 16 times...Area player of the year as a senior...All-East selection...All-conference choice on an 11-3 Eastern 2-A runner-up team...Named to DURHAM MORNING HERALD's Sweet 16...Chosen to play in the East-West All-Star Game...Coached by B.T. Chappell...Also won all-conference honors on a 19-9 basketball team...Majoring in RTVMP...Born September 22, 1970.

66 J.R. Boldin

Nose Guard

6-1½, 273, Sophomore

Chapel Hill, N.C.

Carolina's most improved defensive lineman in spring practice...Teams with Alex Simakas to make nose guard one of the strongest positions on the Tar Heel squad...Heads into the fall as the number two man to Simakas, but is sure to see plenty of action...Has the ability to be an important factor on defense...Physically, he's what Carolina needs at this position...Has excellent strength and runs very well for a down lineman...Plays with a lot of desire and intensity...A hard worker on and off the field...Came to Carolina as a linebacker, but was moved to nose guard during a red-shirt season in 1988...Had never played with his hands on the ground until that time...Did a good job on the scout team that year...Went head-to-head a lot with third-team All-America center Jeff Garnica and that experience was a great benefit to him...Played a good deal last fall while still learning the position...Started against Navy, Wake Forest, Virginia and Georgia Tech...Tied Willie Joe Walker for 12th place on the team in total hits with 45...Had 25 solos and 20 assists...Also had three tackles for losses and three sacks...May have played his best game against Navy with five tackles, two assists, two sacks and one tackle for a loss...His other sack came at Kentucky...Had five solo tackles at Virginia...Was in on seven hits at N.C. State with three tackles and four assists...Has now been at the position long enough that he seemed very comfortable there in the spring...Was used at defensive tackle late in spring practice just to give him some knowledge of the position...That versatility could be a help this fall...Wants to be a good player and has gone about it in the right way with his work in the weight room and on the practice field...Being counted on for major contributions this year...Was a linebacker, defensive end and fullback at Orange High School...Played in just seven games in his senior season...Missed four with an injury...Still had 53 tackles and four sacks...Caused 11 fumbles and recovered one...Blocked a punt, scored a safety and had three touchdowns at fullback...Twice an all-conference selection...All-East and all-area choice as a senior...Picked to all-state teams chosen by the Associated Press and the GREENSBORO NEWS & RECORD...In the DURHAM MORNING HERALD Sweet 16...Named to Super Prep All-America Team...A Shrine Bowl selection...Orange's team captain as a senior...Won three football letters...Coached by Jay Gilbo...Also lettered three times in track...Set the school shot put record of 54-1...Majoring in speech...Born April 17, 1970.

71 Brian Bollinger

Offensive Guard

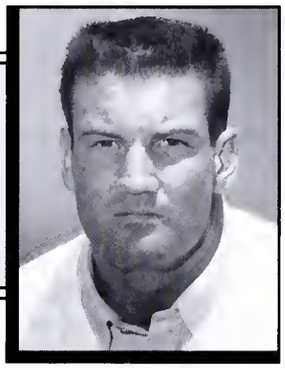
Indialantic, Fla.



Won the starting left quard position with a fine showing in spring practice...Should team with Kevin Donnalley to give Carolina great blocking on the left side of the line...Capable of being a big-time player...Has all the tools to play...Has gotten bigger and stronger throughout his Tar Heel career...Also runs very well for a man of his size...His biggest drawback is a lack of experience...Got a lot of work in the spring, but needs to play under fire...Will get that chance this fall...Improved from the first day of spring practice to the last...Will continue to get better and better every week he plays this season...Originally came to Carolina as a tight end in 1987 and was red-shirted...Saw spot action as the number three tight end the following year...Most of his playing time came on special teams and in short-yardage situations...Opened the 1989 season as the starting tight end...However, after one week was shifted to a backup position at tackle because of a depth problem there...Then went to guard last spring...Played on two district championship teams at Melbourne High School...Used at tight end and defensive end...Had never played football until lettering his junior year...Named his team's most improved player as a senior...His teams had a two-year record of 17-5...Coached by Tom McIntyre...A speech major...Born November 21, 1968.

Defensive Back

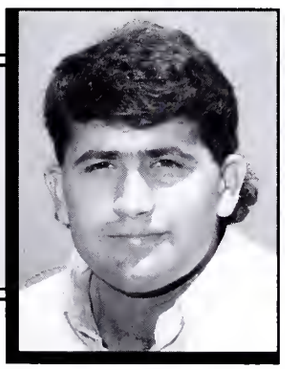
Durham, N.C.



A reserve in the secondary...A walk-on who is working at strong safety...Played at Episcopal School in Virginia...Worked at fullback and linebacker there...An all-prep choice...Named his team's MVP and top defender as a senior...Won two letters for Coach B.K. Mundy...Also lettered twice in lacrosse and three times in wrestling...An all-prep wrestling choice in his final two years...Won a Virginia independent state wrestling championship as a senior...His father, a doctor, played football and baseball at RPI...Bolognesi came to Carolina on a Morehead Scholarship, the highest academic award given by the University...Enrolled in the General College, he plans to take pre-med courses...Born June 23, 1971.

68 Bill Boyd

Offensive Tackle

6-8, 304, Senior

Hampton, Va.

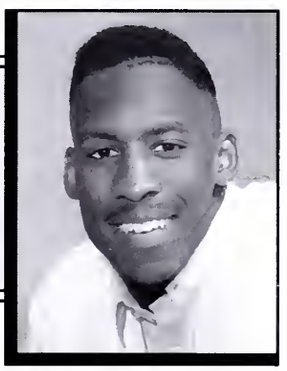
Backup tackle whose career has been hampered by a shoulder injury...That injury limited his playing time last fall and kept him out of spring practice...Thus, is somewhat of a question mark going into the new season...If he's healthy he could be a key man in the offensive interior...Listed behind Kevin Donnalley at left tackle...However, has the ability to start...Smart and can play either side...Saw brief stints of playing time in 1988 in a relief role...Has displayed the potential to contribute when he has been healthy...Needs better overall body strength...However, it has been difficult for him to work in the weight room because of his shoulder...That has curtailed his lifting time...Has missed a lot of important practice time, too...But, he's a diligent performer and if healthy, will strive to make up for that in the pre-season drills...Did not see any action in 1987 after being red-shirted in 1986...Won three football letters at Kecoughtan High School...All-Peninsula selection at offensive tackle...Also played nose quard on defense...Chosen his team's top lineman in eight of his nine games as a senior...Blocked three punts...Named to the ROANOKE TIMES Top 25 in Virginia...Coached by Johnny Pauls...Picked for the East-West All-Star Game...Also lettered three times in basketball, averaging eight points and eight rebounds as a senior...Has a double major of psychology and economics...Born August 11, 1968.

7 Bucky Brooks

Wide Receiver

6-0, 181, Sophomore

Raleigh, N.C.



In a hot battle for playing time at wide receiver...Ended the spring tied with Julius Reese for the number two flanker spot behind Randall Felton...Competition for playing time there should continue in pre-season practice...Was forced into action early last year because of injuries and the move of Eric Blount to tailback...Was one of four true freshmen to start the season opener against VMI...Reese, Rondell Jones and Tommy Thigpen were the others...That marked the first time since frosh became eligible in 1972 that a true freshman started the first game of the year for Carolina...Also started at flanker against Kentucky and N.C. State and at split end against South Carolina...However, plans call for him to only play flanker this year...Played in 10 games a year ago...Made 12 catches for 144 yards, an average of 12.0 per reception...Longest catch was a 26-yarder against Navy...That came in the closing seconds of the game and Carolina faced with a fourth-and-seven at its own 18-yard line...Made two outstanding catches in a last-minute desperation drive at Georgia Tech...Pulled in a 17-yarder on a fourth-and-10 play and a 19-yarder on a third-and-10...Took big hits on both of those receptions, but came up with the ball...Had a solid spring...Was a much improved receiver in the spring...Needs to become more consistent in running his routes and as a blocker...Fastest of the wideouts...A record-setting receiver at Millbrook High...Had 63 catches for 1,110 yards and 13 touchdowns as a senior...Added another TD on the ground ...Set Triangle records for receptions and yardage...Also had record 203 yards on receptions in one game...Had five catches in that game against Athens Drive, three for touchdowns...Also grabbed three TD passes against Sanderson...Made 35 catches for 735 yards and 10 touchdowns as a junior...Had seven catches against Garner for 191 yards and two scores...Set school single-season and career records for catches and yardage...Led his Millbrook team to an 11-2 record his senior year...Two-time all-conference, All-Triangle and All-East selection...Chosen conference offensive player of the year and Wake County 4-A Player of the Year...Named to the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER's Top 25 in North Carolina and the RALEIGH NEWS & OBSERVER's Top 30...Coached by Earl Smith...Won two football letters, two in basketball and three in track...Starting point quard on his basketball team...Set the school long jump record of 21-3...His father, William, played basketball at Shaw...Studying in the General College at Carolina, but wants to major in RTVMP...Born January 22, 1971.

52 Paul Brooks

Linebacker

5-11, 210, Sophomore

Pembroke, N.C.

Very aggressive young player who showed some promise in the spring...Came to Carolina without a scholarship and joined the team on his own...A real hitter at linebacker...Had a couple of very good scrimmages during the spring work...Could help this fall on special teams...Needs to get bigger and stronger...Won two football letters at West Robeson High School...Played linebacker and tight end...Made over 100 tackles in each of his two varsity seasons...Two-time all-conference and all-county selection...An All-Piedmont choice...Coached by Mark Hell...Also won three letters in baseball ...In the General College at Carolina...Born September 21, 1971.

80 Craig Brown

Tight End

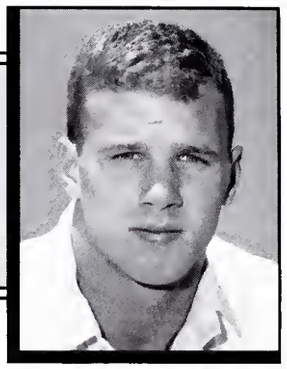
Virginia Beach, Va.



Played in all 11 games last fall, starting four times...Only had one catch, a five-yard reception at Kentucky...Was red-shirted in 1988...Possesses excellent athletic ability...Fastest of the tight ends...However, he has to get bigger and stronger...Must do that in order to compete for playing time...Faces battle from Deems May and Ethan Albright for the tight end spot...Ended the spring tied with Albright for the number two job...Was having a good spring until suffering an ankle injury with 10 days left...Missed the spring game and some important practice time...Needs to improve his running of pass routes...A good blocker who could be outstanding with a little more size and strength...Understands the position and is a fine technician...Played tight end and linebacker at Kempsville High School...Caught 16 passes there for 251 yards as a senior...A three-year starter who played on two district championship teams...All-Tidewater on defense and all-district choice at two positions in his senior season...Named to coaches' all-state team...Chosen to the ROANOKE TIMES Top 25 in Virginia...Super Prep All-America selection...Picked for the East-West All-Star Game...Coached by Ralph Gahagan...Also lettered three times in basketball...Played one year with former Carolina All-America J.R. Reid...His twin brother, Curt was his high school quarterback and is a Tar Heel outside linebacker...His father, James, played football at the U.S. Naval Academy from 1964 to 1967...Majoring in psychology...Born April 5, 1970.

89 Curt Brown

Outside Linebacker

Virginia Beach, Va.

One of the surprises of the spring...Established himself as someone who will see action this fall...Will probably get that playing time at defensive tackle as well as at outside linebacker...Got bigger, stronger and faster during the off-season conditioning program...Followed that up with a fine showing in the spring work...Stayed healthy and did some very nice things...Agreed to work at defensive tackle in addition to outside linebacker...Had a great attitude about that...Just wants to play somewhere and that impressed the coaching staff...Has good athletic skills for a down lineman...His speed makes him especially effective at that position...Is being counted on to contribute in the defensive front...Heads into the fall behind Jonathan Perry at one outside linebacker spot and in a dead heat with Austin Robbins for the top backup job to tackle Dennis Tripp...Saw only limited playing time last season...A great deal of his action came on special teams...Played enough to earn a letter...Was red-shirted in 1988...Opened that fall as a quarterback on the scout team before being shifted to defense at mid-season...It was evident that with his toughness, aggressiveness, mobility and size, he could eventually help on defense...Quarterbacked Kempsville to a 7-4 record in 1987 and a district championship...His team finished second in the region...Ran for 358 yards and scored seven touchdowns...Completed 35 of 76 passes for 583 yards and three TDs...Leading passer in the district...All-Tidewater, all-district and all-region...Named top player in the district and team MVP...Selected to the ROANOKE TIMES Top 25 in Virginia...Super Prep All-America choice...Played defensive back as a sophomore...Coached by Ralph Gahagan ...Played on the same Kempsville High basketball team with former UNC All-America J.R. Reid for one season...His twin brother, Craig, is a Tar Heel tight end...His dad, James, played football at Navy from 1964 to 1967...Majoring in history...Born April 5, 1970.

15 Todd Burnett

Quarterback

Burke, Va.

Here's the Tar Heel quarterback...Won the starting job with a fine showing in spring practice...Only played in three games a year ago...In fact, plans had called for him to be red-shirted and not to play at all...But, was forced into action at mid-season after Jonathan Hall was injured...Came off the bench in the second half at Maryland to complete eight of 16 passes for 77 yards...Then went all the way at quarterback the following week against Clemson...Was 12 for 22 passing that day for 120 yards...Considering the fact he had gotten little work with the number one offense during the season, that was a very good showing...Started out very well in the next game against South Carolina...Probably moved the Tar Heel offense better than it had been moved all year...Hit on six of 10 passes for 79 yards before being injured midway in the second quarter...Was hit from the blind side, suffering a lacerated kidney and liver...That sidelined him for the season finale with Duke...In his limited playing time, completed 26 of 48 passes, a percentage of .542...Threw for 276 yards.

Coaches had also hoped to red-shirt him in 1988, but were unable to do so...Plans changed when the offense sputtered at mid-season...With the Tar Heels needing an offensive lift, he was inserted into the lineup in hopes he could provide a spark...Started the last five games...Was the first true freshman to start a game at quarterback since Hall opened against Clemson in 1985...The first true freshman to start the first game in which he played since frosh became eligible in 1972...Like Hall, he helped engineer a big win in his initial start...Completed 13 of 22 passes for 130 yards in a 20-17 victory over Georgia Tech...Made mistakes in that game, but showed a lot of poise...Had five completions on third-and-long to keep drives going...After throwing an interception which was returned for a touchdown, he completed eight of his next 10 passes...Was five-for-five in the air during the Tar Heels' two second half touchdown drives...Hit 10 of 20 passes the following week against Maryland in a narrow 41-38 loss...Passed for 117 yards in that game...Was 11 for 23 at Clemson for 82 yards...That included a 23-yard touchdown pass to John Keller...Got off to a slow start against Virginia, hitting just three of eight first half passes for 12 yards...However, completed his first six of the second half and nine of his first 10...Finished the day with 15 completions in 23 attempts for 146 yards and two TDs...The scores were 26 and 16-yard passes to Randy Marriott as Carolina roared from a 21-0 first quarter deficit to tie the game at 24 in the fourth period...The Cavaliers came back to win with a late field goal when the Tar Heels couldn't score on their last two possessions...Burnett's 15 completions that day are the most ever by a Carolina freshman...He was only three-for-nine throwing in the final game at Duke...Did not see as much action as in previous weeks as the Tar Heels were having good success with Hall handling the running game...Burnett finished the year with 52 completions out of 97 attempts for 497 yards and three touchdowns...Threw five interceptions...Passing percentage was .536...Was the first freshman to lead the team in completions since Matt Kupec in 1976.

Despite playing under adverse conditions in his first two seasons, has completed over 50 percent of his passes...An accurate passer who understands the offense and his ability...Intelligent and plays within that ability on the field...A good intermediate passer, he has improved his deep throwing...That had been a concern in the past...Still needs more work in the running game...That will enable him to run the option and scramble better when the play's not there...Has excellent work habits...A tremendous leader who is very respected by his teammates...Was an all-region and all-district quarterback at Lake Braddock High School...Second-team all-metro selection by the WASHINGTON POST...Named the region's co-offensive player of the year...Passed for 1,700 yards and 17 touchdowns as a senior...Had five TD passes in one game and a high of 270 yards passing in a game...Team's most valuable player...Named to the ROANOKE TIMES Top 25 in Virginia...Coached by Joe Clark...One of his wide receivers was Hubert Davis, an all-state selection who is on a basketball scholarship at Carolina...Also lettered in track...Majoring in religious studies...Born February 19, 1970.

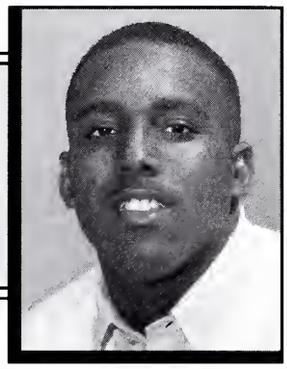
11 Chuckie Burnette

Quarterback

5-11½, 198, Sophomore

Burlington, N.C.



In the battle for playing time at quarterback...He and Steve Jerry go into the fall behind Todd Burnett at that spot...Saw considerable action as a true freshman last year...Started against Navy, Wake Forest, Maryland and Duke and played as a backup in three others...Sprained a knee against Wake and missed games with Virginia and Georgia Tech...In his first varsity action against VMI, he completed six of 10 passes for 48 yards...His first start against Navy came on a rainy afternoon and he hit on just eight of 29 throws...Most completions in a game were 10 in a relief role against South Carolina...Had a season-high 122 yards that day...Also threw his only touchdown passes in that game—a 30-yarder to Joey Jauch and a 10-yarder to Randall Felton...Completed 44 of 133 passes on the year for 520 yards...As he and the team struggled during the season he lost important confidence...That hurt his play as much as anything down the stretch...Came back to have a good spring... Got off to a slow start because of a leg injury which caused him to miss the first week of drills...However, he finished the spring very well...Was an improved player during the spring work...Worked hard to regain the confidence he lost last year...Possesses the best arm strength and quickest release of the quarterback candidates...But, must become more consistent as a passer...Also has to improve his strength and ability to run the option.

Had a storied career at Cummings High School...His high school number 11 was retired there prior to last season...Named the state's high school player of the year in 1988 by the Associated Press, GREENSBORO NEWS & RECORD, the North Carolina High School Athletic Association, USA TODAY and the ORLANDO SENTINEL...Also won the Dodd Award from the Touchdown Club of Atlanta as the best high school player in North Carolina...Chosen to USA TODAY's Super 100, the Sporting News Top 100 and the Super Prep All-America Team...All-state selection by the Associated Press and the GREENSBORO NEWS & RECORD after being the only junior picked to the latter team in 1987...Named to the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER's Top Five in North Carolina and the RALEIGH NEWS & OBSERVER Top Five...On the ORLANDO SENTINEL's Dixie Dozen and All-Southern Team... Set 10 state passing records...Completed 213 of 334 throws as a senior for 3, 240 yards, all state marks...Passing percentage of 63.8 was the best in state history and ranked as the fourth-best all-time nationally...Had 24 touchdown passes...Hit on a title game record 23 completions out of 32 attempts in the state 3-A finals against Shelby for 331 yards and three TDs as Cummings won, 41-14...Set state career records of 408 completions, 693 attempts, 52 touchdown passes, 58.9 percent accuracy and 6,473 passing yards...His career passing percentage ranked fifth all-time nationally...Was 116 of 183 throwing as a junior for 1,951 yards and 22 TDs...His teams were 15-0 in his senior year, 11-1 as a junior and 12-2 as a sophomore, winning three straight conference titles...Three-time all-conference choice and conference player of the year as a junior and senior... Selected for the Shrine Bowl, but could not play because of the 3-A championship game...Coached by David Gutshall...Also lettered in basketball and track...His brother, Robbie, played football at Elon...Enrolled in the General College at Carolina...Born November 26, 1970.

93 Tony Butler

Defensive Tackle

Laurel Hill, N.C.

Has worked in both the offensive and defensive lines in his time at Carolina...Goes into the fall as one of the reserves on defense... Worked very hard in spring practice...Has good size, but must get stronger and quicker...Originally came to Chapel Hill in 1987 and was red-shirted...Was an offensive tackle at Scotland County High School...Team captain and MVP as a senior...All-conference selection...Named to the RALEIGH NEWS & OBSERVER Top 30 in North Carolina and the RALEIGH TIMES Top 25...Chosen for the Shrine Bowl...Won three football letters...In his three seasons, there, Scotland County made the state playoffs each year and lost only two conference games...Coached by Don Johnson...Also lettered in track...Majoring in physical education...Born April 18, 1969.

43 Craig Camp

Outside Linebacker

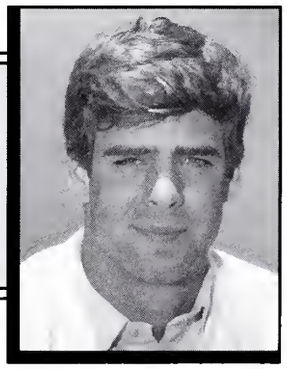
Jacksonville, Fla.



Walk-on who has some improving to do before he can make a contribution on the field...However, has been hampered in his efforts by a shoulder injury he suffered in high school...Is still coming back from that...Worked hard in the spring...A graduate of the Bolles School...Taking pre-business courses in the General College...Born October 16, 1970.

16 Chris Causey
Linebacker
5-9, 196, Senior
Greensboro, N.C.

Earned a letter by doing a good job last year on special teams ...Should help there again this fall...Was hurt during spring practice and missed valuable work...A very aggressive and intense competitor...Always gives a maximum effort...A transfer from Guilford who sat out the 1988 season because of the NCAA transfer rule... Played strong safety on the scout team that fall...Was moved to linebacker the following spring...His brother, Bryan, lettered here as a defensive back in 1987 and 1988...Played at Western Guilford High School...Majoring in industrial relations...Born December 16, 1968.

32 Reggie Clark
Outside Linebacker
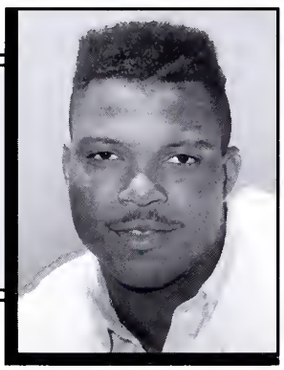
Charlotte, N.C.



Top backup to Eric Gash at one outside linebacker post...This is his fourth different position in four years...Played strong safety last season, wide receiver as a sophomore and tailback as a freshman...This move should be a boost to the defense...Brings excellent physical tools to the position...Has size, strength and speed...Could be a big-play performer...Also has a great attitude...A hard worker and a hitter...Picked up the new position very quickly in the spring...Will get even better once he gains some game experience here...Started the first nine games of the year at strong safety last fall...Finished the season with 28 solo tackles and 13 assists...Caused two fumbles and recovered two...Had one sack and two tackles for losses...Most hits in a game were seven at Kentucky where he had five solo tackles and two assists...Made several big plays against Navy with five solo tackles, one assist, one pass broken up and one tackle for a loss... Also caused a fumble on the UNC seven-yard line with a big hit to kill one fourth quarter scoring threat...Later he recovered another Navy fumble on his own 14 to end another drive by the Midshipmen...Got his sack at Georgia Tech along with three other tackles, one assist and a fumble recovery...Played nine games at flanker in 1988, starting at South Carolina...Made six catches for 109 yards, averaging 18.2 yards a reception...Had touchdown catches of 24 yards at Auburn and six yards at Wake Forest...Was one of just three true freshmen to see action in 1987...Played in five games...After being held out of the first three, was forced into action at Navy as Carolina's tailback position was riddled by injuries...Had 14 carries for 56 yards that day...Also had 56 yards on 13 carries against Wake Forest...Made his only start at N.C. State and finished with 49 yards on 12 rushes...Had 13 carries for 59 yards at Maryland...Only TD that season came on a five-yard run against Wake...Longest run was a 31-yard sprint against Maryland...Slowed late in the year by bruised ribs...Came to Carolina from Providence Day School where he was a four-time all-conference running back...Also won all-conference honors as a defensive back in 1985 and 1986...Rushed for 1,012 yards as a freshman, 979 as a sophomore, 1,026 as a junior and 1,803 as a senior...Scored 21 touchdowns in his senior season and also intercepted seven passes...Led his team to a 9-1 record and the NCISAA state championship...Chosen to the DURHAM MORNING HERALD Sweet 16, the RALEIGH TIMES Top 25 in North Carolina and the RALEIGH NEWS & OBSERVER Top 30...Team MVP four times...Coached by Steve Shaughnessey...Also won four letters in basketball and baseball...Played on four conference basketball championship teams, two state champions and two state runners-up...All-conference three times in both basketball and baseball... A speech major...Born October 17, 1967.

A non-scholarship player...Has a good attitude and a lot of desire...Wants to play and has developed good work habits...Needs to concentrate on strength and speed development...Played at Park City High School...In the General College at Carolina...Born September 15, 1970.

63 James Demetrakis
Center
5-11½, 280, Freshman
Winston-Salem, N.C.

Young player who has progress to make...Worked at offensive guard during a red-shirt season last fall...Shifted to center during spring practice...Must improve his techniques to get in the picture for playing time...Was an all-conference defensive lineman at Parkland High School...Also won All-Northwest North Carolina honors and was named to the GREENSBORO NEWS & RECORD all-state team...Among the RALEIGH NEWS & OBSERVER's Top 30 in North Carolina...Made 125 tackles as a senior...Recorded 10 quarterback sacks...Blocked two punts and one field goal...Made one play for a safety...Saw action on offense as well, playing tackle, quard, wingback and fullback...Scored two touchdowns running... Also did some place-kicking...Coached by Homer Thompson... Chosen for the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game...Had a 29-5 record as a wrestler in his senior year, finishing fourth in the state championships...That included 23 pins...Two-time conference champ...Also lettered in track, throwing the discus and shot...Studying in the General College, but interested in journalism as an eventual major...Born January 10, 1971.

52 Andy Dinkin
Center
Potomac, Md.

Set to start at center this fall...Moved to this position after working at quard for the past two years...Saw action in a backup role early last season before starting the final four games at right guard...A hard worker who did an excellent job in the off-season conditioning program...Of all the possibilities for the opening at center, coaches felt he could best handle the intricacies of the job...Struggled early in spring practice...But worked as had been expected and got better every day he was on the field...Has a lot of desire...Wants to be a good player and is capable of being just that...Squad member who didn't get playing time in 1988...Started his Carolina career on defense...Played there while being red-shirted in 1987...Shifted to offense the following spring...Was an all-metro lineman at Winston Churchill High School...Played defensive tackle, nose quard, offensive guard and offensive tackle...Twice won all-county and all-conference honors...Made 94 tackles as a junior with nine sacks, four fumble recoveries and four batted passes...As a senior had 82 tackles, 11 sacks, two fumble recoveries and eight batted passes...Received honorable mention on Adidas All-America Team...Coached by Fred Shepherd...Won two football letters and three in track...His brother, Greg, is a football player at Cornell...Majoring in economics...Born December 26, 1969.

76 Kevin Donnalley
Offensive Tackle
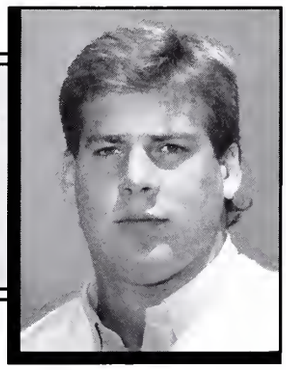
Raleigh, N.C.



The latest in a long line of standout offensive linemen at Carolina...Has the potential to be one of the best of them all...Possesses everything a great lineman needs—size, strength, agility, speed, quickness and intelligence...Also has experience after starting every game at left tackle a year ago...Had sat out the 1988 season after transferring from Davidson...Proved last fall he can not only compete at the Division I level, but that he can be a dominating player...In fact, was one of the Atlantic Coast Conference's best linemen down the stretch in 1989...Felt his way along early in the year as he shook off the rust from his season on the sidelines...However, was sensational the last half of the year...Tar Heel coaches switched All-ACC performer Pat Crowley from right to left guard in the latter stages of the year so he and Donnalley could team together on the same side of the line...Unfortunately for Donnalley, his play was generally over-shadowed by that of Crowley...But, now Donnalley's the leader of the line and one of the Tar Heels' key performers...Being counted on heavily not only for great play, but also as a leader...Has done an outstanding job for the last two years in the winter conditioning program...Has added 18 pounds to his frame since the end of last season...Did that without losing any quickness...Possesses unlimited possibilities as a player...Although Carolina has produced a number of all-star linemen, not many have attracted the attention of professional scouts as quickly as Donnalley...They love his size and work ethic...Even while sitting out the 1988 season he gave a good effort on the scout field...Played at Athens Drive High School...Coached there by Richard Nixon...Won two football letters while playing offensive guard and defensive end...Donnalley not only excels on the playing field, but in the classroom, too...Was named to the ACC All-Academic Football Team last fall...Also on the GTE District III Academic All-America Team...Two brothers, Rick and Brian, also played football at Carolina...Rick was an all-conference center here in 1980 and a second-team Associated Press All-America selection...He went on to play professionally with the Pittsburgh Steelers and Kansas City Chiefs...Kevin is majoring in economics...Born June 10, 1968.

69 Maurice Drayton

A hard-hitting walk-on...Joined the team last fall...Has good size...Is very aggressive...A possible special teams performer...Played at Lakeside High School...Attending Carolina on a Morehead Scholarship, the highest academic award given by the University...A political science major...Born December 26, 1970.

77 Scott Falise

Offensive Guard

6-3, 269, Freshman

Pittsburgh, Pa.

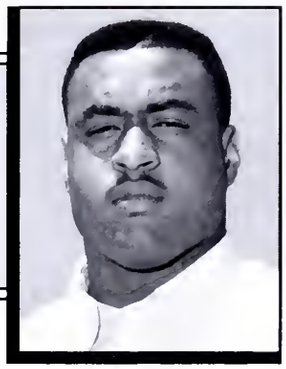
Set to start at right guard this fall...Was red-shirted last season...Then was impressive in the off-season weight program...Displayed a great attitude throughout the winter workouts...Opened spring practice as the starter and never lost that job...A tough and hard-nosed competitor...Possesses good strength and great desire...Has good football intelligence...Reacts well on the field...Despite his inexperience, being counted on heavily this year...A three-time football letterman at Penn Hills High...Played offensive and defensive tackle...All-conference choice as a junior and senior...All-district selection as a senior...Also named to the PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE Fabulous 22...PITTSBURGH PRESS East All-Star selection...GATEWAY PRESS All-Stars as a junior and senior ...As an offensive lineman, helped lead the way for two 900-yard backs in his final year there... Team offensive MVP as a junior and squad captain as a senior...Coached by Neil Gordon...Taking pre-business courses in the General College...Born September 15, 1970.

34 Mike Faulkerson

Fullback

6-0, 241, Sophomore

Kingsport, Tenn.



An ideal I-formation fullback...Big and physical...Saw a great deal of action as the number two fullback behind Michael Benefield last year...Now he has taken over the top job...Was a good blocker and an average runner last season...Has the ability to be an outstanding blocker...Gets very good leverage as a blocker...Also has fine strength and toughness...Did some things in the winter conditioning program to improve his running...That paid off as his running ability was one of the pleasant surprises of spring practice...Became a leader in the spring...Has the respect of the other players...A very hard worker...Had a 38-yard touchdown catch against VMI last season, the longest scoring reception of the Tar Heel season...Was red-shirted in 1988...A running back and linebacker at Dobyns-Bennett High School in 1987...Won two football letters there...Ran for 1,300 yards as a senior on 123 carries, averaging 10.6 yards a rush...Scored 21 touchdowns...Two of those TDs came on punt returns...Number one scorer in East Tennessee...Team MVP as a junior and senior...Led his team to back-to-back undefeated regular seasons and final 11-1 records...Played on two straight conference, district and regional championship teams...Conference player of the year as a senior...Named to the KINGSPORT TIMES NEWS Sweet 16 and KNOXVILLE NEWS-SENTINEL Top 25 in Tennessee...Coached by Ted Wilson...Lettered four times in track...All-district and all-region hurdler...Majoring in speech at Carolina...Born September 9, 1970.

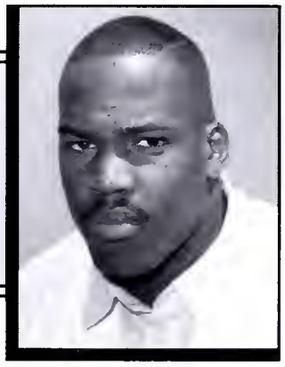
9 Randall Felton

Wide Receiver

6-0, 194, Sophomore

Durham, N.C.



Pushed into action a year ago and did an excellent job as a true freshman...Got more playing time than had been anticipated because of injuries to other wide receivers...Took advantage of that opportunity and established himself as one of the best young receivers in the Atlantic Coast Conference ...Finished the year as Carolina's leading receiver with 37 catches for 495 yards and one touchdown...Averaged 13.4 yards a catch...Tied for ninth in the ACC in receiving...Was the first freshman to top the Tar Heels in pass-catching since Mike Rubish in 1945...His 37 catches were the most ever by a freshman at Carolina or by a freshman wide reciever in the ACC...The 37 catches equalled the eighth-highest single-season total in school history...Also set a school record for catches in a game by a freshman with seven at Virginia...His 116 yards on receptions in that game were also the most ever by a UNC freshman...Started the last eight games at flanker...Made 33 of his catches in the last seven games of the year...Had a 64-yard reception at Virginia, longest ever by a Carolina freshman...That was the longest pass play of the Tar Heel season and the longest non-scoring catch in the ACC all year...Was sensational in a final drive against Wake Forest in just his second start...Had four catches for 60 yards in that touchdown march...A couple of those were simply incredible diving grabs...However, may have made his most spectacular catch against Duke...His stretched-out reception of a 30-yard pass had to be seen to be believed...His only touchdown came on a 10-yard reception against South Carolina...Tied with Tommy Thigpen in voting as the team's outstanding first-year player...Followed up his big initial season with a fine showing in spring practice...Ended the spring as the starting flanker, but should be pushed for that job by Julius Reese and Bucky Brooks in the fall...Needs to be more consistent in running routes and in his blocking...That should come with more experience...Already has a knack for making the big play...Used on occasion to return kickoffs and punts last fall and could be the punt returner this year.

Caught 40 passes for 707 yards and seven touchdowns as a senior at Jordan High School in 1988...Played wide reciever, running back and defensive back...Also used as a return specialist...Ran back one kickoff and two punts for touchdowns...Intercepted eight passes at free safety...Had two-year totals of 78 receptions for 1,319 yards and 10 TDs...Brought back two kickoffs and three punts for scores...Twice named all-conference, all-area and all-city/county...All-conference at three positions as a senior and picked league's back of the year...Area and city/county player of the year...Selected to the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER's Top 25 in North Carolina and the Raleigh NEWS & OBSERVER Top 30...Played in the Shrine Bowl...Coached by Larry Junkin...Won two football letters at Jordan and two at Perquimans High...Also earned three letters in basketball and three in track...In the General College at Carolina and planning a major in industrial relations...Born January 17, 1971.

95 Eric Gash

Outside Linebacker

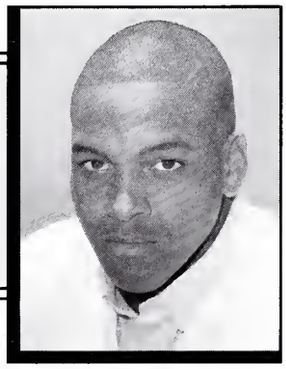
Hendersonville, N.C.



Could be one of the best players in the Atlantic Coast Conference...Rates as one of Carolina's leading all-star candidates...Broke into the starting lineup late in the 1988 season and then started all 11 games last fall...Was the Tar Heels' fifth-leading tackler with 49 solo hits and 26 assists...Led the team with four sacks and tied for the team lead with seven tackles for losses...Only nine players in the ACC recorded more sacks...His total of 11 hits behind the line of scrimmage was the fourth highest in the conference...Consistently graded a winning performance throughout the year...Was in on a career-high 13 hits at Kentucky, including eight solo tackles...Had four solos, one assist, a tackle for a loss, a sack and a caused fumble against Wake Forest...Played very well at Virginia with six solos and two tackles for losses...Had two sacks at Maryland...Played a great game against South Carolina with seven solos, four assists and a tackle for a loss...Credited with four solos, three assists, two tackles for losses and a caused fumble at Georgia Tech...Saw action as a true freshman during the last half of the 1988 season...Played as a backup and on special teams beginning with the Auburn game...Started the final two games of the year against Virginia and Duke...Finished the season with 14 solo tackles and 10 assists...Top performance may have been against Virginia when he was in on eight hits with three tackles and five assists...Also had a sack that day...Made four solo tackles and had two assists at Clemson...In two years of competition, has been one of the team's most consistent players...Had a good year last season...Should be even better this fall...Heads into the new season after an outstanding spring showing...Has improved his weight, strength and speed every year he has been on campus...Has the size, quickness and intelligence to be a star at this position... Possesses the ability to be a big-play performer on defense...Has a knack for getting to the passer...Moves well and thinks on the run...Despite his youth, is already a mature player...Being counted on as a leader this fall...Could play either outside linebacker slot...Was a two-way performer at Hendersonville High School...Played tight end and defensive tackle...Caught 39 passes as a senior, eight for touchdowns...Averaged over 10 tackles a game and had 15 sacks...Also averaged 10 tackles a game as a junior and recorded 21 sacks...All-conference and all-county selection...On the Super Prep All-America Team...Named his team's most outstanding offensive and defensive lineman...Chosed to play in the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game...Coached by Phil Britinal...Also lettered in basketball and baseball...Played on conference championship teams in all three sports...His brother, Sam, is a fullback at Penn State...Majoring in speech...Born April 29, 1970.

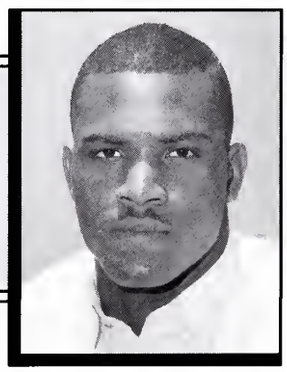
19 Russell Gibson

Defensive Back

6-0½, 214, Sophomore

Lenoir, N.C.



Number two man at strong safety...Ended the spring behind Cookie Massey at this spot...Played both safety positions last year...However, now will concentrate only on strong safety...Needs to get some playing time this fall...He needs the experience and coaches want to see him under more game conditions...Has good size, but needs to watch his weight...Did a good job on special teams last season and is a candidate to be used there again... Got an interception in the first college game in which he played—the season opener with VMI...Was red-shirted in 1988...Played quarterback and free safety at West Caldwell High School...Lettered three times on teams which won three straight conference championships...West Caldwell reached the state semi-finals in his senior year...Passed for 3,300 yards as a two-year starter at quarterback, including 297 in one game...Had 34 career TD passes...Intercepted 30 passes in three years...Twice conference player of the year and team MVP...All-Piedmont selection as a junior and senior...Played quarterback in the Shrine Bowl...Named to the all-state teams chosen by the Associated Press and the GREENSBORO NEWS & RECORD...Top defensive vote-getter on the Associated Press team...Super Prep All-America choice...Coached by Mike Biggerstaff...Also won three basketball letters...An all-conference selection twice and county co-player of the year as a senior...A political science major...Born September 6, 1970.

Miami, Fla.

One of the reserves at strong safety...Non-scholarship player who joined the team last fall...Needs more work before he will be ready to play...A good contributor on the practice field...Team captain at Christopher Columbus High in his senior year...Played tailback and linebacker...Topped the team with 121 tackles as it won a district championship...Won the school's most valuable senior award...Won three football letters for Coach Dennis Lavell...Also played for Coach Rich Hoffman at Westminister Christian Prep School...His father, Bob, was a star quarterback at Purdue and with the Miami Dolphins...Has a brother, Scott, on Virginia's football team...Studying in the General College...Born October 20, 1970.

17 Clint Gwaltney

Kicking Specialist

Shelby, N.C.

Tied for the team scoring lead as the Tar Heel place-kicker last fall...Finished the year with 30 points...Was perfect on 15 extra point attempts and made five of 14 field goal efforts...Five of his misses came from over 50 yards...Has an excellent leg, prompting those long-range efforts...Was three-for-five on attempts from the 40 to the 49...Had a 41-yarder at Kentucky, a 45-yarder at Virginia and a 47-yarder against Clemson...The 47-yard kick equalled the 11th-longest in school history...Became the Tar Heel kicker midway through the 1988 season...Was originally going to be red-shirted...But, with Carolina experiencing kicking problems, he got a shot during the last six games of the year...Soccer-style kicker who made his first four field goal attempts and six of seven for the season...Booted a 33-yarder against N.C. State, 39 and 42-yarders against Georgia Tech and a 41-yarder against Maryland before missing from 50 in that game with the Terps...Other field goals were from 35 yards against Virginia and 23 yards at Duke...Also made all 14 of his PATs...The team's second-leading scorer with 32 points...Made 17 field goals in just 24 attempts as a senior at Shelby High School...That was his only season of high school football...Helped his team win the state 3-A championship...Named state 3-A Player of the Year by the North Carolina High School Athletic Association...Kicked a 50-yard field goal to beat West Caldwell, 16-13, in the state semi-finals...Longest field goal of the year was from 53 yards...Also made 53 of 58 extra points for 104 points...All-Piedmont and all-conference selection...Named to the Associated Press and the GREENSBORO NEWS & RECORD all-state teams...Chosen for the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game...Coached by Jim Taylor...An excellent student who is majoring in business...Named to the Atlantic Coast Conference All-Academic Football Team last year...Born January 4, 1970.

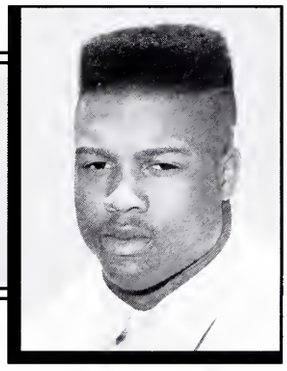
5 Derrick Henderson
Tailback
6-0, 190, Freshman
Virginia Beach, Va.



Red-shirted last fall...However, demonstrated good running instincts on the practice field...Missed spring practice with a knee injury...The injury was similar to the one suffered by former Carolina All-America basketball player Kenny Smith...It was corrected without surgery and he should be ready to go this year...Coaches are anxious to see him in the pre-season drills...He's really an unknown quantity at this time...Might be the second-strongest back on the team...Could play fullback as well as tailback...Rushed for over 1,000 yards as a senior at Green Run High...Averaged 7.5 yards a carry at tailback...Played one of his best games against district champion First Colonial...Had 15 carries in that game for 155 yards and scored two touchdowns...All-district selection...Second-team All-Tidewater choice...Coached by Elisha Harris...Also lettered in track, winning All-America honors...State indoor high hurdles champion...In outdoor competition, won the state 3-A 110-meter hurdles and finished third in the 300 intermediate hurdles...In the General College.

37 Corey Hill
Defensive Back
5-9, 178, Sophomore
Hickory, N.C.

A backup at cornerback...Walk-on who needs to make improvement in a number of areas...Biggest contribution at this time will probably come on the practice field...Twice won all-conference football honors at Hickory High School...Played fullback and linebacker there...Won three letters...Co-MVP of the team...Coached by Larry Wittenberg...Also lettered three times in wrestling...All-conference and all-regional performer on the mats...Studying in Carolina's General College...Born January 11, 1971.

64 Tony Hoggard
Offensive Guard
Powellsville, N.C.

Moved from defensive tackle to offensive guard during spring practice...Did not get a lot of work at the new position...Needs repetitions on the practice field to become more comfortable at this spot...Seems recovered from the knee injury which sidelined him much of last year...Originally came to Chapel Hill in 1987 and was red-shirted...A three-time letterman at Bertie High School...Played offensive tackle, defensive tackle, defensive guard and defensive end there...Made 116 tackles as a senior...Had eight sacks...All-

East and all-conference choice...Selected for the East-West All-Star Game...Team MVP...Coached by Ron Cooke...Won four letters in basketball and two in track...All-conference and team MVP in track...Only sophomore ever to score 150 points in a basketball season at Bertie...School athlete of the year as a senior...Majoring in industrial relations...Born April 28, 1969.

1 Corey Holliday

Wide Receiver

Richmond, Va.

Should be a key performer in the Tar Heel passing game...Heads into the fall behind Joey Jauch at split end, but is expected to challenge for the starting spot in the pre-season work...Regardless of whether he starts or not, he will see a great deal of action...Should also get some playing time at flanker...Appeared in just two games last year, Navy and Wake Forest, because of a pelvic and groin injury...Tried to play in those games, but just could not run...Was granted a medical hardship and an extra year of eligibility...Was completely healthy in the spring and was outstanding...A good worker who has added weight and strength since his arrival on campus...Has gained over 20 pounds...Smart receiver who has a good understanding of coverages...Reads defenses very well...Has great hands...Displayed a knack for making the big catch during the spring...Does a great job of advancing the ball after catching it...Good blocker...Inexperienced right now, but shows fine promise...A multi-purpose performer at Huguenot High School...Played wingback, defensive back and wide receiver and also returned kicks...Caught 30 passes for 575 yards and four touchdowns in 1988...Picked up 675 yards rushing on 90 carries, scoring 15 times...Gained 965 yards returning kicks...Intercepted eight passes for a 13-1 team which won district and regional titles and finished state runner-up...Caught 49 passes as a junior for 588 yards and five touchdowns...Had 19 catches as a sophomore, two for TDs...Won all-district, all-metro, all-region and all-state honors as a senior...Among the ROANOKE TIMES Top 25 in Virginia...Named metro and region player of the year...Also chosen player of the year by the Richmond Touchdown Club...Mid-Atlantic All-America and Super Prep All-America...Coached by Richard McFee...Won three letters in football and baseball, two in basketball and one each in track and tennis...Ran anchor leg of record-setting 4x100 relay team...Born January 31, 1971.

Hampton, Va.

Here's one of the top defenders in college football...Played well as a freshman in 1988 and then had a sensational sophomore season last fall...Now appears ready to contend for major all-star honors...Was a second-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection last year...Was the third-leading vote-getter at linebacker in a year when the ACC had a number of outstanding players at that position...Might have been a first-team choice except for the Tar Heel team record...Led the league in total tackles...Was in on 159 hits, including 96 solos and 63 assists...Also caused a fumble and recovered one...Had three sacks and one tackle for a loss...Was in double figures in tackles every game last season...Had a high of 17 hits on four occasions—against Kentucky, Navy, Georgia Tech and Clemson...Also had two sacks at Kentucky in a sensational performance...Was all over the field against Clemson in one of the best individual defensive efforts by a Tar Heel player all year...Also was dynamic with a nine-solo, six-assist performance against South Carolina...Had 11 solo tackles against Kentucky, Georgia Tech, Clemson and Duke...Hollier's 159 total hits were the most by a Carolina player since 1985 when linebackers Carl Carr and Brett Rudolph had 162 each...His 96 solos were the most by a Tar Heel since 1979 when Buddy Curry had 119 and Darrell Nicholson had 101...Accomplished all that despite playing on a bad ankle from mid-season on...Also played with thumb and shoulder injuries at one time or another and seemingly never missed a beat...Has an innate ability to play with pain...Started every game...In fact, has started all 22 games in his UNC career...As a red-shirt freshman, led the team in tackles in 1988...Had 70 solos and 47 assists for 117 hits...Caused three fumbles and recovered one...Also recorded a sack...Even as a freshman he called defensive signals...Turned in a great performance that year against Virginia with eight solo tackles, five assists and a sack...Also hurried two passes in that game with his pass rush...Most solo tackle in a game were nine against Maryland...In addition, he assisted on five others that day, caused two fumbles with big hits and broke up a pass in the secondary...Was in on 14 hits at Clemson with seven solos and seven assists...Finished the season in brilliant fashion at Duke...Made eight tackles there, assisted on six others, caused a fumble, recovered another, broke up a pass and caused a hurried throw on another occasion...Was rated the third-best freshman linebacker in the country by The Sporting News...Initially won his starting job with a great performance in the spring of 1988...Came from nowhere to gain that berth...Grabbed the starting job early in the spring and never relinquished it...A tremendous leader on and off the field...Has excellent work habits and sets a great example for the younger players...Practices hard and plays hard...Like all great linebackers, has a nose for the football and knows what to do when he gets to it...Fine tackler who is a bruising hitter...Has been an outstanding performer in the off-season conditioning program...Came to Chapel Hill at 202 pounds and has gotten bigger and stronger every year he's been here...Has done that without losing any speed or quickness...Continues to get better and better...Improved his techniques during spring practice...Intense and a great competitor...Not only should he be the best linebacker in the ACC this fall, but should team with Tommy Thigpen and Bernard Timmons to give Carolina the league's top inside linebacker combination...Came to Chapel Hill from Kecoughtan High School...Played there with current Tar Heel teammate Doxie Jordan...District player of the year at linebacker in his senior season...Named to the ROANOKE TIMES Top 25 in Virginia...Bally All-America selection...Coached by John Pauls...Is double majoring in speech and psychology...Born April 21, 1969.

57 Mike Hopkins

Linebacker

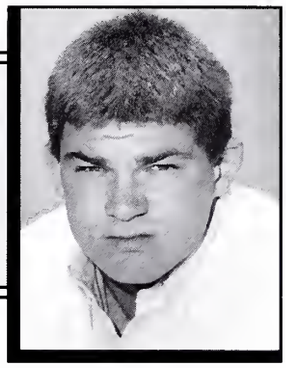
Falls Church, Va.



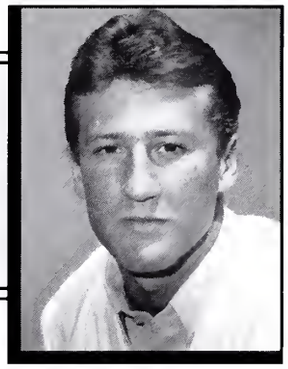
A knee injury suffered early last fall makes him a question mark...Has not practiced since that time...Would be an asset if he's healthy...Did a good job in the spring of 1989 to get himself in a position to play...Could be a backup and special teams player...Enjoys the game and is a hard worker...Has gotten bigger and stronger in the weight room while rehabilitating his knee...Has worked at both linebacker and outside linebacker in the past...Played on a district championship team at George C. Marshall High School... Defensive end and linebacker who helped spark his team to the Northern Region title and the state semi-finals...Was in on 121 tackles as a senior with 18 sacks, three interceptions and two blocked field goals...Made 87 tackles in his junior season with a school-record 25 sacks and one interception...Two-time all-district and all-region choice...Great Falls District Defensive Player of the Year in 1986...Named to the East-West All-Star Game...Won three football letters...Coached by Neil Callahan...Won two letters in baseball and one in track...Majoring in political science...Born June 5, 1969.

87 Joey Jauch

Wide Receiver

6-0½, 186, Sophomore

Vienna, Va.



Ended spring practice as the starting split end...May get challenged for that job in the fall, but will play a great deal whether he starts or not...Capable of also seeing action at flanker...Gained valuable experience last year...Played in all 11 games, starting against Maryland, Clemson and Duke...Was Carolina's third-leading receiver with 13 catches for 263 yards...His 20.2 yards-per-catch average was the highest on the team...Most catches in a game were three against VMI...Had two touchdown receptions, covering three yards against VMI and 30 against South Carolina...His longest catch of the year was a 48-yarder in the Clemson game...Did a great job in spring practice...A very consistent player...Runs very precise routes...Good at reading defenses and coverages...Has excellent hands and fine speed...A good blocker...Used as a wide receiver, defensive back and kick returner at James Madison High School... Had 31 catches for 750 yards and six touchdowns as a senior... Rushed for 250 yards and returned punts and kickoffs for 700 more...Scored one TD rushing, one on a kickoff return and two on punt returns...Two-time district player of the year...Also Fairfax County Player of the Year as a senior...All-district and all-region selection...Second-team all-metro choice by the WASHINGTON POST...Picked to the ROANOKE TIMES Top 25 in Virginia...Coached by Ned Garber...Also lettered in basketball and track...District champion in the 100, 200 and 400 meters...His brother, Jim, is a former defensive back at Carolina...Two other brothers also played college football at North Dakota and South Dakota...His father, Ray, is a former head coach in the Canadian Football League and the USFL...Majoring in speech...Born April 25, 1970.

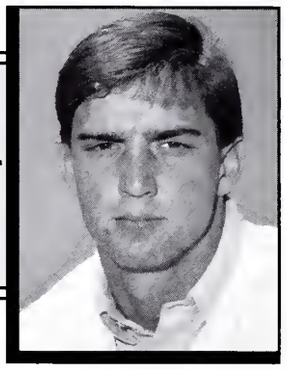
47 Duncan Jennings

Outside Linebacker

6-0½, 187, Sophomore

Lumberton, N.C.



Started spring practice slowly...However, played much better at the end of the spring work...Non-scholarship player who will be one of the reserves at outside linebacker...Needs to gain and then maintain weight in order to compete...Also must get stronger...Could help on special teams...Played at Lumberton High School...A pre-business student...Born March 3, 1971.

10 Steve Jerry

Quarterback

Orlando, Fla.

In the fight for the backup quarterback job after being red-shirted last fall...Goes into pre-season practice even with Chuckie Burnette for that spot...Because he was red-shirted, has the least experience of the top three signal-callers...However, is one of the most competitive players on the entire team...Did a good job of running the scout team last fall...Went full speed every day against the number one defense...Possesses great quickness...Has outstanding running ability which makes him very effective in the option and the sprint-out passing game...Does a good job of making something out of nothing as a sprintout passer...Has a good arm...But, must become more consistent with his throwing...Had 10 carries for 56 yards in the Blue-White Game, but completed only one of seven passes...Needs quality playing time to get the experience he is lacking...Coaches want to see how he will respond in game situations...A three-time all-district performer at Lyman High...A quarterback as a senior, but also played tailback, wide receiver and safety there...All-conference as a junior and senior...All-Central Florida and all-county in his final year...Was a second-team all-state choice...Completed 31 of 60 passes for 468 yards and four touchdowns...Only threw one interception...Had 84 carries for 585 yards and nine touchdowns, averaging 7.0 yards a rush...Also had a 35-yard touchdown catch...Won his all-star honors as a quarterback in 1988, as a safety as a junior and at wide receiver as a sophomore...Coached by Bill Scott...In addition to football, won letters in basketball and track...Has an uncle, Al Latimer, who played football at Clemson in the late 1970's and another uncle who played at Miami earlier in that decade...A pre-business student in the General College...Born December 13, 1970.

37 David Jewell

Wide Receiver

6-1, 205, Sophomore

Kill Devil Hills, N.C.

Came out for the team during spring practice...Thus, is way behind the other players at the wideout positions...Has good size, but must get stronger...Also needs better quickness...Has a lot to learn before he will be ready...Came to Carolina from Manteo High School...In the General College...Born May, 8, 1971.

31 Rondell Jones

Defensive Back

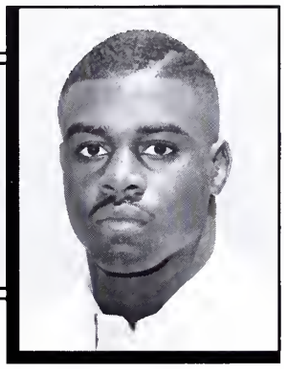
Sunderland, Md.



Played very well as a true freshman last year...Started the first college game in which he played...Was in the starting lineup at free safety for the season opener with VMI...Joined three other true freshmen—linebacker Tommy Thigpen and wide receivers Julius Reese and Bucky Brooks—as starters...They were the first true frosh to start the opener at Carolina since freshmen became eligible in 1972...Had two solo tackles, two assists, a fumble recovery and an interception in that game...Started the first four games of the year and the final two...Ended the season as Carolina's sixth-leading tackler...Made 72 hits, including 48 solos and 24 assists...Broke up three passes and recovered three fumbles...Was Atlantic Coast Conference Rookie of the Week for his play against South Carolina...Had six tackles in that game, four assists, a tackle for a loss and a fumble recovery...Also played well against Duke with nine tackles, four assists and an interception...Had a season-high 10 solos against Clemson along with three assists and a recovered fumble...Did a good job with three solo tackles, two assists and a pass broken up at Kentucky...Has a chance to be an excellent player...Responded well last year when he was hurried into action...Although set back by an injury for a while, was an even better player during spring practice...Seemed more comfortable and had a better feel for the position...Possesses excellent size, speed and quickness...Capable of developing into a very physical player...Set to start again this fall...Played tailback, defensive back, wide receiver, defensive end and quarterback at Northern High...All-county defensive back as a junior and senior and as a tailback in his final season...County MVP...All-conference on both offense and defense in 1988...WASHINGTON POST second-team all-metro choice in the secondary...Led his county and conference in rushing as a senior with 1,209 yards...Scored 12 touchdowns...Intercepted five passes, had nine sacks and blocked three kicks...Had one game against Queen Anne in which he ran for 173 yards, scored two touchdowns, recovered a fumble and recorded three sacks...Team captain of a squad which finished 9-3, reaching the state semi-finals...Coached by Jerry Franks...Named to the Big 33 Game, pitting top players in Maryland against the best in Pennsylvania...Won three letters in football and track and two in basketball...Was track captain as a senior...Selected the top field events performer in the county for three straight years...Competed in the triple jump and discus and ran on relays...Second in the state in the triple jump as a junior...As a senior, won conference championships in the triple jump and on 800 relay team...All-county in basketball, playing on a state semi-finalist as a senior...A pre-business student in the General College...Born May 7, 1971.

4 Doxie Jordan

Defensive Back

Hampton, Va.

Shifted from free safety to right cornerback during spring practice...Won the starting job at that spot...Was the team's most consistent defensive back during the spring work...Has the most experience of anyone in the secondary...Started six games at cornerback in 1988...Was shifted to free safety the following spring and went into last season as the likely starter there...However, was knocked off a friend's motorcycle the weekend before the season opener...Slid across a long stretch of pavement...Suffered no broken bones or internal injuries, but was badly bruised...Some thought he might be out for the season...But, three weeks after the accident he was miraculously on the field at N.C. State, making two tackles, assisting on another and recording a tackle for a loss...Played in nine games, starting five times...Had 21 solo tackles and seven assists...Top performance may have been at Georgia Tech...Made six tackles there, assisted on two more, intercepted two passes and broke up two others...Was the Tar Heels' 11th-leading tackler in 1988...Had 29 solo hits and eight assists...Broke up five passes, recovered a fumble and had one interception...Interception was an end zone steal against Virginia...Made his first start that year against N.C. State and had four tackles, two assists, a tackle for a loss and two passes broken up...Had a career-high eight hits in the Maryland game, including seven solos...Turned in a sensational performance in the closing moments of a win over Georgia Tech...Got beat by wide receiver Greg Lester, but recovered to come from nowhere to dive and bat away an apparent winning touchdown pass in the last 30 seconds...Selected the team's outstanding defensive back by coaches...A very intelligent player who has good instincts on the field...Plays with a lot of savvy...Lost weight after his accident last fall and still hasn't regained all that...Needs to get a little bigger and stronger...It will be important for him to have a good summer of work in the weight room...A good leader who is being counted on as a steadying influence in a young secondary...Red-shirted here in 1987...A three-year starter at Kecoughtan High School...Played safety, quarterback and running back there...Quarterbacked his team to a 7-1-1 record as a sophomore...Played two games at quarterback and eight at running back as a senior...In his first game as a running back, he gained 180 yards...Had 190 yards on 16 carries in his final game...Rushed 130 times for 751 yards...Played at Kecoughtan with current teammate Dwight Hollier...All-city, all-area, all-district and all-state as a defensive back...Named All-Peninsula on both offense and defense...Picked to the ROANOKE TIMES Top 25 in Virginia...Selected for the East-West All-Star Game...Coached by John Pauls...Also lettered three times in track...Sixth in the long jump in the state championships...Chosen Kecoughtan's Male Athlete of the Year as a senior...A business major...Born June 27, 1969.

21 Randy Jordan

Tailback

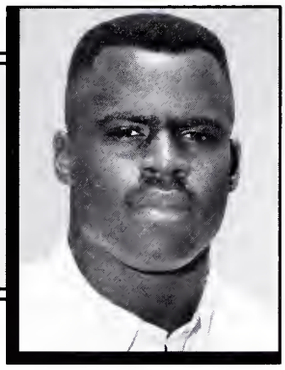
Warrenton, N.C.



A key man on offense for Carolina...Has the speed to be a big-play performer...Was the Tar Heels' third-leading rusher last fall...Gained 261 yards on 67 carries, averaging 3.9 yards a rush...Had 98 of those yards in the season opener against VMI...Carried the ball 15 times that day and scored his only touchdown of the year on a five-yard run...Played in nine games, missing the last two against South Carolina and Duke...Was ineligible to play as a freshman in 1988...That year away from competition hurt him on the field last season...Throughout the fall and into spring practice he simply tried to out-run people...However, began to make a lot of improvement in the last 12 days of the spring...Instead of relying only on his speed, began to run with his eyes and feet...Started looking for holes and making better cuts...Seemed to finally be shaking off the effects of his layoff...Had 15 carries in the Blue-White Game for 120 yards...Had scoring runs of 56 and three yards...Coaches were pleased with his progress and success...While he has excellent speed, he's also a tough inside runner...Still has improvement to make, but shows promise...Should team with Eric Blount to give Carolina a good one-two punch at tailback...Ran for 1,230 yards as a senior at Warren County High School...Had 200 carries and 16 touchdowns...Associated Press all-state selection...All-East 3-A choice...Named to the DURHAM MORNING HERALD Top Five in North Carolina...Coached by John Cohmen...Also competed in track, setting a state record in the 100-meter dash as a junior with a 10.44 clocking...Won the 200 meters and the long jump, too...Won the same three events as a senior...Earned four football letters and three in track...Majoring in speech...Born June 6, 1970.

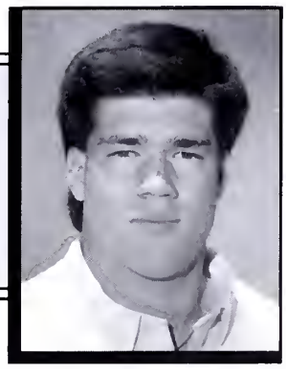
Walk-on who is a backup at flanker...Has been a squad member for the past three years...Played wide receiver at Garinger High School...Led his team in receiving as both a junior and senior...Had 35 catches for 490 yards as a senior although he played in just six games...Broken arm kept him out of action the rest of the season...Still won all-conference and all-county honors...Coached by Ken Lowrance...Earned two letters in football, one in basketball and two in baseball...A pre-med student who is majoring in chemistry...Born February 9, 1969.

75 Bryan Lindsey
Center
6-3, 236, Sophomore
Richmond, Va.



Saw spot action last fall as the backup center...Will have that same role in 1990...With more size, he could be a top-flight player...Has fine athletic ability...Possesses good quickness and running ability...Plays well on the move...Has also worked at guard during his time at Carolina...Played center as a red-shirt freshman in 1988...Got a lot of snaps that fall against the number one defense...Won three football letters at Hermitage High School...Used at center, offensive tackle, defensive tackle and deep snapper in his time there...Two-time all-district choice and all-metro as a senior...Named to the ROANOKE TIMES Top 25 in Virginia...Played on teams which were 6-3-1, 9-2 and 8-3...Hermitage tied for the district title in his junior year...Coached by Gus Allen...Also won one letter in basketball and three in track...All-district, all-region and all-state as a high jumper...His father, Tom, played football at Elon in the early 1970s...An industrial relations major...Born August 28, 1970.

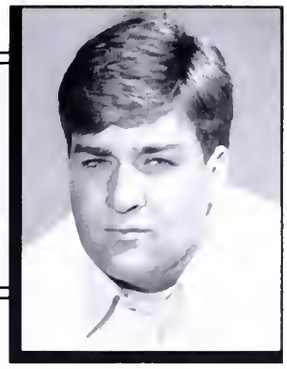
79 Mike Lohrer
Offensive Tackle
6-4, 247, Junior
Troy, Ohio

A substitute in the offensive line...Has worked at both guard and tackle in his first three years here...Was red-shirted in 1987...A two-year starter at Troy High school...Played offensive and defensive tackle...Team co-captain as a senior...Helped Troy to two straight appearances in the state playoffs and a two-season record of 20-3...A member of two conference championship teams and a state semi-finalist in 1985...Sparked an offensive line which helped Troy amass 3,900 yards in 10 regular-season games in 1985 and 3,800 in 1986...Coached by Steve Nolan...Majoring in Speech...Born May 23, 1969.

35 Sean Lyles
Defensive Back
5-8½, 158, Junior
Matthews, N.C.

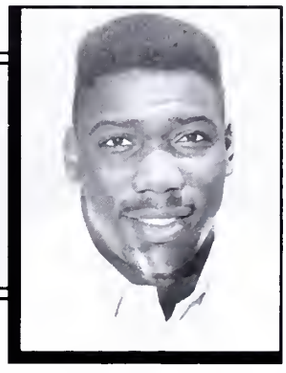
Joined the team in the spring of 1989...A non-scholarship player...Working at cornerback...Lack of size and experience are problems...Majoring in economics.

65 Steve Mandeville
Offensive Tackle
6-5, 251, Freshman
Springfield, Va.



Young prospect in the offensive line...Red-shirted last fall and worked on the scout team...Shows promise for the future...However, must continue to improve...Strength and speed levels need to get better...That should happen as he continues to mature...Inexperience is an obvious problem at this time...In the fight for a top backup spot this season...An all-district, all-region and all-state offensive lineman at West Springfield High...Named to the ROANOKE TIMES Top 25 in Virginia...A three-year starter...Selected his team's best lineman as a junior and senior...Blocked for a 1,000-yard back and a 900-yard back in his senior year...Coached by Frank Creneti...Studying in Carolina's General College...Born August 22, 1971.

3 Cookie Massey
Defensive Back
5-11, 214, Sophomore
Rock Hill, S.C.



Saw considerable action at strong safety last season...Was the top backup most of the year before starting the final two games against South Carolina and Duke...Only nine UNC players were in on more hits than he was...Had 32 solo tackles and 16 assists for a total of 48...Caused two fumbles, had a tackle for a loss, intercepted one pass and recorded two sacks...Graded out with a winning performance in his first start against South Carolina...Had five total hits and caused a fumble in that game...Also played exceptionally well against Wake Forest with four tackles, two assists, a sack and a caused fumble...Made his most hits in the Duke game with six solos and three assists...Also intercepted a pass in that game and forced a bad throw with a heavy pass rush...Overall, did a good job as a true freshman...Started slowly in the spring because strong safety is perhaps the toughest secondary spot to play...Even though he has experience, the backfield schemes have been changed somewhat and he had to pick up some new ideas...Came on as the spring progressed and finished strong...Expected to be the starter this season...Has a chance to be a very physical player...Needs continued work in the weight room in order to do that...However, must watch himself so he doesn't get too heavy...Was named 1988 High School Player of the Year in South Carolina by THE STATE of Columbia...State 4-A Back of the Year at Northwestern High...

Made 50 tackles, intercepted two passes and returned two punts for touchdowns...Had 45 tackles, nine interceptions and a TD on a punt return as a junior...Intercepted six passes, made 47 tackles and scored on a punt return as a sophomore...Picked off five passes as a freshman with 41 tackles and a punt return for a touchdown...Tied the South Carolina record for interceptions in a game with five against Byrnes High in 1987...A three-year starter in the secondary who also played wide receiver...Had 36 catches for 693 yards and seven touchdowns as a senior...Made 15 catches as a junior, three for scores...All-state selection as a junior and senior...Named to the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER Top 25 in South Carolina...Played on teams which went 11-2, 12-2, and 11-2 and won two regional titles in his last three years...Coached by Jimmy Wallace...Started in the Shrine Bowl...Also lettered in basketball and baseball...Four times an all-area baseball selection...Team's leading hitter all four years...Attended Boys State... In the General College...Born September 2, 1970.

88 Deems May

Tight End

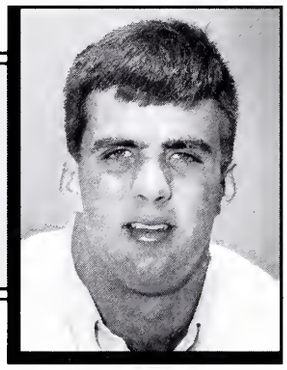
Lexington, N.C.



Former quarterback who is now the top candidate to start at tight end...Heads into the fall as the number one man at this position...Was originally moved to this spot after the conclusion of spring practice in 1989...This was a position that needed help and coaches felt he could provide it with his athletic ability...Sprained an ankle in the last pre-season scrimmage and missed the first two games...Played in eight of the remaining nine, starting against Navy...Had two catches during the year, one each against Virginia and Maryland...Struggled some because he was so new to tight end...Didn't have the best techniques...That was expected because of his inexperience and lack of practice time...Came back to have a tremendous spring...Made great progress in learning the position in his first spring practice at the spot...Very competitive...Broke a hand midway through the drills, but kept practicing...Has everything a tight end needs...Possesses good size, speed and toughness...Has gained a lot of strength in the last year...As a quarterback he could not work as much in the weight room as he's been able to do since becoming a tight end...With continued progress has a chance to be an exceptional player...Has game experience...Being counted on for leadership because of that...As a quarterback he started the first game of his college career in 1988...Was the starting signal-caller at South Carolina...Was the first Carolina quarterback to start his initial game since Bernie Menapace in 1976...Completed 13 of 34 passes that night for 121 yards...Had a net three yards rushing on three carries...His 124 yards of total offense was the most ever by a Tar Heel player in a career debut...The previous record of 114 had been set by Charlie Justice in 1946...Also started the second game against Oklahoma...Completed 10 of 21 passes against the Sooners for 105 yards...Other playing time came against Auburn, N.C. State and Virginia...For the season, completed 28 of 68 passes for 270 yards and no touchdowns...Was red-shirted in 1987...Missed most of his senior year at Lexington High School with a knee injury...Played in just three games that year before getting hurt in a 13-0 win over North Rowan...Passed for 224 yards and two touchdowns in his shortened final season...Operating out of a wishbone attack, he ran for 131 yards and one TD...Despite his injury, still made Parade and Scholastic Coach All-America teams...Named to the DURHAM MORNING HERALD Sweet 16 and the Raleigh NEWS & OBSERVER Top Five in North Carolina...As a junior, ran for 925 yards and 22 touchdowns...Passed for 1,050 yards and 10 scores...Threw for over 1,300 yards and 15 touchdowns as a sophomore...Added 13 TDs on the ground and 650 yards rushing...Had one performance that year in which he passed for 241 yards in the second half of a game against Davie County...All-conference, all-area, and All-Northwest as a sophomore and junior...His team won three straight conference titles and state championships in his junior and senior seasons...In his three years as a starter, he quarterbacked Lexington to a 26-5 record...Coached by Gary Whitman...Lettered three times in football, twice in basketball and once in baseball...As a sophomore he averaged 15.3 points and 11 rebounds in basketball...Averaged 18.8 points and 14 rebounds as a junior...Twice was all-county, all-conference, all-area and All-Northwest...His father, Bert, played football at N.C. State...Had a great-uncle, Billy Myers, who played at Carolina in the mid-Forties...Vann May, an uncle, played at Duke...Majoring in political science...Born March 6, 1969.

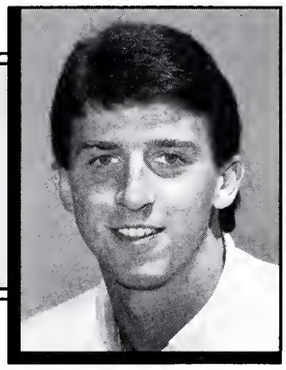
6 Scott McAlister

Punter

6-2½, 213, Junior

Greensboro, N.C.



Here is one of the premier punters in college football...Finished 11th in the nation in punting last year with a 42.7 average...Kicked 73 times for a Carolina-record, 3,114 yards...Lost the Atlantic Coast Conference punting crown to Clemson's Chris Gardocki by two-hundredths of a yard...Second-team choice as the All-ACC punter...Had three punts blocked, but all three were traced to breakdowns in blocking...Even with those blocks, the Tar Heels were still second in the conference in net punting...With his distance and hang time, opponents averaged just 6.1 yards a punt return when the yardage on blocks is discounted...His 42.7 average was the third-highest by a UNC player in the decade of the 1980's, topped only by Steve Streater's 43.4 in 1980 and Tommy Barnhardt's 43.6 in 1984...In fact, his average was the fourth-highest at Carolina in the last 31 years...The only other better mark was a 42.8 by Nick Vidnovic in 1971...Averaged over 40 yards a punt in eight of 11 games last fall...Averaged 52.7 yards on three punts at Virginia, the highest single-game mark of his career and the top effort in the ACC all year...His previous best had been a 48.0 average in the rain at Kentucky earlier in the year...Averaged 44.9 yards at Georgia Tech and 44.1 against South Carolina...Punted nine times in the game at Georgia Tech...Six of those kicks forced the Yellow Jackets to begin drives at their own 20 or inside it...Boomed a monstrous 83-yarder in the first quarter to prevent Tech from getting great field position...With the ball on his own six, McAlister drove a punt over the Jacket return man...It was finally downed on the Tech 11...That was the longest punt by a Carolina player in 52 years and the second-longest in school history...Tom Burnette had the longest, an 85-yarder against NYU in 1937...McAlister's punt also equalled the second-longest in ACC history...It was topped by Maryland's John Fritsch with an 88-yarder in 1956 and equalled by Dave Houtz's 83-yarder for N.C. State in 1961...Had eight punts for a 43.3 average against Wake Forest...That included a 51-yard kick with Carolina on its own one-yard line.

Averaged 39.9 yards a punt in 1988...Kicked 68 times without a block for 2,711 yards...Ranked fourth in the league in punting...In his first college game at South Carolina, punted eight times for a 41.8 average...Best average for a game was 47.2 against N.C. Also did the deep snapping there...Earned two football letters...Was a member of a 13-0 state championship team in 1988...Coached by Roger Jefferson...His father, Sherman "Nemo" Nearman, was a four-time basketball letterman at Carolina from 1947 to 1950...In Carolina's General College...Born March 26, 1971.

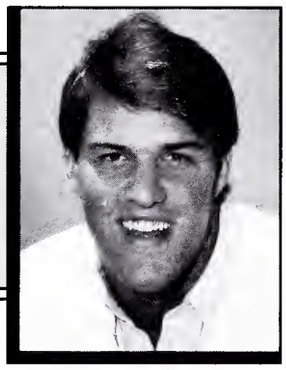
78 Andrew Oberg

Offensive Tackle

6-7, 265, Junior

Rochester, Pa.



Started 11 games at right tackle last year...Heads into the new season as the starter once again...However, was pushed for the job during spring practice by Rickie Shaw...That competition is expected to continue this fall...Got valuable experience last year after not playing in 1988...Had been red-shirted in 1987...Improved during the course of the 1989 season...With continued improvement, could become a standout blocker...Has excellent size, but needs to get a little stronger...A hard worker and an intelligent player...An offensive and defensive tackle at Rochester High School...Played on a conference championship team as a sophomore...Team captain as a senior...All-region selection...Chosen to play in the Pennsylvania-Ohio Football Classic...Won three football letters...Coached by Dan Matsook...Also lettered once in track...His brother, Chris, played offensive tackle at Bucknell...A political science major...Born February 2, 1969.

72 Curtis Parker

Offensive Guard

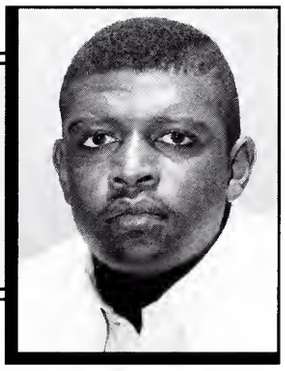
Wingate, N.C.



Top backup at right guard...Moved into that position in the spring after being red-shirted last year...Right now needs time to mature and repetitions on the practice field...Also must gain strength and become more aggressive...Once that happens he has a chance to be a solid player...Good worker who should make every effort to improve...Plans call for him to get much needed playing time this fall...Won four letters each in football, basketball and baseball at Forest Hills High School...All-conference and all-county selection as a senior at offensive tackle...Named to the Raleigh NEWS & OBSERVER's Top 15 in North Carolina and the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER Top 25...Was the key man in an offensive line which helped produce two 1,000-yard rushers in 1988...Team finished 10-1...Played on two conference championship squads...Coached by John Lowery...Played in the Shrine Bowl and selected for the East-West All-Star Game...Averaged 15.3 points a game in basketball...Team MVP in baseball...Has an uncle who played basketball at Barber-Scotia and another who played at Lenoir Rhyne...In the General College preparing to major in criminal justice...Born March 8, 1971.

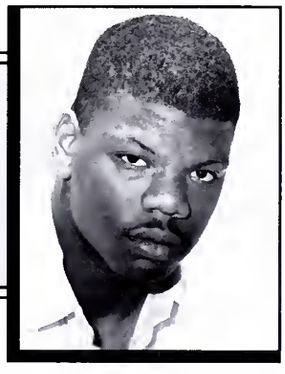
98 Austin Robbins
Defensive Tackle
6-6, 259, Freshman
Washington, D.C.



In the fight for playing time at defensive tackle...Competing for the top backup spot to Dennis Tripp...A player with a lot of potential...Was red-shirted last fall...Really began to come on in the spring...Made tremendous strides as the spring progressed...Capable of contributing this fall...Just needs maturity...Repetitions and work on the practice field are necessities for him at this stage of his career...Like most young players he must understand that only with training can he take advantage of his God-given ability...

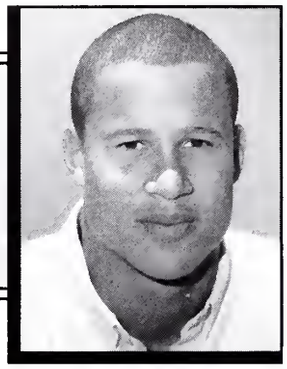
Has the tools to be a good pass rusher...Became a much better player against the run during the spring work...Earned three letters and played six different positions at H.D. Woodson High...Saw action at tight end, defensive end, offensive tackle, defensive tackle, offensive guard and linebacker during his career there...An all-conference choice at linebacker as a senior and as a defensive end as a junior...Named to the all-metro team by the Washington Pigskin Club in 1988...Chosen for the East-West All-Star Game...Played on two conference championship teams and a city championship squad as a junior...Made 97 tackles as a senior with 13 sacks and eight fumble recoveries...Also intercepted two passes and made six tackles for safeties...Team captain...Coached by Bob Headen...Also lettered in track...Has a brother, Kevin, who played at Michigan State...In the General College...Born March 1, 1971

49 B.J. Runyon

Fullback

6-4, 234, Sophomore

Vienna, Va.



Goes into the fall as the number two fullback...Saw only limited action last season, mostly on special teams...Red-shirted in 1988 as an outside linebacker...Shifted to fullback the following spring...Struggled early last spring, but came on as the drills progressed...Is just now getting back into top physical shape after an operation in 1988...Still must gain more strength...Improved a good deal as a blocker during the spring...However, now must improve his running instincts...A hard worker who has good size for a fullback...Was a running back at James Madison High School...All-Great Falls District selection...Rushed for 746 yards as a senior...Caught five passes for 119 yards...Scored 12 touchdowns...Played on the same team with Joey Jauch, a Tar Heel wide receiver...Coached by Ned Garber...Won two letters in football, three in basketball and three in soccer...His brother, J.R., was a walk-on football player at Virginia...Majoring in business...Born December 12, 1969.

74 Rickie Shaw

Offensive Tackle

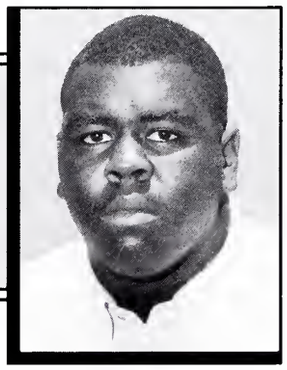
Whiteville, N.C.



A defensive tackle for his first two seasons...Switched to offense last spring...Had a great attitude about the move...Worked hard at the new position and quickly became a prominent figure in offensive plans...Ended the spring as the top reserve at right tackle...However, pushed Andrew Oberg for the starting job...Competition for that spot will continue in the pre-season work...Will play a lot whether he starts or not...Big and strong...Capable of developing into a powerful drive blocker...Needs more work on his pass protection...That's to be expected with his inexperience...Saw considerable action in the defensive interior last fall...A key sub most of the year, he started three of the last four games (Maryland, Clemson and Duke)...Carolina's ninth-leading tackler with 34 solos and 18 assists...Had four tackles for losses...Was in on 19 hits as a true freshman in 1988...Helped spark Whiteville High School to a 15-0 record and a state championship as a senior in 1987...Played offensive and defensive tackle...In his three years of play, Whiteville was 41-5, winning two conference and two Eastern championships...All-East and all-conference selection...Named to the all-state teams chosen by the GREENSBORO NEWS & RECORD and the Associated Press...One of the DURHAM MORNING HERALD'S Sweet 16...Picked for the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game...Coached by Bill Hewitt...Also won three letters in track and one in basketball...A criminal justice major...Born December 26, 1969.

55 Alex Simakas

Nose Guard

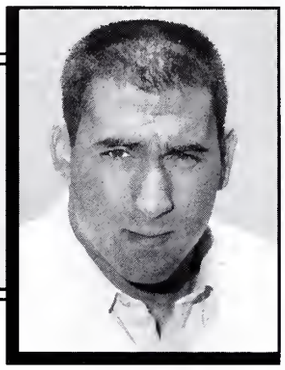
Pittsburgh, Pa.



Has played everywhere in the defensive front during his Tar Heel career...Finally settled in at nose guard late last season and worked only at that spot in spring practice...Goes into the fall as the starter...Finished the 1989 season in great fashion...Did a good job throughout the year, but was at his best down the stretch...Played the finest game of his career against South Carolina...Had six solo hits and four assists in that game...Made five tackles and assisted on four others against Maryland...Played an outstanding game against Navy with four tackles, four assists and two caused fumbles...Was in on nine hits at Virginia, including six solos...Only started the last three games of the year...Still finished as Carolina's seventh-leading tackler...Had 39 solos and 30 assists...Also made two tackles for losses...Improved a good deal in spring practice...Was solid and consistent during the spring work...Unselfish and a great example of a team player...Agreed to practice at offensive tackle most of the pre-season last fall because of injuries there...Went back to defense when Andrew Oberg and Bill Boyd were able to go full speed...However, because of a depth problem at offensive tackle, coaches kept him on the depth chart at that position in case of injuries...Carolina's 13th-leading tackler in 1988...Made 20 solo hits and assisted on 10 others...Also had three tackles for losses...Had five solo tackles in the season opener at South Carolina...Was in on six tackles, including five solos, against N.C. State...Also had two tackles for losses against the Wolfpack...Saw only brief playing time as a freshman after being red-shirted in 1986...Has worked to become a good player...May have the best techniques of any of the defensive linemen...Doesn't possess great speed, but makes plays because his techniques are so good...

Mentally tough and very determined to succeed... Also is physically tough and plays hard...Has an excellent feel for the game...Developing good leadership qualities...Respected by everyone in the UNC program...Comes from an outstanding high school program and was well-schooled fundamentally when he arrived on campus...Was captain of his North Allegheny High team as a senior...Played tight end and defensive end...Won first-team all-conference honors on offense and was a second-team choice on defense...Made nine catches for 110 yards and one touchdown...Was in on 95 tackles, including 52 solo hits...Recorded nine sacks and recovered three fumbles...Named to the PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE Fabulous 22 Team...Coached by Tom Vermillion...Lettered twice in football and three times in track...An excellent student in business...Has been named to the All-Atlantic Coast Conference Academic Team for the last two years...Born Ocotber 19, 1968.

42 Bernard Timmons

Linebacker

6-0½, 230, Senior

Fort Bragg, N.C.

An important player on defense...Has a lot of experience and ability...Has been a starter during parts of the last two seasons...Split time at one linebacking spot with Tommy Thigpen last year...Started on five occasions...Finished the season as Carolina's fourth-leading tackler with 90 hits...That included 55 solos and 35 assists...Also caused a fumble and had two tackles for losses...Only 15 players in the Atlantic Coast Conference were in on more tackles...Was in double figures in tackles four times...Played one of his best games against Navy with three tackles, seven assists, one tackle for a loss and a forced bad pass...Had six tackles and four assists at N.C. State...Made five tackles and five assists against South Carolina and also forced two bad throws with his pass rush...Started six of the last eight games in 1988...Carolina's second-leading tackler that season with 111 hits...Had 64 solo tackles and 47 assists...Had the two highest single-game totals of the Tar Heel season...Was in on 19 hits against Virginia with 11 solos and eight assists...Also broke up two passes that day in perhaps his best performance of the year...Had 12 solos and six assists against N.C. State for 18 total tackles...Made 12 tackles and assisted on three others at Duke...Also had a big end zone interception in that game to kill a Blue Devil scoring threat...Made his first collegiate start at Auburn and responded with a team-high 11 hits (four solos and seven assists)...Missed the South Carolina opener with a knee injury suffered in the last pre-season scrimmage...Saw reserve action in 1987...Finished with 19 tackles and 13 assists...Intercepted a pass in the opener with Illinois...Got his most action that season against Auburn...Was in on 71 plays that day after Mitch Wike suffered an early eye injury...Had eight tackles and six assists and also broke up a pass...Because of injuries in the backfield, practiced at tailback the week before the Maryland game...Played one series at that spot, gaining nine yards on five carries...Had practiced at tailback in 1986 while being red-shirted...A player with good potential...Has all the physical attributes needed by a linebacker—quickness, size, strength and speed...Worked hard in the off-season...Bigger and stronger than last fall...Has good leg strength...Gets great leverage...Must be a more consistent player and has worked at that...Good, all-around athlete...Could play anywhere on the field...Teams with Thigpen and Dwight Hollier to give the Tar Heels a great linebacking trio...Goes into the fall behind Thigpen at one inside spot...Capable of starting, but will see plenty of action whether he does or not...Has the ability to be an all-star player...A four-year starter at E.E. Smith High School...Played tailback and linebacker...Associated Press all-state selection at running back and named to the GREENSBORO NEWS & RECORD all-state team as a linebacker...All-East linebacker...Chosen to the ORLANDO SENTINEL All-South Team...Member of the DURHAM MORNING HERALD Sweet 16 and the Raleigh NEWS & OBSERVER Top 15 in North Carolina...Rushed for 1,530 yards as a senior, averaging 9.2 yards a carry...Scored 18 touchdowns...Was Cumberland County Player of the Year...Had four-year totals of 3,868 yards rushing and 29 touchdowns...Coached be Dean Saffos...Selected for the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game...Won four letters in football and three each in track and basketball...Majoring in speech...Born May 20, 1967.

Tar Heelia

Academic All-Americas
Carolina's most recent was quarterback Kevin Anthony, a first-team selection in 1985. A complete list of Tar Heels who have won this honor is located on page 129 of this brochure.

Academic All-Conference
Carolina's five selections to the Academic All-ACC team last fall equalled the most in the league. The Tar Heel honorees were offensive tackle Kevin Donnalley, place kicker Clint Gwaltney, defensive lineman Alex Simakas, outside linebacker Don Millen and defensive back Clarence Carter.

UNC has had 12 Academic All-ACC selections in Mack Brown's two years as head coach.

Accommodations
There are numerous hotels and motels in the Chapel Hill, Durham and Research Triangle Park areas. However, on the weekend of a big game, space can be tight. Members of the media unable to make reservations of their own should contact the Carolina Sports Information Office (919) 962-2123. Magic can sometimes be worked there.

Advertisements
We don't have them. Unlike many college football scoreboards that are covered by ads, there are none in Kenan Stadium. There is a lot of money that could be made by utilizing such ads and college athletic programs are always looking for new sources of income. But, Carolina is one institution that has refused to commercialize itself. In addition, such ads, which are fine in many places, would take away from the natural beauty of this particular stadium.

All-Americas
Twenty-two Carolina football players have received first-team All-America honors with numerous others gaining second and third-team recognition. The first-team selections stretch from guard George Barclay in 1934 to tackle Harris Barton in 1986 and include five players who were so honored in two different seasons: end Paul Severin in 1939 and 1940, halfback Charlie Justice in 1948 and 1949, end Art Weiner in 1948 and 1949, offensive guard David Drechsler in 1981 and 1982 and defensive tackle William Fuller in 1982 and 1983. More All-America data is available on pages 130-132.

All-Star Candidates
Carolina has a history of producing standout offensive linemen and star linebackers and this year should be no exception. Offensive tackle Kevin Donnalley, linebacker Dwight Hollier and outside linebacker Eric Gash are regarded by Tar Heel coaches as the best at their positions in the Atlantic Coast Conference. All three have received a good deal of attention in the national pre-season magazines. The same is true for punter Scott McAlister who is coming off a great sophomore season. These four rate as Carolina's leading all-star contenders heading into the 1990 season.

Alumni
As of July 1, there were 178,854 living Carolina alumni. Of that total, 53 percent live in the state of North Carolina. But, alumni reside in all 50 states and 125 foreign countries. One half of the undergraduate degrees have been awarded in the last 17 years.

Alumni Association
It's located in the Alumni House, next to the Carolina Inn, and is headed by Doug Dibbert, director of alumni affairs, and Bo Dunlap, assistant director. They can be reached at (919) 962-1208.

Announcer
Field announcer at Kenan Stadium is Kearney Andrews of Lexington, N.C.

Atlantic Coast Conference
Carolina was a charter member of the Atlantic Coast Conference when it was formed in 1953. Other current members of the league are Clemson, Duke, Georgia Tech, Maryland, N.C. State, Virginia and Wake Forest. The league offices are located in Greensboro, N.C. Gene Corrigan is the conference commissioner and Tom Mickle serves as assistant commissioner and director of the service bureau.

Bainbridge
When Charlie Justice signed up to enlist in World War II, he was asked which branch of the service he preferred. He told the draft board that since he couldn't swim, he should be in the army. Justice, of course, was immediately put in the navy and sent to Bainbridge Naval Training Station in Maryland. Each base fielded its own football team. Although lined up against college and professional stars, Justice just out of high school, was an immediate sensation. Bainbridge went undefeated in 1943 and was ranked the number one service team in the country.

It was at Bainbridge that Charlie got his nickname. An observer commented, while watching him play, "Say, that Justice kid runs like a choo choo train." The tag stuck and Charlie Justice became interchangeable with Choo Choo Justice. Charlie spent two seasons at Bainbridge before being shipped to Hawaii. He played there for the Pearl Harbor Navy All-Stars.

Barclay, George
Carolina's first football All-America in 1934. Barclay played offensive guard and linebacker. He was named captain of the 1934 team which went 7-1-1. Barclay later served as Carolina's head coach from 1953 to 1955.

Beat Dook Parade
This is an annual parade held before the big game with Duke each football season. It features floats put together by various residence colleges, fraternities and sororities.

Blanchard, Felix (Doc)
The great Army All-America fullback who actually began his college football career at Carolina. He enrolled at Chapel Hill in 1941. But, because of the war, the army took him away. He was enrolled at West Point where he became a three-time All-America and part of the famed Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside tandem with Glenn Davis. Blanchard won the Heisman Trophy in 1945.

Blanchard's son, Tony, was a star tight end at Carolina from 1968 to 1970 and still ranks as the 12th- leading receiver in school history.

Bowl Games
Carolina has gone bowling 16 times with 12 of those appearances coming in the last 20 years. The all-time Tar Heel bowl record is 6-10. Carolina's post-season trips have been to the Sugar Bowl in 1947 and 1949; the Cotton Bowl in 1950; the Gator Bowl in 1963, 1971, 1979 and 1981; the Peach Bowl in 1970, 1976 and 1983; the Sun Bowl in 1972, 1974 and 1982; the Liberty Bowl in 1977; the Bluebonnet Bowl in 1980; and the Aloha Bowl in 1986.

More information on these games can be found in the records section of this brochure.

Cancelled Games

Carolina only played eight games during the 1952 season. Early-season contests against N.C. State and Georgia had to be cancelled because of a polio outbreak on campus.

Captains

Carolina's captains for this fall will be chosen during pre-season workouts. Tar Heel players will vote for captains following the conclusion of two-a-day drills.

Carolina Blue

The light blue color worn by Carolina athletic teams. It has many different names—light blue, powder blue, sky blue and Columbia Blue among others. However, the accomplishments of Tar Heel athletes have really made the color synonimous with the University so it simply bears its name.

This is also the name of a newspaper which covers Carolina athletics.

Carolina Cheerios

This is the most famous cheering section in Carolina history. It was organized in 1927 by Kay Kyser, the Tar Heel head cheerleader. The Cheerios, which included a chorus and dance group, was made up of 300 students dressed in blue coats and white trousers.

In his time in Chapel Hill, Kyser also wrote a new fight song, "Tar Heels On Hand." He was a hustler who kept things hopping in the stands even if they were dragging on the field. Kyser was a natural showman so it was no surprise when he made it big in show business. His bands were world-famous. His "College of Musical Knowledge" was one of the most popular of all radio shows. He made movies and The New York Times called him "The Genius of Jazz." But, in Chapel Hill, he is still best known for the Cheerios.

CFA Awards

Carolina has been honored by the College Football Association with its Academic Achievement Award in three of the past four years. The Tar Heels have won honorable mention listing in the springs of 1987, 1989 and 1990 by graduating over 70 percent of their senior players.

"Our eventual goal is to win the CFA Award for the best percentage and also the ACC football championship in the same year," says Carolina Coach Mack Brown. "With the priorities of our staff on education and the type of young people we're able to recruit at this school, I think that's a very realistic goal."

Chapel Hill

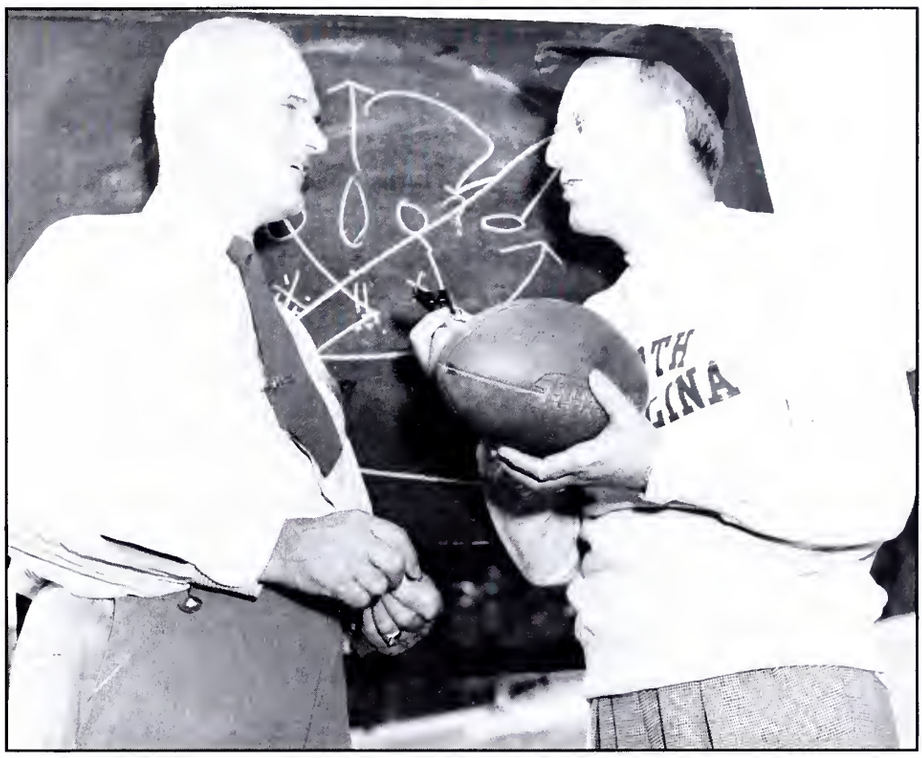
Home of the University of North Carolina, the town traces its history back to 1792 when it was known as New Hope Chapel Hill. It was named for New Hope Chapel, a church located atop a hill.

Today, the town has about 36,000 permanent residents. However, when the University is in session, the population goes above 65,000. Because of the University's presence, the town is like a cosmopolitan city, but it still maintains the charm of a village.

Chapel Hill was rated the third best place to live nationally out of 329 metro areas surveyed in the 1985 Places Rated Almanac, published by Rand McNally. It is part of an urban region known as the Research Triangle. Time Magazine named this area "one of the 20 nicest places to live in the United States." It was also rated in two other recent surveys as being among the five best places to live in America.

Cheerleaders

Tar Heel cheerleaders for the 1990-91 school year will be Adina Alford of Charlotte, N.C.; Brad Armstrong of Normal, Ill.; Sandy Bass of Durham, N.C.; Julie Brogan of Clemmons, N.C.; Erica Bryant of Marietta, Ga.; Lance Davis of Greensboro, N.C.; Renee Davis of Gastonia, N.C.; Marc Finch of Raleigh, N.C.; Scott Hunter of Webster, N.C.; Susan Kerr of Winchester, Pa.; Shannon MacFadyen of Raleigh, N.C.; Bill Polson of Cary, N.C.; Chris Porter of Charlotte, N.C.; Tommy Reed of Greensboro, N.C.; Shea Roberts of Chapel Hill, N.C.; and Brian Stalder of Fayetteville, N.C.



"The Gray Fox", Carl Snavely, chats with Kay Kyser (right), the famous band leader and originator of the Carolina Cheerios.

Cheerleading

None allowed in the press box.

Davie, William R.

"The Father of the University," a revolutionary patriot, a governor of North Carolina and the recipient of the University's first honorary doctor of laws degree. A graduate of Princeton, Davie was a cavalry officer in the Revolutionary War and a delegate to the Philadelphia Constitutional Convention in 1787.

Davie persuaded this state's new legislature to charter the University, the first state institution in the country. Ratification occurred just 20 days after North Carolina ratified the U.S. Constitution. Only days after the University was chartered, a bill was introduced to provide building fund and support for the school through escheats and tax exemptions. Davie prepared the ordinance fixing the seat of the University and played a leading role in the construction of buildings and the selection of the faculty. Davie steered a building loan through the General Assembly in December of 1791 which was the only state appropriation for the University until after the Civil War.

Davie, as grand master of masons, laid the cornerstone to Old East, now the oldest state university building in the nation, on October 12, 1793.

Dorsett, Tony

The only major college player other than Carolina's Amos Lawrence to rush for 1,000 yards in four straight seasons. Lawrence gained 1,211 yards in 1977, had 1,043 in 1978, ran for 1,019 in 1979 and then had 1,118 in 1980.

Duke

Alma mater of Carolina Chancellor Paul Hardin. It is situated just eight miles from Chapel Hill, near enough so its students can come to Carolina and have a good time. This is the school where Lefty Driesell was taught English and Richard Nixon studied law. Trails Carolina in the all-time football series, 38-34-4.

Durham, Woody

Now in his 20th year of handling radio play-by-play commentary for the North Carolina Tar Heels. Durham, a 1963 Carolina graduate, has the most recognizable voice in the entire state as Tar Heel games can be heard anywhere in North Carolina. He's famous for his meticulous preparation for every broadcast. Durham is vice-president and executive sports director of the Village Companies in Chapel Hill, loves to play golf and has been voted North Carolina sportscaster of the year so many times the award may be retired.

Equipment Room

Carolina's football equipment room is managed by Dominic Morelli.

First Game

Carolina's first football game was played against Wake Forest on October 18, 1888. The site was the State Fair in Raleigh.

The University was represented by a team of sophomores who had defeated the rest of the student body and was looking for new opposition. A game with Wake Forest sophomores was arranged. The rules of "foot ball" were vastly different than they are now. In fact, there were very few rules at all. However, according to THE NEWS AND OBSERVER of Raleigh, "the game was exciting and was played by excellent teams on both sides. It was witnessed by a tremendous crowd. The players were uniformed and were a skilled and active set of boys."

Each goal counted two points and Wake won the game, 6-4. This was the first intercollegiate game of "foot ball" played in the state of North Carolina.

Forward Pass

Carolina has been given credit for throwing the first forward pass in the game. The immortal John Heisman is the man who gave that distinction to the Tar Heels in a 1928 edition of Collier's Weekly. Heisman had witnessed the event in a Carolina-Georgia game played in Atlanta on October 26, 1895. More information on the play is available on page 149 of this brochure.

Franklin Street

Most famous street in North Carolina. It's the main thoroughfare through downtown Chapel Hill. However, there are other streets and roads in this college town with famous names. Among them are Justice, Weiner, Barclay, Severin, Branch, Fetzer and Hartig. All were named for important figures in Carolina's football history.

General College

All freshmen and sophomores are enrolled in the University's General College and must complete 13 to 14 general education courses along with about seven free electives. The general education courses reflect the faculty's thoughts on what students will need to lead productive and meaningful lives. These courses are in English, mathematics, the sciences, history and foreign language. They provide the foundation for balanced development and are taken by all students, regardless of intended fields of study.

Also, the General College provides students with a chance to explore different areas of interest and to recognize personal strengths and weaknesses while selecting a major field of study and preparing for a lifetime of learning.

The General College features extensive guidance and personal counseling to students. Each student receives personal assistance and encouragement in selecting courses and maintaining scholastic standards from an adviser, a regular, full-time member of the University faculty.

The Gray Fox

One of the many nicknames given former Carolina Coach Carl Snavely. He was also King Carl, The Dutch Master and Mr. Single Wingback.

Snavely directed Carolina to its greatest heights in football, taking the Tar Heels to three major bowl games during the Charlie Justice Era in the late 1940's.

A quiet man on and off the field, Snavely was a perfectionist who rarely passed out compliments. In fact, it was not until after Justice graduated that Snavely finally admitted Charlie was the best player he had coached.

Snavely was a pioneer in the use of films in football. He watched game films day and night, at his office and at home. His only vice was ice cream. Late-night visitors to his home would often find him with a quart of ice cream in his lap and his black german sheperd Barnaby at his side, watching films of the previous game.

In 32 seasons of collegiate coaching at Carolina, Bucknell, Cornell and Washington University in St. Louis, he compiled a brilliant 180-96-16 record. He is a member of the National Football Hall of Fame.

Hark The Sound (alma mater)

Hark the sound of Tar Heel voices
Ringing clear and true
Singing Carolina's praises
Shouting NCU
Hail to the brightest star of all
Clear its radiance shine
Carolina priceless gem
Receive all praises thine.

Chorus
I'm a Tar Heel born
I'm a Tar Heel bred
And when I die
I'm a Tar Heel dead.
So it's RAH, RAH
Car'lin-a lin-a
RAH, RAH, Car'lin-a lin-a
RAH, RAH, Car'lin-a
RAH! RAH! RAH!

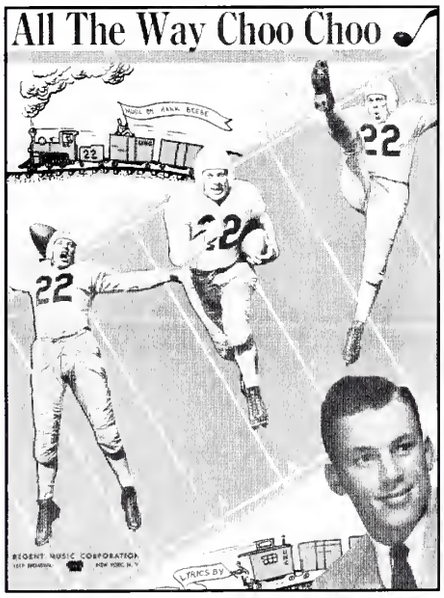
Homecoming

Every football weekend is a good one to be in Chapel Hill, but Homecoming has always been special to many alumni. Reunions are often planned around this date and there are big dances and parties all over campus.

Homecoming this fall will be October 20 when the Tar Heels face Georgia Tech. Kickoff time is 1:30 p.m. Students will hold the annual Homecoming parade on the morning of the game. This march through campus has occurred on Friday afternoons in the past. However, it was moved to Saturday in 1988 so more returning alumni and fans could watch it.

Jacobs Blocking Trophy

The Jacobs Blocking Trophy annually goes to the player in the Atlantic Coast Conference who is deemed the league's best blocker. This award is especially prestigious because it is voted upon by the ACC's head coaches. Carolina has had seven winners of the award: guard Jim LeCompte in 1961, fullback Eddie Kesler in 1964, fullback Geof Hamlin in 1971, guard Ron Rusnak in 1972, guard Ken Huff in 1974, guard Ron Wooten in 1980 and center Jeff Garnica in 1988.



Justice, Charlie

The most famous of all Carolina football players, Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice is regarded by many as the greatest all-around player in the history of the South. Justice, a triple-threat tailback from a single-wing formation, starred on Tar Heel teams from 1946 to 1949. He helped spark Carolina to two Sugar Bowl appearances and one trip to the Cotton Bowl. He still holds many school total offense and punting records.

Justice was the subject of a book, "Choo Choo, the Charlie Justice Story," by Bob Quincy and Julian Scheer and of a song, "All The Way Choo Choo," by Orville Campbell and Hank Bebee. Charlie and his wife, Sarah, now live in Cherryville, N.C., but he is a frequent visitor to Chapel Hill. A profile on Justice can be found on pages 133 and 134 of this publication.

Kenan Stadium

Home of Carolina's Tar Heels and called by Inside Sports magazine one of the five best places in the country to watch a college game. Capacity at the stadium was increased to 52,000 in 1988 with the addition of 2,000 new seats in a prime location—between the 40-yard lines on each side of the field. Room was made for the additional seats by the destruction of the old press box and chancellor's box. A new press box was added to the top of the stadium's south side. Surrounded by trees, the stadium is in a natural valley and a beautiful setting. More information on Kenan can be found on pages 72 and 73 of this brochure.

Kenan, William Rand, Jr.

Benefactor of Kenan Stadium. A native of Wilmington, N.C., Kenan was an 1894 Carolina graduate who lettered in both football and baseball. During his work on campus, he discovered carbide, laying a foundation for success in chemistry, engineering and building. His skill as an engineer and his ability as a director of great enterprises put him in demand all over the world. In railway transportation, gas lighting, water and electric power, hotel and real estate operation, he became one of the financial and industrial leaders of his generation.

Kenan Stadium was built as a memorial to his parents, William R. Kenan and Mary Hargrave Kenan. He was an 1864 Carolina graduate and she was a Chapel Hill native.

Lettermen's Day

The Kentucky game on September 22 has been officially designated as Lettermen's Day. All former Tar Heel football lettermen are being invited back to campus on this day. Social events are planned both before and after the game.

Lights

Kenan Stadium now has permanent lights, installed as part of the 1988 expansion project. Kenan makes use of a General Electric low-mount system which minimizes the height of the lightpoles. It is similar to the system used at Soldier Field in Chicago. The lights were used for late-afternoon games last year with VMI and Navy and in 1988 against Oklahoma and Louisville.

Actually, two games were played under lights in Kenan before the permanent system was installed. Portable lights were brought into the stadium for the 1983 Duke and the 1987 Clemson games. Those games had late afternoon starts so they could be televised. Lights were a necessity since they finished after dark.

Linebackers

Over the years Carolina has produced as many outstanding linebackers as any school in the South. Six Tar Heel linebackers were on NFL pre-season rosters this year, including Pro Bowlers Lawrence Taylor and Mike Wilcher. More information on Carolina's star linebackers can be found on page 144 of this publication.

LT

Not only the greatest linebacker in Carolina history, but regarded by many as the best ever to play the game. In 1980 Lawrence Taylor was the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year and a consensus All-America. He had a school-record 16 sacks that season for 127 yards in losses. Taylor was chosen second in the NFL draft behind Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers.

Mack Attack

That was the name given to the potent offense Mack Brown put together while coaching at LSU in 1982. The Tigers, 3-7-1 in 1981, improved to 8-2-1 and earned a berth in the Orange Bowl. LSU averaged over 400 yards a game.

Mascot

The Tar Heel football mascot is a white ram. A ram has served in this capacity since 1924. Cheerleader Vic Huggins brought the original Rameses to campus. He had decided on a ram as a mascot by linking it with the nickname of Tar Heel star Jack Merritt, a fullback known as "The Battering Ram." Rameses has been a fixture ever since.

He's easily the finest mascot in the Atlantic Coast Conference since live animals are much better at this line of work than students dressed up in ridiculous costumes. Rameses has his most fun prior to the Duke game when he tries to outwit Blue Devil students trying to ramnap him. An old story that Richard Nixon, while a law student at Duke, was involved in an attempt to heist the Tar Heel mascot was denied by the White House during his presidency. Of course, a lot of other things were also denied by the White House in those days, too.

The current Carolina mascot is Rameses IXI.

Mason, Morris

Longtime equipment manager at Kenan Fieldhouse. Mason served in that capacity from 1927 to 1973, an incredible 46-year period. It has been said that he came with the stadium since his first year on the job was also the initial season Kenan Stadium was used. Although he did not travel with the team in his first year, Mason saw every Tar Heel football game, home and away, for the next 45 seasons. In that period he became a friend and confidant to a multitude of Carolina players. He's retired now, but can always be found in Kenan Stadium on a Football Saturday.

Morehead Patterson Bell Tower

Located next to Kenan Stadium and generally referred to as simply the "Bell Tower." The 172-foot tower is built on a knoll and rises 200 feet above the campus. It contains a 10-bell carillon which calls students to class, provides twilight music and serenades football fans.

The Bell Tower was dedicated on November 26, 1932, just prior to the Carolina-Virginia football game. A replica of the famous West Point chime, the tower was the $100,000 gift of John Motley Morehead, then American ambassador to Sweden, and Rufus Lenoir Patterson II, a New York tobacco manufacturer. A concert, played entirely by hand, was heard 12 miles away in Durham. Students in the UNC Department of Music were bell ringers, playing the tower's carillon and presenting evening concerts and programs for special campus events until the late 1960's. Then an electronic control system for the chimes and a clock was installed.

The bells range in weight from 300 pounds to almost two tons. The bell tower has a four-faced clock and is crowned with a spire. The area surrounding the tower base was landscaped during the structure's construction and now is a small garden with pathways lined by boxwood hedges.

Rameses and Cheerleader Peaches Hauser head on the field in the mid-1970's.

Morehead Scholarships

Three members of the Carolina football team are attending the University on Morehead Scholarships, the highest academic grants awarded by the University. Those players are Mike Bolognesi, a sophomore defensive back from Durham, N.C.; Maurice Drayton, a sophomore linebacker from Seattle, Wash.; and Mike Morton, an incoming freshman from Kannapolis, N.C. who played tight end and linebacker at A.L. Brown High School.

Mark Maye, a graduate assistant coach on Mack Brown's staff and a former star quarterback, also attended Carolina on a Morehead. The same is true for Tar Heel Athletic Director John Swofford.

N.C. State

Alma mater of Tar Heel offensive coordinator Darrell Moody. State's campus is neatly divided by railroad tracks right through the heart of it. The school's fight song was written by some original young Wolfpacker to that well-known sports melody, "As The Caissons Go Rolling Along." Formerly, North Carolina A&M, State trails Carolina in the all-time football series, 52-21-6.

Nicknames

No college athlete may have ever had a more famous nickname than Choo Choo Justice. But, the Tar Heels have had a lot of other players with popular monikers. In the early part of the sport's history here, there were Mink Cunningham, Bull Council, Monk McDonald, Goat Randolph, Rabbit Bonner, Ox Shuford, Icky Garrett and Runt Lowe. Then came Sweet Jim Lalanne, Snuffy Stirnweiss, Goo Goo Gantt and Rip Hawkins.

The Seventies saw Boom Boom Betterson, Rocket Man (Mel Collins), Space Cowboy (Mike Voight), Famous Amos Lawrence and Billy The Horse Johnson. More recently, some of Carolina's players have been known simply by their initials. Lawrence Taylor was thus just LT and Kelvin Bryant was KB.

Norfolk, Va.

City which has produced five different All-Atlantic Coast Conference football players at Carolina, more than any other town. Those players were Buddy Payne (1957), Gene Brown (1972), Mike Mansfield (1972), Amos Lawrence (1977 and 1980) and Ricky Barden (1978 and 1979).

In addition, eight other Tar Heel All-ACC performers have been from the general Tidewater area of Virginia: Mike Voight (1975 and 1976), William Fuller (1981, 1982 and 1983) and Larry Griffin (1985) of Chesapeake; Chris Hanburger (1963 and 1964), Ron Spruill (1981 and 1982) and Walter Bailey (1986) of Hampton; Lawrence Taylor (1980) of Williamsburg; and Cecil Gray (1989) of Virginia Beach.

Officials

The Atlantic Coast Conference operates with a seven-man crew: a referee, umpire, head linesman, field judge, line judge, side judge and back judge. However, Tar Heel rivals in the league simply refer to each as "Carolina ref."

Old Well

The visual symbol of the University, the Old Well is pictured frequently on school literature, Christmas cards and student souveniers. Originally the sole water supply for campus, the Old Well still serves as a popular water fountain with water supplied by the town of Chapel Hill.

Operation Football

A whirlwind tour of the Atlantic Coast Conference's eight member schools during preseason football drills. Writers and broadcasters meet with players and coaches from each team and observe practice. The longest-running such trip still in existence, the tour results in ACC football getting a lot of media attention over a 10-day period.

Photo Armbands

Photographers will not be allowed on the Kenan Stadium sidelines without an armband. They can be picked up in the press box prior to each game. However, each photographer must pick up his or her own armband.

Picture Day

Picture Day this year for Mack Brown's Tar Heels will be Sunday, August 19. Fans are invited to Kenan Stadium on this day to meet the Carolina players, get autographs and take pictures. Starting time is 2:30 p.m.

Pines

These are the tall trees which so magnificently surround Kenan Stadium. There is an old story that when Mr. Kenan gave the stadium to the University, he did so on condition that the stadium never rise higher than the tops of the trees. That's why expansion of the stadium has been done gradually over the years as the trees have continued to grow. It's a great story, but it's not true.

The Pines also was a famous restaurant in Chapel Hill for many years. Tar Heel coaches had many of their press conferences there. When Bill Dooley was coaching at Carolina he always had a back room reserved the night of each home game. He and his coaching staff would gather there with friends for a late dinner. The Pines was destroyed by fire, but a new building was constructed on the same property. It also carried the name The Pines for a while, but now operates as Slug's at The Pines. It is one of several restaurants in North and South Carolina run by Slug Claiborne of Charlotte.

Practice

North Carolina practices daily during the football season on Navy Field. This complex includes three complete football fields, one of them covered by artificial turf for special uses. Located on Ridge Road, Navy Field is just a short walk from Kenan Fieldhouse and the Tar Heel locker rooms.

Carolina practices are open to the media. However, members of the press should check by the Carolina Sports Information Office to pick up an admission pass.

Press Box

Carolina's long-needed new press box became a reality in 1988 with the expansion project in Kenan Stadium. The new box is an elongated, one-level structure, stretching from 10-yard line to 10-yard line. The print media area has seats for over twice as many people as the old press box and it's filled for every game by the many daily newspapers which regularly cover the Tar Heels and those travelling with the opposing team. There are also three radio booths, a television booth and rooms for Carolina and opponents' athletic administrators. There are two elevators servicing the press box, one of which is used solely for the media.

Press Conferences

Mack Brown meets with the media each Tuesday preceding a game during the football season. Television and radio tapes are done at 11:30 a.m. with lunch served at noon. Brown has a question-and-answer session with newspapermen following the meal.

Radio Network

The Tar Heel Football Network includes over 60 radio stations in four states. The network is operated by Village Companies of Chapel Hill with Bill Whitley as manager and Jim Heavner as executive producer. Woody Durham is beginning his 20th season of handling the play-by-play work with Mick Mixon adding color commentary.

Rathskeller

Better known as simply The Rat. Located in Amber Alley on Franklin Street, The Rat is a longtime favorite of Carolina students and alumni for food and drink. Established in 1946, The Rat serves sandwiches and pizza for lunch and complete dinners at night. In addition to food, you can also find out who's going to win Saturday's college football games, the name of the next heavyweight champion of the world and how far ahead of the opposition the Dodgers are in the National League West if your waiter happens to be Davis Blackwell. Like most of The Rat's waiters, Davis has been around so long the place wouldn't be the same without him.

Retired Numbers

Five football numbers have been retired at Carolina: 22 for Charlie Justice, 46 for Cotton Sutherland, 50 for Art Weiner, 59 for Andy Bershak and 99 for George Barclay. More information on these retired numbers can be found on page 174 of this media guide.

Return Men

Carolina has been blessed over the years with a number of exciting punt and kickoff return artists, including some of the best the college game has ever seen. The most famous, of course, was Charlie Justice. Justice has both the highest kickoff and punt return averages in school history. Choo Choo averaged 26.6 yards on 31 kickoff returns, including a 90-yarder for a touchdown against Florida in 1946. As a punt return man, Justice had a 14.2 average on 68 attempts. He brought back four punts for touchdowns—70 yards against Florida in 1946; 84 yards against Georgia and 50 yards against Virginia in 1948; and 75 yards against William and Mary in 1949.

However, there are some longtime observers of football in this state who say Justice might not have been the school's best at returning punts. They say Johnny Branch was unsurpassed in that area. Unfortunately, complete season records for 1929 and 1930 are unavailable so it is impossible to get an accurate average-per-return for Branch. But, as a senior in 1931 he averaged 19.8 yards on 10 returns. His career average had to be an incredible figure as evidenced by that season and partial records of his long plays the two previous years.

As a sophomore, Branch didn't play fulltime as he was just one of the stars on the famous "Team of a Million Backs." However, he did have a 60-yard punt return against Georgia Tech and another of 43 yards against Maryland. In 1930 he had punt returns covering 63, 68, 85 and 96 yards. The 85-yard sprint was for a touchdown against Virginia Tech, while the 96-yarder, still the longest in Tar Heel history, accounted for a score against Maryland. As a senior, the 5-5, 150-pound Branch had a 44-yard touchdown return against Virginia.

Other top punt return men have included George Stirnweiss, Hugh Cox, Dick Dashiell, Bud Carson and Greg Poole. James Betterson, Ken Willard and Don McCauley excelled in the kickoff return spot.

Rivalries

The Tar Heels have a lot of big ones in the Atlantic Coast Conference, seven to be exact. It's no secret that in league competition, Carolina is the team all other schools in the ACC would like to beat the most. That's why what has been accomplished here in athletics over the years is so amazing—the fact that everytime the Tar Heels take the field in an ACC event, they're facing an opponent ready to give its top effort of the year.

Now who does Carolina consider its biggest rival? One would get seven different answers from a group of Tar Heel fans. Safest reply is probably, "whoever the next opponent is."

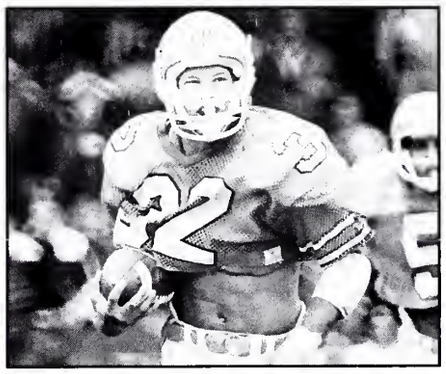
Road Trip

The most famous road trip in Carolina football history was made by the 1892 team which played three games in four days, winning them all. The Tar Heels departed Chapel Hill by train on Tuesday, November 22, for Atlanta. They arrived at noon the following day and blasted Auburn, 64-0. It was back on a train that evening for a ride to Nashville and a 24-0 win over Vanderbilt on Thursday. Carolina then went back to Atlanta for a 26-0 victory over Virginia on Saturday.

Earlier in the year, the Tar Heels had played two other games on successive days, winning at Richmond, 40-0, and losing to Virginia in Charlottesville, 30-18. A 24-0 win over Trinity (now Duke) gave Carolina a final 5-1 record with all games played away from home. It was a road show not even Hope and Crosby would be able to top.

Secretaries

Trying to keep up with Carolina's workaholic football staff is an outstanding group of secretaries. The office supervisor and Mack Brown's personal secretary is Becky Medford. Maria Smith and Teresa Pollard handle the assistant coaches, Vicki Adcock works on recruiting with Joe Robinson and Joyce Goodwin is the main support for the academic support staff.



Greg Poole (32) was a star punt return specialist, leading the ACC with a 12.0 average in 1981.

Simpson, O.J.

Former Southern California All-America tailback whose NCAA single-season rushing record was broken by Carolina's Don McCauley in 1970. McCauley ran for 1,720 yards that season. Simpson's old record of 1,709 had been set in 1968.

Smith

The most popular surname of Tar Heel football lettermen. There have been 21 lettermen named Smith since the first letter was given in the spring of 1889. That includes 18 players and three managers. The first was a manager, William Hopton Smith, in 1903. The first player was John Franklin Smith, a tackle, in 1932. The most recent were members of last year's team — defensive back Thomas and manager Van.

The Carolina Smiths have been Bennie, Bill, Bob, Brian, Charles, Chip, Darryl, Dick, Foyell Pennington, Jan, John Franklin, Mark, Mike, Moyer, Quinton, Robbie, Roger, Thomas, Van, Wade and William Hopton.

Second-most popular last name is Johnson with 13. Third is Thompson with 11.

Sports Information Office

The Carolina Sports Information Office is located on the main office level of the Smith Center. Rick Brewer is beginning his 16th year as its director and his 23rd as a staff member.

He's directly responsible for the publicizing of the Tar Heel football team. However, his three assistants — Dave Lohse, Steve Kirschner and Sheri West — also help with the many things that have to be done in an office which handles a major college football program. The staff also includes secretary Lec Snyder and a group of student workers headed by veterans Lamar Chance, Kelley Goodyear, Joanie Lacy, Ed McPhillips and Emily Watkins.

Sweet Carolines

This is a group of Carolina coeds who are of great assistance in the football office. During the week they help the secretarial staff with a wide range of duties. On Saturdays of home games they act as hostesses for prospective student-athletes and their parents who are visiting the campus.

Tailgating

Part of the tradition of a Football Saturday in Chapel Hill is eating off the back of a car before heading into the stadium. Most popular tailgate food is fried chicken. However, there is a varied menu throughout the parking lots around Kenan Stadium. Some fans now set up grills and have charbroiled hamburgers, hot dogs and steaks.

Team of A Million Backs

This was the great 1929 team which was so deep it fielded four entire backfields, all featuring top-notch performers. Carolina posted a 9-1 record under Coach Chuck Collins, scoring 346 points to rank second to Southern California in the nation in scoring. That average of 34.6 points per game for a season still stands as a school record. The only loss was a 19-12 setback to Georgia when the Bulldogs scored twice in the fourth quarter to win. A fumble recovery set up the winning touchdown.

Among the famed "million backs" were Jimmy Ward, Pete Wyrick, Jim Magner, Jimmy Maus, Strud Nash, Phil Jackson, Chuck Erickson, Henry House, Pap Harden, Yank Spaulding, Johnny Branch and Rip Slusser. Jackson threw a 78-yard touchdown pass to Spaulding against Maryland that year which stood for 14 seasons as the longest pass play in school history and still ranks as the fifth-longest.

While the team was noted for its game-breaking backs, it also had a host of outstanding linemen such as Ray Farris, Don Holt, Bill Koenig, Ned Lipscomb, Ellis Fysal, Bud Eskew, Fenton Adkins and Julian Fenner.

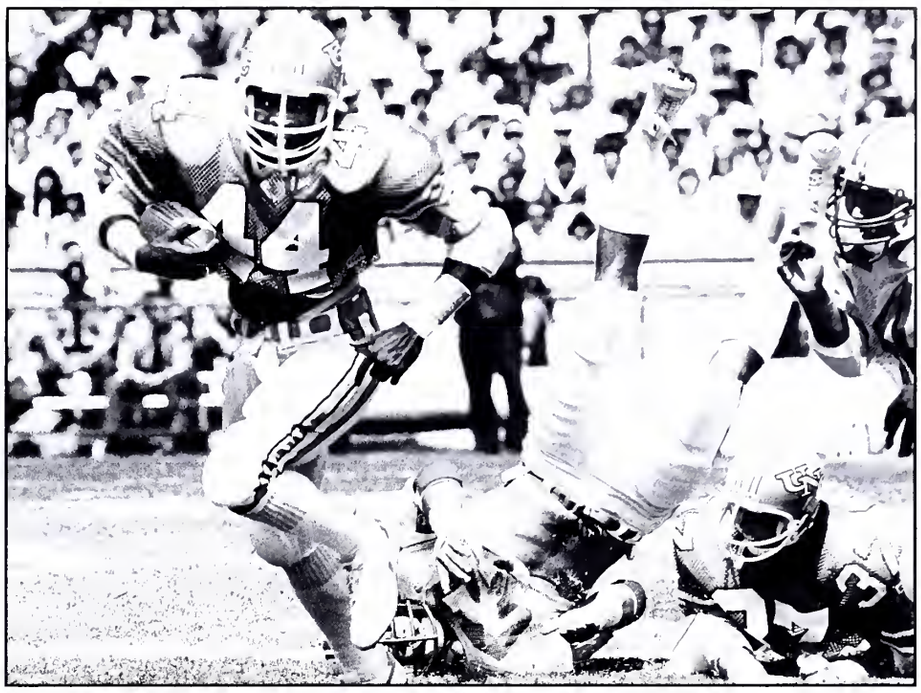
This team was a huge hit at the gate, drawing a record attendance of 139,500. That was topped by a crowd of 31,000 for a 41-7 rout of Virginia in Kenan Stadium.

Thousand-Yard Backs

Carolina has produced more 1,000-yard rushers than any other school in the country. Ten different Tar Heels have combined for 19 1,000-yard seasons. Southern California ranks second in 1,000-yard backs with 18. Carolina's group includes Don McCauley, who set an NCAA rushing record with 1,720 yards in 1970, and Amos Lawrence, one of only two major-college players in history to post four 1,000-yard seasons. For more information on the Tar Heels' 1,000-yard performers, see pages 142 and 143.

Ticket Information

Information on Carolina football tickets can be obtained at the Athletic Ticket Office, located on the office level of the Smith Center. Ken Brown, director of ticket operations, and his excellent staff can be reached at (919) 962-2296. However, one should drop by or call early as another season of sellouts is anticipated.



Kelvin Bryant was a 1,000-yard back on three different occasions.

Unbeaten Season

Carolina's only perfect record was posted in 1898 when the Tar Heels were 9-0-0. Seven opponents were shut out—Guilford (18-0), North Carolina A&M (34-0), Greensboro Athletic Association (11-0), Oak Ridge (11-0), Davidson (11-0), Georgia (53-0) and Auburn (29-0). VPI fell, 28-6, and in the season finale on Thanksgiving Day, Virginia was beaten, 6-2. Will Reynolds was the Tar Heel coach and the team was captained by Frank Rogers.

The regular Carolina lineup included Herman Koehler (165 pounds) and Edwin Gregory (166) at end; Samuel Shull (175) and Frank Bennett (190) at tackle; R.S. Cromartie (155) and Ike Phifer (190) at guard; Mink Cunningham (148) at center; Rogers (150) at quarterback; Vernon Howell (138) and James MacRae (160) at halfback; and Ernest Graves (170) at fullback.

Victories

Carolina has 516 of them on the football field.

Victory Bell

The Victory Bell goes annually to the winner of the Carolina-Duke football game. A large bell on wheels, this prize to the winner of the big season finale was originated in the 1940's by Norm Sper, a Tar Heel cheerleader.

Wade, Jake

First fulltime sports information director at Carolina. A 1923 Tar Heel graduate, he returned to Chapel Hill in 1946 to handle sports publicity. Until that time the sports information work was done by the University News Bureau. Jake arrived back on campus just in time to help make Charlie Justice one of the most famous college football stars of all time. The Carolina Caravan columns he wrote in news releases were a big hit with fans and newspapermen alike.

Jake had been a highly successful newspaperman himself before taking the job at his alma mater. He worked on a number of newspapers, but probably gained his greatest fame as sports editor of the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER where he covered most of Joe Louis's championship fights and regularly staffed the World Series. However, his columns in the OBSERVER, Sports Parade, often were intimate pieces that had nothing to do with sports. Some of those ranked as his best columns, along with colorful essays on the Carolina-Duke football rivalry.

After Jake's death in 1962, he was honored by his fellow sports information directors. CoSIDA named one of its two most prestigious awards after him. The Jake Wade Award is presented annually to a member of the media who has made outstanding contributions to the field of intercollegiate athletics.

What It Was Was Football

The comedy single which launched the career of Andy Griffith. The story of a Saturday at Kenan Stadium was a national hit and Griffith, a Carolina alumnus, went on to a sensational Hollywood career.

Williamson, Ernie

One of the best known figures in Carolina athletics. Williamson, a tackle at Chapel Hill during the Justice Era, served as executive vice-president of the Educational Foundation from 1957 to 1986. In that role he became a friend to more Tar Heel alumni than anyone outside the Alumni Office itself. Ernie still serves the Foundation as director of the endowment. He's also a tremendous source of information on Carolina's athletic history.

Winning Streak

The most victories Carolina has ever put together in a row is 14 and was accomplished before the turn of the century. The Tar Heels went 9-0 in 1898 and then captured their first five games of the 1899 season before a tie with North Carolina A&M. A 13-game winning steak occurred during the 1947 and 1948 seasons. That included the last seven games of 1947 and the first six of 1948. That also was ended by a tie, a 7-7 deadlock with William and Mary.

Chancellor Paul Hardin

Paul Hardin, seventh chancellor of The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, is widely recognized as one of the foremost leaders in American higher education today.

Hardin, a 22-year veteran at the helm of institutions of higher learning, continues to advance the University's time-honored mission of vital teaching, cutting-edge research and distinguished public service. In carrying out that responsibility, the chancellor's chief goal is to ensure that Carolina remains among the nation's finest public research universities in the 21st Century.

Hardin's first two years at Carolina have been marked by determining how the University can serve the people of North Carolina better than ever before. Top priorities currently include effectively managing the University's resources, improving teaching, bolstering research activities and nurturing relationships with key campus constituencies. The chancellor also continues to distinguish himself as a leading national spokesman on the most important issues now facing higher education.

Under his leadership, the University continues to play a key role in generating dialogue across the state about the need for greater flexibility in the management of both funds and people throughout the university system. Hardin also is making changes in his own administration to improve the University's ability to manage itself productively. A reorganized Office of the Provost, for example, now allows the University's chief academic officers to address critical issues cutting across all parts of the University. Several other initiatives aimed at strengthening internal planning and budgeting processes continue.

Under Hardin's guidance, the University is making a commitment to enrich the quality and relevance of undergraduate, graduate, and professional teaching programs. The campus also is taking numerous steps to improve the institution's ability to procure competitive grants and contracts for research and scholarship.

The chancellor is extensively involved in forging strong relationships with individuals, groups, and organizations important to the University. He devotes a significant portion of his time to tapping the University's potential to raise the private funds that will ensure excellence in the future. His close work with other state university, government and local officials is ongoing.

Nationally, Hardin is one of 25 national leaders in business, education and government who are members of the Board of Trustees of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. The Princeton, N.J. policy center is headed by Dr. Ernest L. Boyer and is devoted to strengthening America's colleges and schools. Recent issues the foundation's board has addressed include the crisis facing urban education in America and a blueprint to save troubled inner-city schools. Although its work is primarily focused on the United States, the foundation maintains international perspective and involvement.

Hardin, who was named one of the nation's 100 most effective university presidents in a 1987 study, has provided leadership to numerous other international and national education-related organizations. The chancellor was co-chairman of the Japan-U.S. Conference of University Presidents and a member of the Board of Higher Education in New Jersey and the Board of Directors of the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities.. He twice served as president of the National Association of Schools and Colleges of the United Methodist Church, and was chairman of the National Commission on United Methodist Higher Education.

Such service is among the reasons Rider College, in presenting Hardin one of the seven honorary degrees he holds, called Carolina's leader "one of the finest college executives in these waning days of the 20th Century." The New Jersey school also cited the UNC chancellor's ability to produce "informed and sustained progress" at all of the institutions he has headed.

Hardin has served as a university chancellor or college president since 1968 and has been associated with campuses since he enrolled at Duke University at the age of 17. The North Carolina native came to Chapel Hill in July 1988 after 13 years as president of Drew University in Madison, N.J. He also was president of Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas from 1972 to 1974 and president of Wofford College in Spartanburg, S.C. from 1968 to 1972.

The study of law — in all of its national and international forms — has been a guiding force in Hardin's entire career. After graduating with Phi Beta Kappa honors from Duke in 1952, Hardin entered the Duke law school. He edited the law review and graduated first in his class. After two years in the U.S. Army, Hardin practiced law in Alabama before returning to Duke in 1958 to teach on the law school's faculty for a decade.

During that tenure, Hardin won a four-year Ford Foundation grant for summer study in comparative law and traveled to universities in Canada, Jamaica, Nigeria and Scotland. He also has published numerous articles on legal topics and is the co-author of two books, "Cases and Materials on the Administration of Criminal Justice" and "Evidence: Cases and Materials." Hardin's other writings have addressed civil and criminal trial procedures in Scotland, executive privilege in the federal courts and college campus unrest. In addition, he has been a visiting professor at the law schools of the universities of Pennsylvania, Texas and Virginia. He remains a professor of law at Carolina.

In the community, the chancellor is a member of the Chapel Hill Rotary Club, serves as vice president of the Public Private Partnership and attends the University Methodist Church. Hardin has been involved in politics, running for mayor of Durham in 1967 and serving as the second chairman of the city's Human Relations Council. He also is a former member of Duke's Board of Trustees.

Born in Charlotte, Hardin and his wife, Barbara, call several places in North Carolina home because they were the children of Methodist ministers. During his youth, he lived in Asheboro, Concord, High Point, Shelby, Wadesboro and Waynesville. She grew up in Goldsboro and lived in several other eastern North Carolina towns. The Hardins have three children: Paul Russell Hardin of Atlanta; Sandra Mikush of Durham; and Dorothy Holmes of Birmingham, Mich. His parents, Dorothy and the Bishop Paul Hardin Jr., live in Asheville.

Director of Athletics John Swofford

John Swofford goes into his 11th year as director of athletics at the University of North Carolina with a national reputation as being one of the best administrators in intercollegiate sports.

Swofford, a 1971 Carolina graduate, heads a Tar Heel program which is one of the biggest in the South, fielding 26 varsity teams, and one of the finest in the nation in terms of success on and off the playing field.

In his 10 years as athletic director, Swofford has seen Carolina teams win 60 Atlantic Coast Conference championships and 13 national collegiate titles. In fact, the Tar Heels just recently completed the most successful decade of conference and national championships in school history. In addition, Carolina won more ACC and NCAA crowns than any other league school in the 1980's.

Much of the credit for that success goes to Swofford. He has guided the UNC Athletic Department through a period of tremendous change which has left it both vastly different and vastly better than it was when he took its top job in 1980.

With Swofford in the lead, Carolina successfully completed a $34 million fund-raising drive to construct the Smith Center, a complex which includes a 21,572-seat basketball arena and an Olympic-size swimming pool. He was also the driving force behind the expansion of Kenan Stadium in 1988 and the building of a new press box there. He has a special love for the stadium and made sure its natural beauty would not be damaged before going ahead with the greatly needed alterations.

Swofford planned the construction of the Student-Athlete Development Center as an addition to Kenan Fieldhouse. That building, a one-of-a-kind facility, includes the most modern equipment to aid student-athletes in their studies and physical development.

A Morehead Scholar himself, Swofford has a special interest in the academic side of intercollegiate athletics. The academic center at Kenan is a prototype in its field. He has expanded the academic support staff to function better for the student-athletes who use its services. One of the many results has been the fact Carolina has had more students on the ACC Academic Honor Roll in the last two years than ever before.

Since Swofford became athletic director, a new tennis stadium and clubhouse have been built and an indoor tennis facility is currently being designed; Boshamer Stadium has been expanded and dressing rooms renovated for the baseball team; three new holes have been completed at Finley Golf Course; the football practice fields have been reconstructed and lighted; a new Astroturf playing field has been installed; a new track has been put down at Fetzer Field and the stadium there renovated; and the department has been computerized.

Nationally, Swofford was appointed to the NCAA Football Television Committee in 1982 and was named its chairman in 1984. He handled the committee during the stormy dispute over football television rights. A past chairman of the NCAA Communications Committee, he is now chair of the Special Events/Post-Season Bowl Committee. He served as chairman of the ACC Television Committee when the current basketball contract was signed. This is generally considered to be the most lucrative regional television agreement in college sports.

These accomplishments have not gone unnoticed. In a 1986 ARIZONA REPUBLIC poll of athletic personnel across the country, he was chosen one of the top three athletic directors in the nation. He has elected to turn down several other prominent athletic director positions, as well as inquiries regarding being a conference commissioner, to remain in Chapel Hill.

A native of North Wilkesboro, N.C., Swofford was a two-time all-state football player and a three-sport star at Wilkes Central High School. An honor student in high school, he majored in psychology and industrial relations at Carolina.

Swofford played quarterback and defensive back on Tar Heel football teams in 1969, 1970 and 1971. Those last two teams went to bowl games. He tied a then-school record against Vanderbilt in 1969 by throwing three touchdown passes in one game.

He was named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll and Who's Who in College Athletics. He also served as president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes on campus.

In 1973 he earned a masters in athletic administration at Ohio University.

From 1973 to 1976 he was athletic ticket manager and assistant to the director of athletic facilities at the University of Virginia. He returned to Carolina in May, 1976 as assistant athletic director and business manager, handling all the athletic department's business affairs.

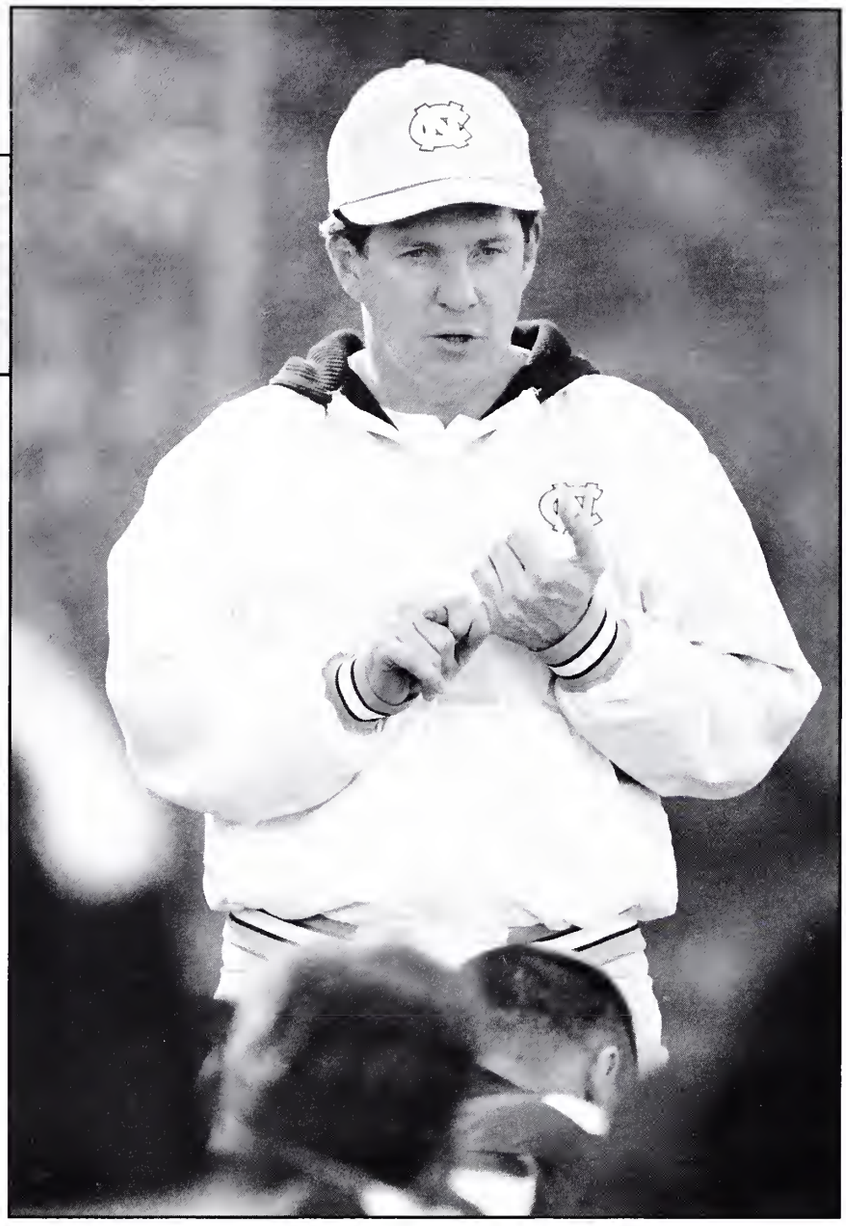
Although he remained assistant athletic director, Swofford dropped the business manager title and was named assistant executive vice-president of the Educational Foundation in January, 1979. In that job he was in charge of the overall financial structure of the athletic department. His position with the Educational Foundation involved general office procedures and fund-raising. He then replaced Bill Cobey as athletic director on May 1, 1980.

Swofford is a member of the executive committee of the National Association of Collegiate Athletic Directors and is on the alumni advisory board for the Ohio University Sports Administration program. He received the Distinguished Alumni Award from Ohio University in 1984. He has been inducted into the Order of the Golden Fleece, Carolina's highest honorary society.

In 1989 Swofford became the first athletic director ever added to the Chancellor's Administrative Council at Carolina. He was on the board of directors for North Carolina Amateur Sports which brought the 1987 Olympic Festival to this area.

A regular jogger, Swofford enjoys reading, golf and tennis. He is married to the former Becky Owens of North Wilkesboro. They have two children, Autumn and Chad.

Head Coach
MACK BROWN



Mack Brown heads into his third year as North Carolina's football coach, having injected enthusiasm and excitement back into the Tar Heel program.

Now he's hoping for improvement on the playing field as his team prepares for the 1990 season.

Despite the fact Carolina has struggled for the last two falls, there is an air of anticipation among Tar Heel players, students and fans. The main reason is Brown, the dynamic 39-year old coach who has taken on the challenge of rebuilding an outstanding program which had slipped.

Outgoing and personable, Brown has been a hit with students and fans alike. He's honest and forthright in his dealings with his players and has proven to be an outstanding recruiter in his time here.

Brown has tremendous communicating skills and mixes well with people from all walks of life. He genuinely likes to be around all types of people and makes himself available to students, faculty, alumni, fans and media. He is regarded by the press as the most accessible coach in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

People who have met him and been touched by his magnetism believe he will get the Tar Heel program back to its old heights and then take it beyond that.

"If Mack Brown can't win at Carolina, no one can," says Charlie Justice, the All-America tailback who led the Tar Heels to three major bowl games in the late Forties. "He's perfect for the school and for our state. He understands people, especially the young players. I can see him eventually having the type of success that our teams did."

Brown became the Carolina coach on December 15, 1987. His selection to replace Dick Crum was made by Athletic Director John Swofford and approved by Chancellor Christopher Fordham.

In announcing the choice of Brown to head the Tar Heel program, Swofford said, "We wanted a man of integrity, a leader and a motivator with a passion for college football and someone with an entertaining offense.

"Mack's name ran through the entire search process. We believe this is the right fit, the right man at the right time for Carolina football."

Brown came to Carolina from Tulane where he rejuvenated the Green Wave's sagging football fortunes in just three years, taking his team to only its fifth bowl game since 1940 in his final season.

However, Brown may be best known for helping develop some of the most explosive offenses in college football. As an offensive coordinator and an assistant, he directed record-setting attacks at Oklahoma, Iowa State and LSU.

Oklahoma Athletic Director Donnie Duncan, the former head coach at Iowa State, touched on that when he heard Brown was coming to Chapel Hill.

"North Carolina has hired a fantastic young coach, someone the University will be proud of for many years," he said. "He's great with kids and he's great for kids. He'll emphasize education and convince players of its importance.

"Offensively, he's got a fantastic mind. He's very innovative. He's an outstanding teacher, an outstanding motivator and is extremely capable on game days. I've known him in all types of situations. I would have to say North Carolina hit a home run."

Brown says he took the Tar Heel job for a number of reasons.

"Everything you need to have a great football program is here," he points out, "facilities, a dedicated staff, a tremendous academic institution and outstanding high school talent in this and surrounding states.

"When I first started coaching I put together a list of jobs in which I thought I would have interest. Carolina was very high on that list.

"We're talking about a university that has one of the best athletic programs in the country. We're talking about a program that believes in ethics and a university that also believes in having the highest regard for academic standards."

Brown says he has three goals for the student-athletes who play for him.

"The number one thing is for each young person to get his degree. We also want them to do the best they can academically to prepare themselves for later life.

"The second thing is that we want to win. And last, but certainly not least, we want the young people to have fun."

Brown's last Tulane team certainly had fun in 1987, in completing one of the fastest turn-arounds in the country. Brown went to Tulane on December 16, 1984 as head coach and was also appointed the school's athletic director the following April. The Green Wave had suffered three straight losing seasons before Brown's arrival in New Orleans and went 1-10 and 4-7 in his first two years on the job.

However, Tulane then posted a 6-5 record, earning a spot opposite Washington in the Independence Bowl. In the process, the Green Wave set school records for total offense and points. Tulane ranked 11th in the nation in scoring, averaging 32.5 points a game. Wide receiver Marc Zeno won first-team All-America honors and quarterback Terrence Jones was fourth nationally in total offense and 10th in passing.

"Simply amazing" is the way Appalachian State Athletic Director Jim Garner describes Brown's success at Tulane. Garner, who gave Brown his first head coaching job at Appalachian, has followed his career closely.

"He had to build the Tulane program back from ashes," says Garner. "It was almost like he walked into a war zone down there, but he's got that kind of competitiveness. He refuses to use the word 'failure.' He was determined to make that program go."

In his first head coaching job at Appalachian, he directed the Mountaineers to a 6-5 record in 1983 at the age of 32. He went to Oklahoma the following season as offensive coordinator.

In his year on Barry Switzer's staff, the Sooners averaged 325.8 yards a game in total offense in compiling a 9-2-1 record, won the Big Eight championship and earned a berth in the Orange Bowl. Brown helped Oklahoma develop its best passing attack in years to go along with its always potent option-oriented running game. His success there helped lead to the Tulane job.

Prior to taking the head coach's position at Appalachian, Brown had run the offense at LSU in 1982. The Tigers went 8-2-1 and played in the Orange Bowl. The "Mack Attack" offense was the second most improved in the nation that fall, averaging over 400 yards a game.

While at Iowa State, from 1979 to 1981, Brown served as receivers coach for one year and as offensive coordinator for the last two seasons. In his time as offensive coordinator the Cyclones broke 17 school and Big Eight Conference records and produced league leaders in rushing and total offense.

Brown began his full-time coaching career at Southern Mississippi in 1974, working with receivers for four seasons, and then spent one year coaching that same position at Memphis State.

A native of Cookeville, Tenn., Brown attended Vanderbilt and Florida State. He lettered twice as a running back for the Seminoles in 1971 and 1972. He finished work on his bachelor's degree in education at FSU in 1974. While there, he worked on a part-time basis, coaching receivers and the junior varsity. He received his master's degree in administration from Southern Mississippi in 1976.

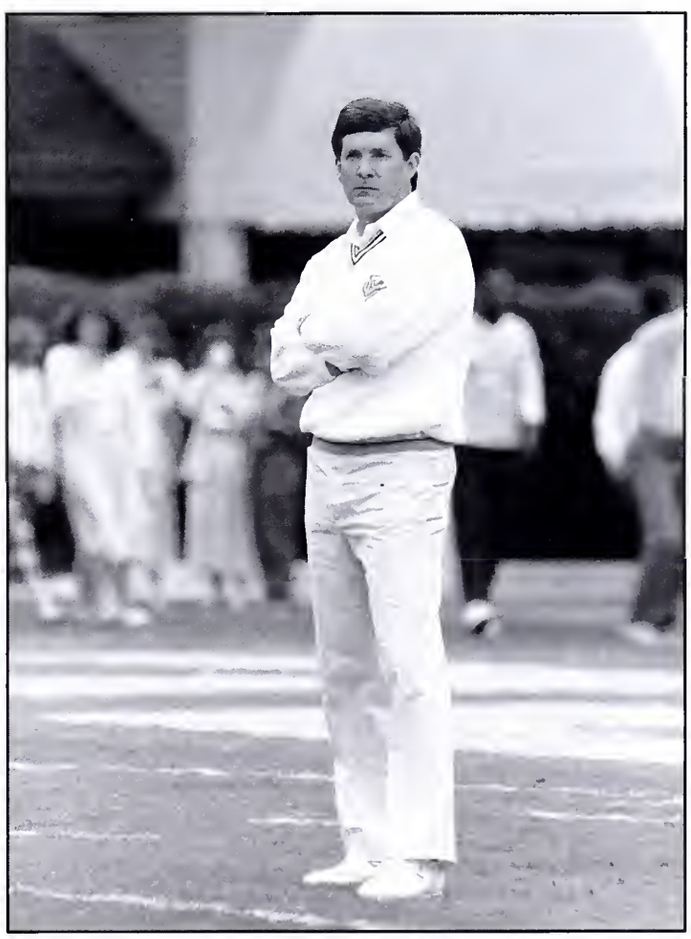
Brown had been a three-sport star at Putnam County High School, lettering three times in football. He won all-state and All-America honors and was selected one of the nation's top 100 running backs by Scholastic Magazine in 1968. He was class president and a Who's Who in America choice.

Although Brown's goal at Carolina is to recruit the best players in the country, he would like his staff to be most effective in the states of North Carolina and Virginia.

"From the time I've spent here and the time I was at Appalachian, I know there are some outstanding high school coaches in these two states," he says. "Our goal is to recruit the ACC area in general with special emphasis on North Carolina and Virginia. Traditionally, that's where Carolina has gotten some of its best players.

"We are the state university. We should recruit here first. Kids in this area have grown up hearing about Carolina. They are familiar with what it means to play here. Now, that certainly doesn't mean we won't go outside the ACC area for players. If there are young people in another part of the country who have an interest in us, we'll talk to them. But, I do think we should take advantage of the fine high school coaching and talent we have here before we look elsewhere."

Brown is married to the former Debbie Morris of Pensacola, Fla. They have two children, Katherine Jane (13) and Barbara Ellen (10).



The Tar Heel Staff

Tim Brewster

(Tight End Coach)

Moving into a full-time position on the Carolina staff is Tim Brewster, who worked as a volunteer coach here last fall.

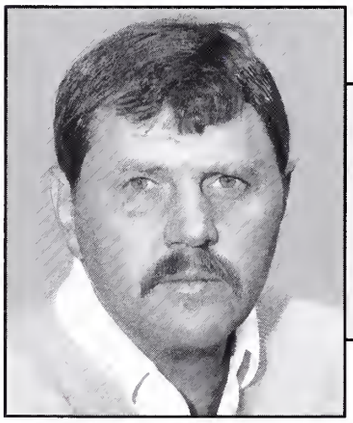
Prior to coming to Carolina, Brewster had been head coach at Lafayette Central Catholic High School in Lafayette, Ind. In two years there he produced an 8-4 team in 1987 and a 7-4 squad in 1988, the school's first winning seasons in a decade. He helped develop the state's leading passer for each of those years.

In 1986 he had been a graduate assistant coach at Purdue, working with tight ends and tackles and coordinating special teams. Prior to that he had worked at his alma mater, Illinois, as a volunteer assistant. He also coached tight ends and tackles there and served as coordinator of the winter conditioning program.

A native of Phillipsburg, N.J., Brewster was a two-year starter at tight end for Illinois in 1982 and 1983. He was an All-Big Ten selection both seasons. As a senior he led the nation's tight ends in receiving and was chosen a team captain for the Rose Bowl game against UCLA. Following that season he was selected for the East-West Shrine Classic and the Japan Bowl.

Brewster was signed by the New York Giants and was among the team's final cuts. However, he was picked up by the Philadelphia Eagles and played there in 1984 and 1985.

Tim and his wife Cathy have three sons — Eric, Clint and Nolan.



Dan Brooks

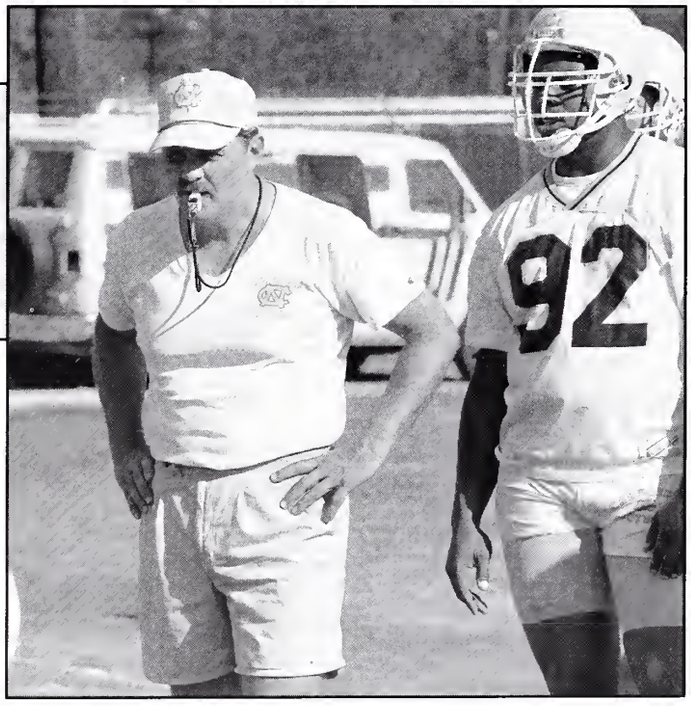
(Defensive Line Coach)

Heading into his third season as coach of Carolina's defensive front is Dan Brooks.

Brooks came to Chapel Hill in the spring of 1988 from the University of Florida where he had been coaching the Gator middle guards. Two of his players there, Tim Newton in 1984 and Jeff Roth in 1987, won All-Southeastern Conference honors and Newton was a second-team All-America. His star tackle at Carolina last fall, Cecil Gray, was an All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection.

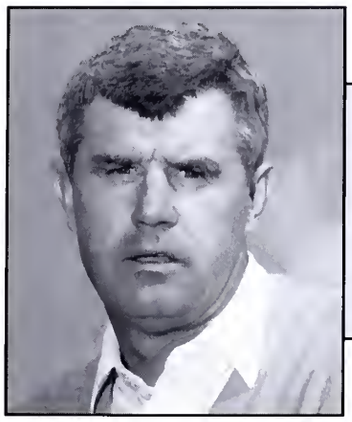
A native of Sparta, N.C., Brooks played football at Appalachian State in 1969 before joining the U.S. Army Special Forces School that December. He served in the Special Forces division for three years and also played interservice football with the Army Gunners. He then enrolled at Western Carolina in 1972, receiving his B.S. in education in 1976.

While at Western Carolina, he coached the Catamounts' defensive ends for two seasons. After graduation, he became offensive and defensive line coach at Kings Mountain High School in North Carolina in 1976. He was defensive coordinator and offensive line coach in 1977 and then served as the school's head coach and athletic director from 1978 to 1982.



In 1983 he joined the Florida staff as a graduate assistant. He received a masters degree in administration and supervision from Florida the following year and also became a full-time member of the coaching staff.

Brooks is married to the former Kathy Whitaker. They have a daughter, Tara, and a son, Rhett.



Jim Cavanaugh

(Wide Receiver Coach)

Jim Cavanaugh, who has helped direct teams to eight post-season bowl games, will again work with the Tar Heel wide receivers.

Cavanaugh was on coaching staffs of teams which went to four bowl games at N.C. State in the 1970s and four at Maryland in the 1980s. He also helped coach four Atlantic Coast Conference championship teams — three at Maryland and one at State.

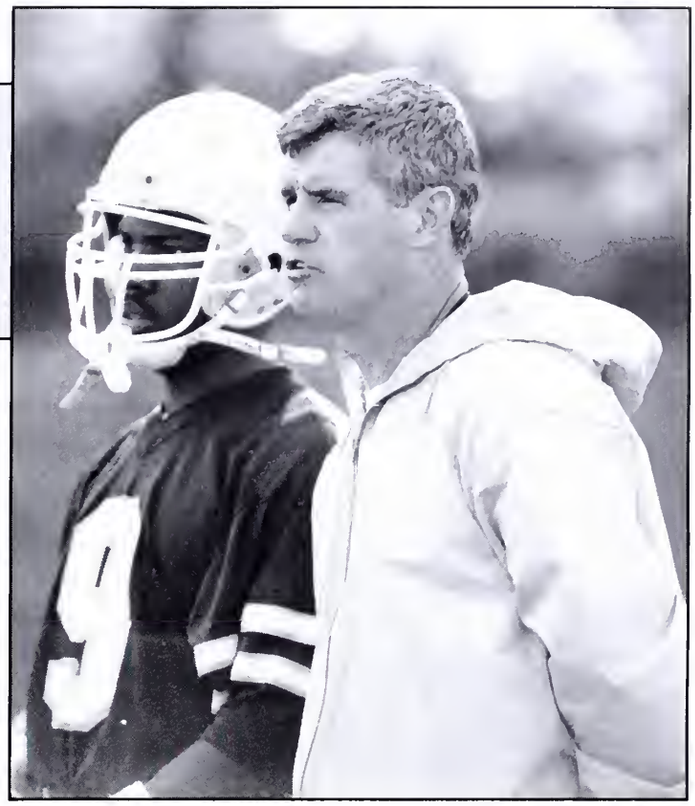
Cavanaugh joined the Carolina staff in 1988 from Maryland where he had been offensive coordinator and quarterback coach. He had coached running backs there from 1982 to 1986.

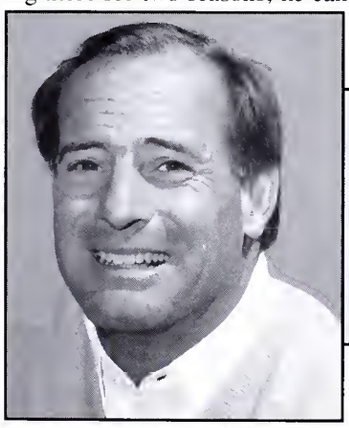
An All-Southern Conference wide receiver at William and Mary, Cavanaugh caught 117 passes in his college career for 1,600 yards. He was an honorable mention All-America.

After graduation in 1970, Cavanaugh coached two years of high school football in Newport News, Va. at Newport News High and Denbigh High. He then went to N.C. State as a graduate assistant to Lou Holtz. After receiving a masters degree in Education there, he spent three years coaching receivers and running backs at VMI. He returned to N.C. State to coach wide receivers in 1977 and 1978.

In 1979 he became offensive coordinator at Marshall. After serving there for two seasons, he came back to the ACC to coach the Virginia wide receivers in 1981. He joined Bobby Ross's Maryland staff the following year.

A native of Queens, N.Y., Cavanaugh is married to the former Marsha Carnell of Atlanta, Ga. They have two children, Ryan and Lauren.





Bruce Johnson

(Secondary Coach)

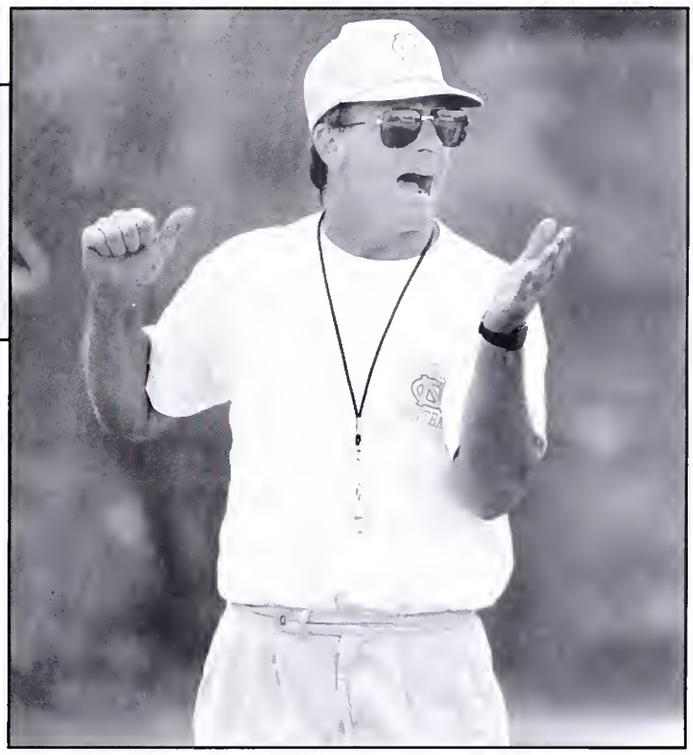
Bruce Johnson, defensive coordinator at the Air Force Academy for the past six years, is Carolina's new defensive backfield coach.

Johnson, a native of Reidsville, N.C., has 16 years of college coaching experience. All of that has been spent on defense. He has worked with eight bowl teams, including last year's Liberty Bowl squad at Air Force.

In addition to Air Force, Johnson has also coached at N.C. State, Furman, Marshall, The Citadel and LSU. He and Carolina Coach Mack Brown were members of the same coaching staff at LSU in 1982 when the Tigers went to the Orange Bowl. At N.C. State he worked with Tar Heel offensive coordinator Darrell Moody and wide receiver coach Jim Cavanaugh.

After graduating from Wofford in 1970, Johnson began his coaching career on the high school level in Reidsville and High Point, N.C. His first college job was as a graduate assistant to Lou Holtz at N.C. State.

After leaving State, Johnson went to Furman for two years, back to State for two, to Marshall for one, The Citadel for two, LSU for two and the Air Force for six.

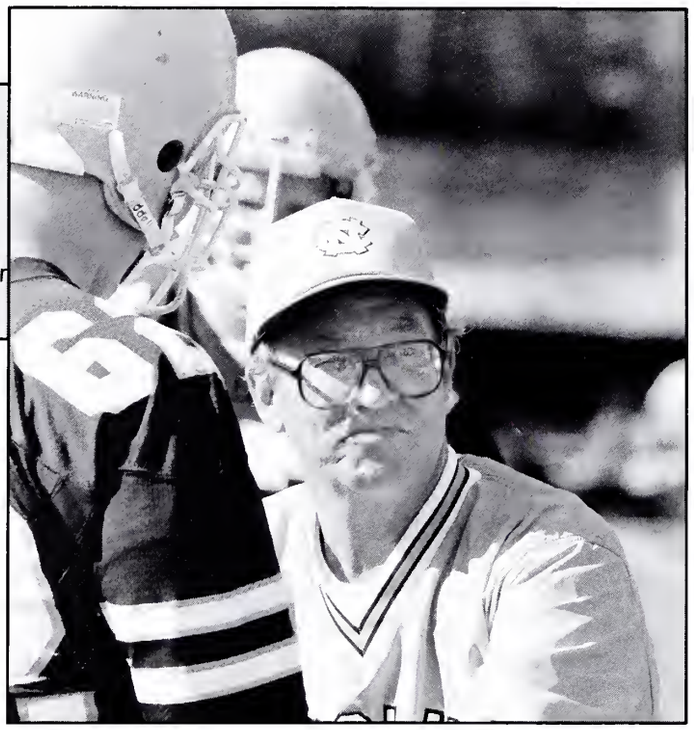


Johnson has been a secondary coach most of his career. He has also served as a defensive coordinator at Air Force, Marshall and The Citadel.

Bruce and his wife, Connie, have a daughter, Jessica.

Whitey Jordan

(Assistant Head Coach and Center and Offensive Guard Coach)



Whitey Jordan, who has worked with some of the most successful offenses in college football, is beginning his first season at Carolina where he will coach the centers and offensive guards.

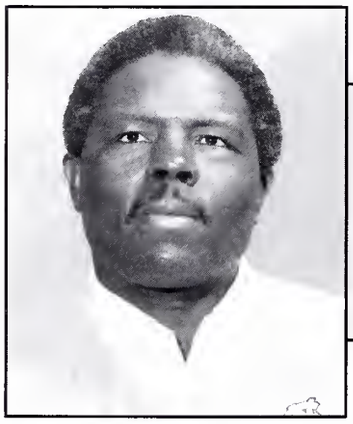
In addition, Jordan will also serve as assistant head coach. In that role he will have a number of administrative duties.

A 31-year veteran of college coaching, Jordan comes to Carolina from the University of Florida where he was offensive coordinator and running back coach last fall. In fact, he has been an offensive coordinator in 23 of his previous 31 seasons — eight at Clemson, seven at Southern Mississippi, five at SMU, two at Wake Forest and then last year at Florida.

Jordan began his coaching career at Clemson, his alma mater, in 1959 and was on the Tiger staff for 14 seasons. He then spent nine years at Southern Mississippi. Tar Heel Coach Mack Brown and offensive coordinator Darrell Moody were also on that staff for a while. From there Jordan went to SMU for five years, to Wake Forest for two and to Florida for the 1989 season.

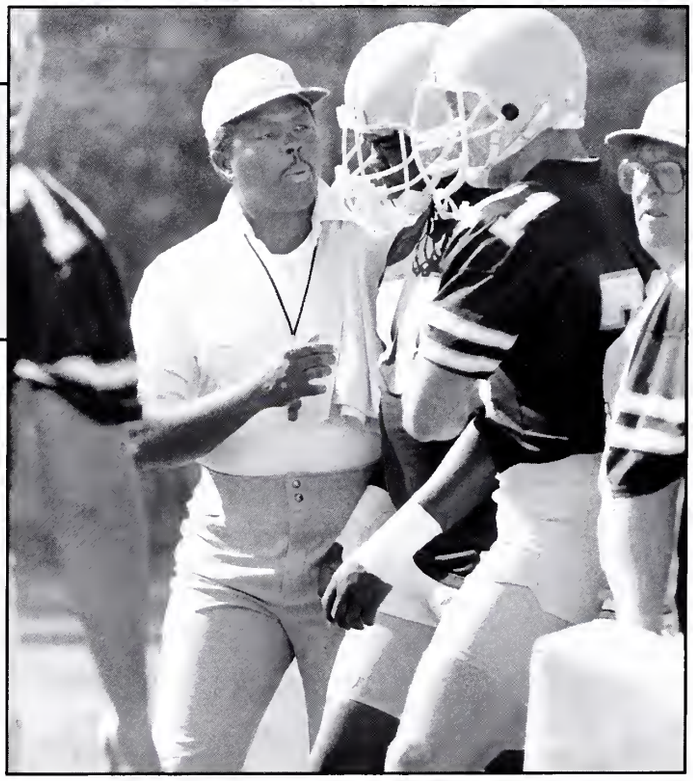
Last fall at Florida Jordan coached Emmitt Smith, the nation's third-leading rusher. As offensive coordinator at Southern Miss he used quarterback Reggie Collier to lead the Golden Eagles to two Top 20 rankings. At SMU he developed an offense around the "Pony Express" backfield of Eric Dickerson and Craig James. At Wake his offense featured Mike Elkins, the third-leading passer in ACC history.

A native of Florence, S.C., Jordan has coached offensive linemen for most of his career. He and his wife, Kappy, have four children — daughters Kim, Karol and Jo Kyle and son Stewart.



Terry Lewis

(Offensive Tackle Coach)



Terry Lewis, an all-star lineman in his own playing days, is beginning his third season as coach of the Tar Heel offensive tackles.

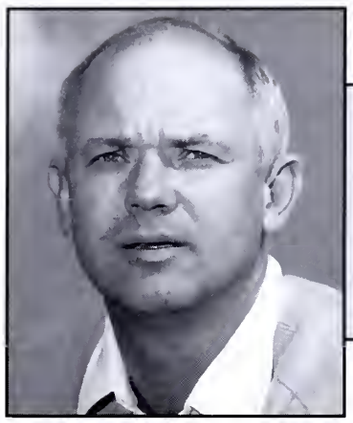
Lewis was a member of Mack Brown's 1987 Tulane staff and joined him at Carolina that December after Brown was named the head coach here. In his first season in Chapel Hill he coached Darrell Hamilton, a third-round NFL draft selection and a member of the AFC champion Denver Broncos.

A native of Memphis, Tenn., Lewis is a 1970 graduate of Southern University where he won all-conference and All-America honors as a senior offensive lineman. He played briefly with the Buffalo Bills before beginning his coaching career.

Lewis's first coaching job was at the U. S. Naval Academy Prep School in 1971. He then was on Navy's staff from 1972 to 1974 before going to Western Michigan for two years. He then spent two seasons each at Illinois and Southern. He coached at East Carolina in 1981 and then went back to Navy for a two-year stint.

In 1984 Lewis began a three-year stop at LSU. In that period, the Tigers went to the Sugar Bowl twice and to the Liberty Bowl once. He left there to join Brown at Tulane for the 1987 season. In all of his coaching assignments, Lewis has worked with the offensive line.

Lewis is married to the former Tessa Sanders. They have three children—Terry II, Jonathan and Wyatt.



Darrell Moody

(Offensive Coordinator and Running Back Coach)

Coordinating the Carolina offense is Darrell Moody, who will also coach the team's running backs.

In addition to running the offense, Moody had coached quarterbacks in his first two years in Chapel Hill. He took over the running backs in a staff reorganization last spring. He also coached this position at N.C. State from 1976 to 1979 and at LSU from 1980 to 1983. He helped develop two of the top five career rushers at each school — Ted Brown and Billy Ray Vickers at State and Dalton Hilliard and Garry James at LSU.

A native of Asheboro, N.C., Moody was an all-state football and baseball player at Asheboro High School. He played both sports at N.C. State, graduating in 1970. He also got his masters there.

He began his coaching career at Asheboro High in 1971 and 1972. He returned to State as a graduate assistant in 1973 and 1974 before taking his first full-time position at Southern Mississippi. Mack Brown was also on the Golden Eagle staff at that time.

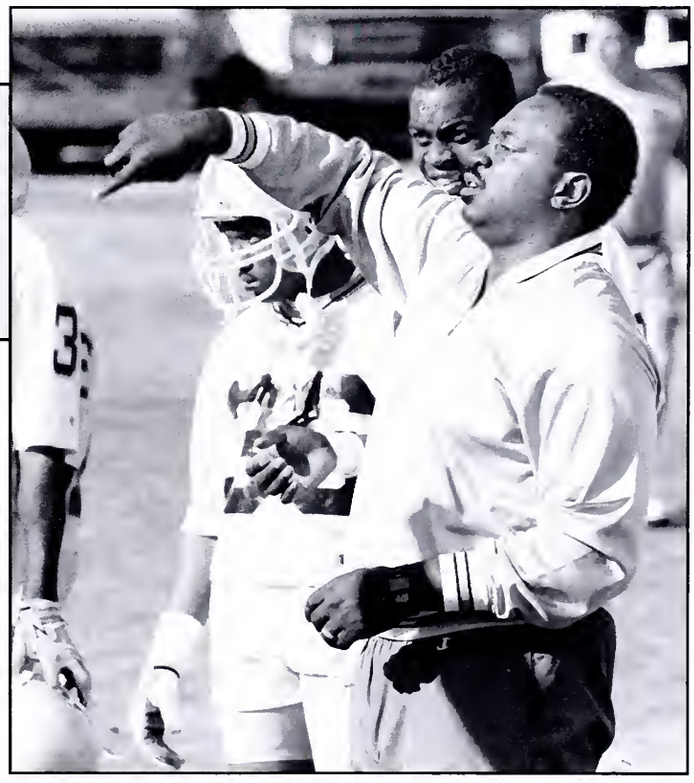
Moody returned to State from 1976 to 1979, coaching both quarterbacks and running backs in his last three years there. He then went to LSU. Brown was with him there in 1982 and the two men were also together briefly at Appalachian State. Moody served as the Mountaineers' assistant head coach in 1984. He then joined Brown at Tulane the following season.

As offensive coordinator and quarterback coach at Tulane, Moody directed an attack which set numerous school records. The Green Wave was 11th in the nation in scoring in 1987.

Married to the former Martha Ann Henry, Moody and his wife have two children, Christopher Lee and Michael Scott.

Donnie Thompson

(Outside Linebacker Coach)



Starting his second season on the Tar Heel staff is Donnie Thompson, who will again coach the Carolina outside linebackers.

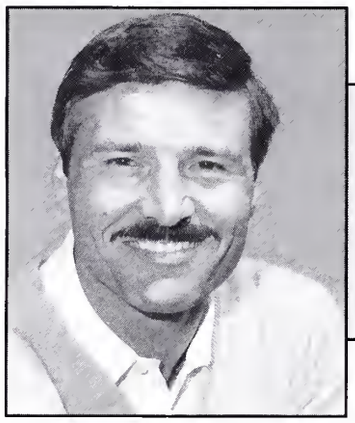
Thompson came to Chapel Hill in March of 1989 from East Carolina. In his first year here he helped Eric Gash develop into one of the Atlantic Coast Conference's top defenders. His other starter from last fall, Willie Joe Walker, signed a professional contract with the Seattle Seahawks.

At East Carolina Thompson had served as defensive line coach for two seasons. In addition, he also coached special teams and was an administrative assistant in the football office.

Prior to working in Greenville, Thompson had coached linebackers at Western Kentucky for two years and the defensive line at Pittsburgh for three seasons. He had spent the first six years of his coaching career at Connecticut, his alma mater.

A native of Bogalusa, La., Thompson was an all-conference linebacker at Connecticut in his playing days. He also won All-East honors. As a senior, he was the Huskies' team captain and was voted the squad's most valuable player. He earned a bachelor degree there in 1975 and a masters in 1976.

Thompson and his wife, Gilda, have two children, Don and Amie.



Carl Torbush

(Defensive Coordinator and Linebacker Coach)

Coaching Carolina's inside linebackers and coordinating the entire Tar Heel defense is Carl Torbush, one of the top defensive coaches in the college game.

Torbush gave up the head coaching job at Louisiana Tech to join Mack Brown's initial UNC staff in 1988. A 16-year coaching veteran, Torbush has spent most of his career working with defenses.

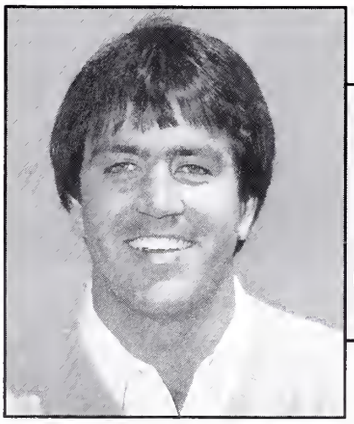
Prior to taking the head job at Louisiana Tech, he had been the defensive coordinator and linebacker coach at the University of Mississippi. In four years at Ole Miss, Torbush took the Rebels from last in the Southeastern Conference in total defense to first in 1986.

From 1979 to 1982, Torbush had been assistant head coach, recruiting coordinator and linebacker coach at Louisiana Tech. The Bulldogs were second in the 1982 I-AA national rankings and made the national playoffs.

Torbush's other coaching assignments have been as an assistant at Carter High School in Knoxville, Tenn. in 1974; a graduate assistant under Grant Teaff at Baylor in 1975; and linebacker and defensive end coach at Southeastern Louisiana from 1976 to 1978. He also served as baseball coach there.

A native of East Spencer, N.C., Torbush is a graduate of Austin East High School in Knoxville where he won all-state honors in football and baseball. He attended Tennessee and Carson-Newman, graduating in 1974. He was a first-team All-America at Carson-Newman in both football and baseball and played in the Kansas City Royals' organization for one year before going to graduate school at Baylor.

Carl and his wife, Janet, have a baby son, Trey.



Mark Maye

(Graduate Assistant Coach)

Working as a member of the Carolina coaching staff this fall is Mark Maye, the former Tar Heel quarterback who is taking graduate courses in business.

Maye will assist Mack Brown in working with the UNC signal-callers.

Despite an injury-plagued career at Carolina, Maye holds a number of school passing and total offense records. Although he played in just 26 games during his time in Chapel Hill, Maye still ranks as the Tar Heels' fourth-leading career passer. He is also fifth on the all-time total offense list.

A shoulder problem limited Maye to just four games in his freshman season and sidelined him completely the next year. But, he came back from that to have big junior and senior seasons.

As a senior he set the school single-game passing yardage record with 406 at Georgia Tech. He also had a record 420 yards of total offense that day. He threw a 93-yard touchdown pass in that game, the longest in school history. Maye gained 1914 yards in total offense and 1965 yards passing that season, both also Tar Heel records.

An excellent student, Maye came to Carolina on a Morehead Scholarship, the most prestigious academic grant awarded by the University. He was a two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference Academic Team selection. As a senior he won a post-graduate scholarship from the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame.

Monk Tomlinson

(Administrative Assistant)

Monk Tomlinson brings great organization and thoroughness to his new position of administrative assistant.

Tomlinson is moving into his administrative job after serving as the interior line coach for the past two years at Carolina. He was one of five Tulane assistants who came with Mack Brown to Chapel Hill in December, 1987. He had been a member of Brown's Green Wave staff for three seasons.

A 1959 graduate of William and Mary, Tomlinson began his coaching career at Maryville College in Tennessee. He was the offensive line coach there from 1959 to 1963. He then served as the school's head coach until 1971.

From 1971 to 1973, Tomlinson was offensive backfield coach at Tennessee Tech. He then spent 10 years at Northeast Louisiana, working as backfield coach from 1974 to 1978 and offensive line coach and recruiting coordinator during the rest of his time there. He went from Northeast to Tulane.

A native of Norfolk, Va., Tomlinson was an all-state player at Maury High School. He then was a three-year starter at William and Mary at offensive guard and linebacker. In addition to his undergraduate degree, Tomlinson received a masters from Tennessee in 1971.

In his time on the Tar Heel staff Tomlinson worked with players who won All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors three times — Jeff Garnica in 1988 and Pat Crowley in 1988 and 1989. Garnica won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the league's best blocker.

Tomlinson is married to the former Shirley Ann Burgess. They have two children, Julie Ann and John Curtis.

Joe Robinson

(Assistant Athletic Director for Recruiting)

Joe Robinson, a star on Carolina's 1963 Gator Bowl championship team, is now in his fourth year of directing the Tar Heels' recruiting services.

In his job at Chapel Hill, Robinson coordinates football recruiting, assists coaches of non-revenue sports in their recruiting and also performs other duties in the athletic department. However, his focus is on football.

A native of Black Mountain, N.C., Robinson was a senior end on the 1963 Carolina football team which tied for the Atlantic Coast Conference championship and swamped the Air Force Academy, 35-0, in the Gator Bowl. Robinson was the Tar Heels' second-leading receiver that year with 19 catches for 259 yards and three touchdowns. He received both his undergraduate and masters degrees in education at Carolina.

After graduating, Robinson entered the coaching profession as an assistant at Fike High School in Wilson, N.C. in 1964. He worked there three seasons before spending two years in military service.

Robinson then worked as an assistant at VMI, Duke and Virginia from 1968 to 1973. He was the head freshman coach and offensive line coach at VMI, defensive line coach at Duke and worked with receivers at Virginia.

In 1973 he became head coach at Westminster School in Atlanta and stayed there until returning to the Virginia staff in 1979. He went from there on to Episcopal High School in Alexandria, Va. in 1982 as head football coach and golf coach. He remained there until coming to Carolina in August, 1987 to accept his present position.

Robinson is the father of a son, Ben.

Brian Davis

(Athletic Academic Coordinator)

Serving as athletic academic coordinator at Carolina is Brian Davis, who is now beginning his seventh year on the Tar Heel staff.

Davis works as the primary academic counselor for the Carolina football team. In that job, he advises players in the areas of course selection and scheduling, career planning and rules and regulations pertaining to eligibility.

In addition, Davis monitors the academic progress of the players throughout the school year. The work of Davis and the Tar Heel players has paid off especially big recently with Carolina graduating over 70 percent of its seniors in each of the last three years.

Davis also coordinates and supervises the operation of the Student-Athlete Development Center, scheduling and overseeing study halls and language and computer labs. He assists John Blanchard in running the entire UNC Academic Athletic Affairs program.

Before coming to Chapel Hill, Davis worked as assistant athletic academic counselor at Iowa State, his alma mater.

A 1981 graduate, Davis received both his BA and his master of science from Iowa State. As a senior he was a member of the Cyclones' Big Eight championship track team, competing as a long jumper and sprinter.

Davis is married to the former Brenda Perry. He is an avid golfer and fisherman.

(Director of Athletic Academic Affairs)

In this position, Blanchard heads up the Tar Heel academic counseling program for student-athletes.

A native of Sacramento, Calif., Blanchard is a 1975 graduate of Stanford University. He was voted the most inspirational senior on the 1974 football team there and won first-team All-West Coast honors. He was a first-team Churchmen's All-America and a second-team All-Pac Eight selection.

After graduation, Blanchard became national director of the NCAA's Volunteers for Youth organization. He headed up the first NCAA staff which implemented, administered and supervised the establishment of 22 programs across the country and planned further expansion.

Blanchard obtained his masters degree from San Diego State in 1981. He served as a specialist for the Social Advocates for Youth programs in San Diego in that same year. He then taught sixth grade students at Friendship Christian Schools in Raleigh before becoming executive director of Volunteers for Youth in Carrboro in 1982. He held that position until taking the job at Carolina in 1985.

Blanchard is married to the former Dawn London. They have a daughter, Janel, and a son, Shaun.

(Athletic Strength Director)

A key figure in Carolina's football program is Rich Tuten, now in his third year as athletic strength director.

Tuten joined the Tar Heel staff in June of 1988 from the University of Florida. He had headed the Gator strength and conditioning program since 1980.

His major responsibility in Chapel Hill is to develop physical improvement programs for Tar Heel athletic teams. Much of his time is devoted to football.

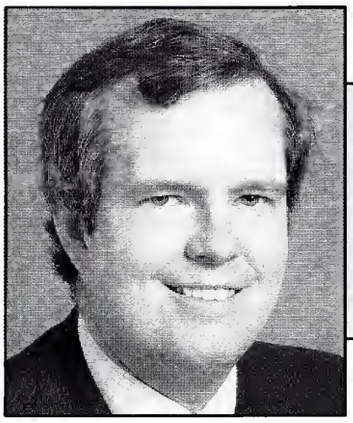
Carolina Coach Mack Brown has given Tuten credit for the fact his team has gotten stronger and faster in each of the last two years. His off-season running and lifting program has paid big dividends in a short period of time.

Tuten is a 1979 graduate of Clemson where he lettered three times in football and was a two-year starter at middle guard. He was named to the All-America Strength Team as a senior. He played one year with the Denver Broncos and one year in the Canadian Football League.

During the off-season Tuten worked as an assistant in the Clemson weight room before taking the job at Florida. His job in Gainesville included supervising strength and conditioning programs for men and women athletes, much as the one at Carolina does. He also had a number of other duties in the Gator football office.

Tuten is a member of the National Strength Conditioning Association. He designed Florida's current strength complex.

Rich and his wife, Donna, have two sons, Will and Matthew.



Chris Schleter

(Director of Athletic Photography and Data Processing)

Chris Schleter is heading into his ninth year as director of athletic photography and data processing at Carolina.

A 1977 Tar Heel graduate, Schleter is involved with a number of computer projects in the Athletic Department. He also records and processes game and practice films for the Carolina football team.

Schleter, a native of Garrett Park, Md., earned a masters of science degree in computer science in 1981 and since then has taken responsibility for several areas of computerization in the Department. He designs, develops and maintains computer programs and documentation for scouting, film record-keeping, academic progress of student-athletes and budget control for football and recruiting.

In addition to doing all the filming for football, Schleter also works with the scouting of opponents. A key part of eight bowl teams, including a stint as a football manager as an undergraduate, Schleter can be found at the Smith Center when not at his desk in Kenan Fieldhouse. He operates and maintains the color graphic message boards for all events in the arena from basketball games to concerts.

In all, this is the 17th year that Schleter has been associated with Carolina football in one way or another. He moved into his full-time position in July, 1982.

Dan Hooker

(Head Football Trainer)

Dan Hooker is heading into his second season as head trainer for Carolina's football team.

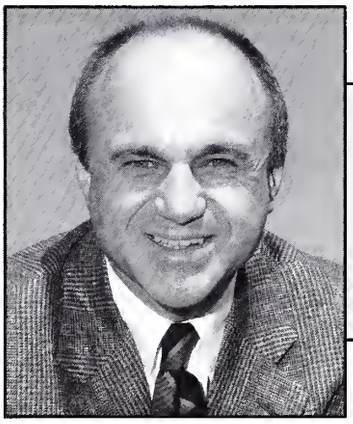
But, Hooker is not really a newcomer to Tar Heel athletics. He has been on the athletic training staff here since 1972 and had assisted with football for a number of years before taking the top job last season.

In addition to his work with the football team, Hooker will also continue to serve as coordinator of athletic training and physical therapy at Carolina. He has held that position since 1984.

A native of Danville, Va., Hooker's initial responsibility in Chapel Hill was to provide academic direction through the physical education department. He also served as head trainer for a number of Tar Heel teams, as well as assisting with football. He worked with three UNC lacrosse teams which won NCAA championships.

Hooker earned his Bachelor of Science degree in physical therapy from the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond in 1967. He also received a Master of Science degree in secondary education from the University of Southern California in 1971 and a Ph.D in education from Carolina in 1982.

Hooker and his wife, Sharon, have two sons — Sean and Stefan.



Rick Brewer

(Assistant Athletic Director for Sports Information and Public Relations)

Rick Brewer is beginning his 23rd year in the Carolina Sports Information Office and his 16th as its director.

Brewer is a native of North Carolina, growing up in Winston-Salem and Greensboro. He is a 1971 Carolina graduate with a degree in journalism.

A student assistant in the sports information office for three years, Brewer was selected the school's first assistant SID upon graduation. He held that position for four years and then was named sports information director in 1975. He was given the title of assistant athletic director last spring.

Brewer is directly in charge of publicity for Carolina's football and men's basketball teams. In addition, he oversees the publicizing of the University's entire 26-sport program.

In 1984 Brewer served as a press officer for the United States Olympic Committee at the Summer Games in Los Angeles. In that role, he served as a liaison between the media covering the Games and American athletes and coaches. He has handled similar duties at two USOC Olympic Festivals—at Indianapolis in 1982 and on the Carolina campus in 1987.

For the past eight years Brewer has been a member of the Media Coordination Committee which assists the media at the Final Four of the NCAA Men's Basketball Championships. He is a member of the Football Writers Association of America, the U.S. Basketball Writers Association, the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association and the College Sports Information Directors of America.

Brewer, a bachelor, is regarded as one of the world's finest parallel parkers and worst dancers.

Dave Lohse

(Associate Sports Information Director)

Dave Lohse is in his 12th year as a member of the Carolina sports information staff.

Lohse's major responsibilities are assisting with the publicizing of the Tar Heel football and basketball teams, editing the basketball media guide and game programs and handling publicity for a number of non-revenue sports. He has won several national editing and writing awards from CoSIDA (College Sports Information Directors of America).

The U.S. Olympic Committee chose Lohse to serve as a press officer at the 1988 Summer Olympic Games in Seoul. He has also worked for the USOC at three National Olympic Festivals — in Houston in 1986, on the Carolina campus in 1987 and in Minneapolis last summer.

In his time at Carolina, Lohse has coordinated publicity for seven Tar Heel teams which have won national championships — three in lacrosse and four in women's soccer.

A 1977 graduate of Purdue, Lohse worked in the Boilermaker Sports Information Office for three years as a student assistant. He was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa there.

Lohse spent two years as a graduate assistant in the Carolina Sports Information Office before being named assistant SID in August, 1979. He was promoted to associate SID last spring.

A native of Griffith, Ind., Lohse is a member of CoSIDA, the Football Writers Association of America, the U.S. Basketball Writers Association and the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association.

A bachelor, Lohse is a long-suffering Chicago Cubs fan.

The Educational Foundation

One of the most important organizations in the Carolina Athletic Department is the University's Educational Foundation.

It is the Educational Foundation which raises funds for athletic scholarships at Carolina.

These scholarships, either partial or full, will be awarded to nearly 400 student-athletes for the 1990-91 academic year, with an additional 100 awarded for summer school. The scholarship budget, which has more than doubled in the last nine years, will total $2.75 million this year.

"Since its founding in 1938, the Educational Foundation has provided scholarships, either partial or full, to over 6,000 student-athletes," says Moyer Smith, the Foundation's executive vice-president.

The purpose of the Foundation is to offer financial aid to worthy young men and women seeking an education at the University and to support University programs by providing services and funds for the construction of facilities or purchase of equipment.

The following are categories of annual giving:

Super Ram ($1,200)—Entitles a member to purchase up to eight season football tickets (selected location) and receive an assigned parking space. Football seating and parking will be in a preferred area.

Big Ram ($600)—Entitles a member to purchase four season football tickets (selected location) and receive an assigned parking space. Football seating and parking will be in a preferred area.

Ram ($300)—Entitles a member to purchase two season football tickets (selected location). Additional tickets may be purchased, but location of tickets is subject to the point system.

Little Ram ($150)—Entitles a member to purchase four season football tickets. However, location of tickets is subject to the point system each year.

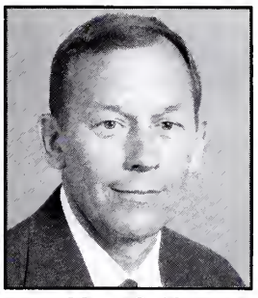
Educational Foundation Member ($50)—Those who give less than $150 receive periodic bulletins and the option to purchase tickets. The minimum Foundation membership is $50 per year. However, contributions of any amount are welcome.

Carolina was one of the first schools in the nation to set up an endowment program for athletics. This program was started in 1968 and consists of $75,000 endowed scholarships set up through insurance, life memberships, wills and bequests and a pooled income program.

The Foundation operates on a dignified and realistic plane in compliance with all of the regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"We couldn't have the type program we do without the Educational Foundation," says Athletic Director John Swofford. "We've enlarged our staff in the last several years and I think the staff additions we have made will enable us to do a better job for our members."

The Foundation offices are located at the Smith Center in the North end of the Koury Natatorium. This new office complex has helped tremendously in allowing the Foundation staff to better serve the membership.



Moyer Smith

Moyer Smith is in his fourth year as executive vice-president of the Educational Foundation.

Smith was appointed to the position in December of 1986, replacing Ernie Williamson. Williamson, who had held the job since 1957, is now heading the Foundation's endowment program.

A native of Lexington, N.C., Smith has been connected with Carolina throughout a good portion of his athletic career. He played halfback on Tar Heel football teams from 1958 to 1960.

Following graduation in 1961, he coached for six years in high schools in Winston-Salem, Albemarle and Lexington. He then returned to Chapel Hill to serve as an assistant on Bill Dooley's football staff for six seasons. He was head coach of the Tar Heel freshmen for three years, posting a 14-1 record and winning three straight Big Four championships.

He left Carolina in 1973 to join the coaching staff at Florida State, but returned the following year to become assistant athletic director for business. He was named associate athletic director two years later.

Before taking over Williamson's position, Smith served on the foundation staff for nine years. He worked as field secretary and then as vice-president for membership services.

Smith is married to the former Jane Webster of Lexington. They have two sons, Moyer, Jr. and Brent, and a grandson, Moyer Gray, III.

The University

After seven years of using a novel strategy in the laboratory, Dr. Michael Swift and colleagues from The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill's School of Medicine found the first evidence of a specific gene that predisposes women to breast cancer.

The pioneering work of a team of researchers led by Dr. Swift also has led to the isolation of genes predisposing people to alcoholism and a rare form of heart disease.

Today, those accomplishments continue to pay dividends in the University's schools of medicine and public health, which have incorporated the Swift team's findings into their curricula. As a result, students publish papers on related cases they have encountered. This means the students, while learning themselves, are contributing significantly to the future knowledge of human and medical genetics.

In addition, faculty members specializing in human genetics draw from the same work in their presentations to junior and senior high school teachers from across North Carolina. The teachers come to Chapel Hill for two-day seminars where they learn about the latest advancements in genetics research. Then they carry the information back to their own classrooms.

Such learning — by researchers, students and public school teachers — is a striking example of the productivity of The University of North Carolina today.

"The University is a place where new ideas are born, challenged and taught, where the latest discoveries are introduced in today's lectures, where the scholar from the lab and the teacher at the lectern are very often one in the same person," Chancellor Paul Hardin says.

The learning now taking place at the University is among the reasons Hardin believes that Carolina is one of the handful of institutions in America today that can appropriately be called a "complete university."

"We create new knowledge through world-class research, teach it in our classrooms, and carry it out from Chapel Hill in service to the state, nation and world," Hardin says. "In short, our job is to learn, to teach, and to serve."

Teaching is another vital part of the University's mission. Carolina's 2,000 faculty members are more committed to excellence in the classroom than ever before. From 14 schools and colleges, they provide instruction in more than 100 fields at one of the few national universities to include a full complement of health schools — dentistry, medicine, nursing, pharmacy and public health — on the same campus as academic affairs schools, departments and units. The Carolina faculty performs in all of these areas with distinction. For example, the most comprehensive evaluation published by the National Academy Press rated the Carolina faculty tops in the Southeast and one of the best in the nation.

But the University and its faculty also are involved in a host of endeavors designed to improve teaching both in Chapel Hill and across the nation. The Center for Teaching and Learning, for example, strives to provide all of those who teach at Carolina — from the beginning teaching assistant to the most senior professor — with new techniques and skills needed to be effective in classrooms across the campus.

While teaching is the foundation for much of the academic experience at the University, public service also has a long and distinguished history in Chapel Hill. The Institute of Government and the Area Health Education Centers are among the best-known illustrations of such service around the state.

The Institute is the University's principal agency to provide training, consulting and research services for local and state governments in North Carolina. It is the largest and most diversified university-based governmental training and research organization in the United States.

Meanwhile, AHEC has provided community education opportunities for health science students and practicing professionals since 1972. Through nine regional centers, AHEC implements education programs to improve the supply and distribution of health-care professionals in North Carolina.

To further its service to the state, the University also is seeking to help solve some of the most pressing problems facing Tar Heel citizens today. Public education leaders, for instance, now are dealing with a climbing dropout rate, growing illiteracy and declining SAT scores. The University is helping in several ways. Recruiting and adequately training future teachers is a major priority across the entire campus. Another is finding ways to strengthen the quality of the education offered to the state's young people in the public schools. Such work will build on previous efforts based in Chapel Hill. The Mathematics and Science Education Network and special executive programs for principals and superintendents already have dramatically influenced how schools in North Carolina are managed and how the crucial subjects of math and science are taught.

Learning, teaching and serving — this is the core of the mission of North Carolina's most comprehensive university. And it will continue to guide a campus where a Bicentennial season approaches. Through both a 1993 Observance and a separate fund-raising campaign, the University will recognize the birth of public higher education in America. These events will be a time to honor Carolina's rich history and great traditions. However, the University also will use its past to form a vision of a better future, one that will emphasize excellence in learning, teaching and service for a third century and beyond.

Kenan Stadium

Nestled among the tall pine trees near the center of the Carolina campus is Kenan Stadium. It is here in this natural valley that Tar Heel football teams have played their games for 63 years.

Kenan Stadium is generally referred to as one of the most beautiful football arenas in the country. Considering its majestic setting among the Carolina pines, many say it is the most beautiful.

Inside Sports magazine has rated Kenan one of the five best places in America to watch a college football game. For scenery, atmosphere and charm, it can't be surpassed.

The stadium has been expanded several times since its completion in 1927. In each instance, great care was taken to keep its basic beauty intact.

The most recent expansion took place prior to the 1988 season. That involved adding 2,000 choice seats between the 40-yard lines where the press box and chancellor's box formerly stood.

A new press box was constructed on top of the upper deck on the stadium's south side. It is a one-level elongated structure, running from 10-yard line to 10-yard line.

Also part of the project were a permanent lighting system, a chancellor's lounge on the north side of the field and a football lettermen's lounge and Educational Foundation lounge on the south side. The lights are a General Electric low-mount system which minimizes the height of the lightpoles. A similar system is used at Soldier Field in Chicago.

Cost of the entire project was $7 million. It was funded by private gifts and bonds.

"Our press and media facilities had been inadequate for a number of years," says Athletic Director John Swofford. "This project addressed those needs very nicely. In addition, we picked up some more seats in an excellent location.

"Kenan Stadium is aesthetically a very special sports arena and a great deal of thought was given to these improvements. Their aim is to maintain and even enhance the beauty of the stadium."

William Rand Kenan, Jr. deserves the credit for originally making the stadium a part of the University. He was born in North Carolina in 1873 and was an 1894 Carolina graduate. An international industrialist, Kenan discovered carbide and made monumental progress in the field of chemistry.

The stadium was built as a memorial to his parents, William R. Kenan and Mary Hargrave Kenan. Construction began in November, 1926 and was completed the following August. Complete cost of the stadium and accompanying fieldhouse was $303,000.

In the first game played there, Carolina defeated Davidson, 27-0, on November 12, 1927.

Carolina's all-time record in Kenan is 188-123-15. The most points scored by the Tar Heels in Kenan came in the third game played there. Carolina whipped Wake Forest, 65-0, in the 1928 season opener.

As originally built, the stadium seated 24,000. However, in later years the benefactor added portable stands and then an upper deck to the permanent stands, bringing capacity to 48,000. That was expanded to 50,000 a few years ago and then to 52,000 in 1988.

After the 1976 season, Kenan Fieldhouse underwent a massive renovation. The building was expanded to 30,000 square feet of dressing rooms, coaches' offices, lounges, meeting rooms, weight-training quarters and other facilities. The players' locker room was then renovated again in 1988.

A new addition to the fieldhouse, the Student-Athlete Development Center, opened in 1986. A 20,000-square foot building, it is a one-of-a-kind facility.

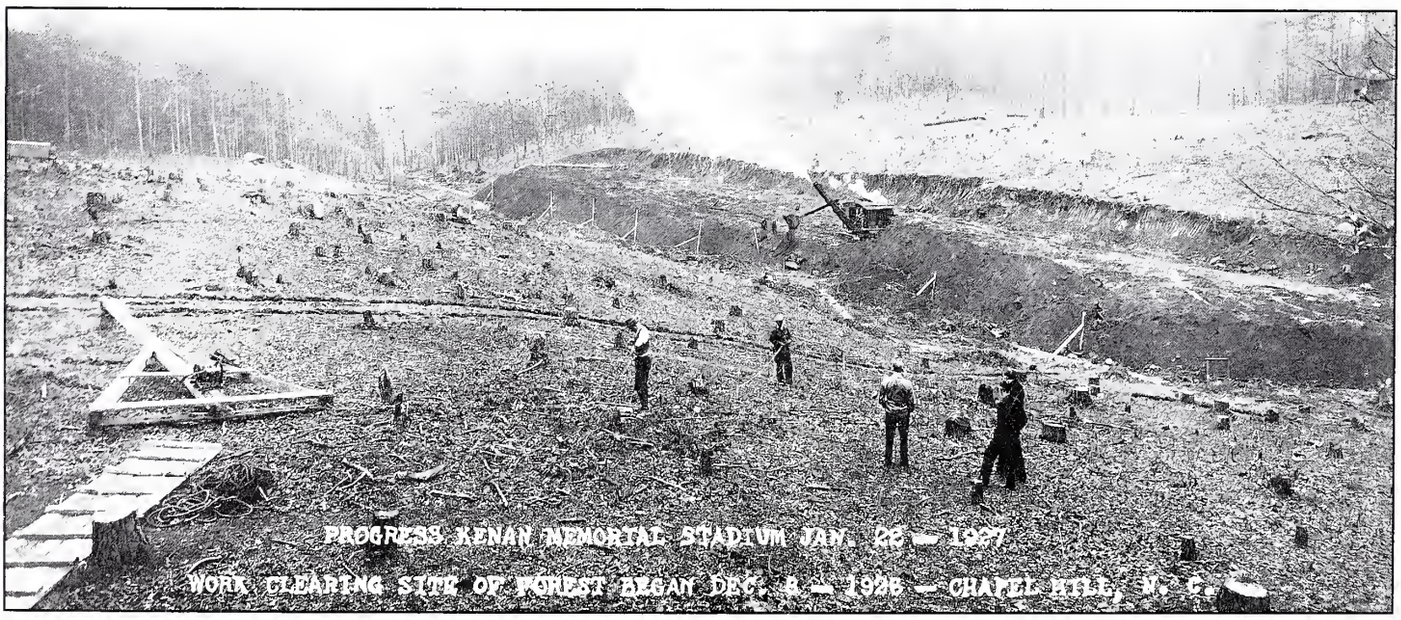
For study purposes, it contains a language laboratory, a video room, a computer lab, a theater-style lecture hall, several reading rooms and numerous tutorial rooms. Carolina's academic counseling staff has the advantage of using the most modern techniques in helping student-athletes with their studies.

The bottom half of the building is one of the finest strength fitness areas in the country. Workout rooms and performance laboratories contain the most current apparatus available.

Besides giving the stadium to the University, Kenan also sponsored and financed the famous Kenan Professorships. He was awarded the honorary degree of LL.D. by his alma mater in 1944.

Capacity crowds have come to be expected in Kenan. Highest attendance at a game there was the standing-room-only crowd of 53,689 which saw the Tar Heels play Clemson in 1983.

The 1983 season also saw another first in the stadium—a game played under artificial lights. The Carolina-Duke game was played in the late afternoon so it could be televised throughout the Atlantic Coast Conference area. Portable lights were brought in since the second half was played after sunset. Portable lights were also used in the 1987 Clemson game so it could be televised nationally by ESPN.



In January, 1927, work was just getting underway on Carolina's new football stadium.

The Academic Support System

At the University of North Carolina, athletes are still first and foremost students. While most universities make that claim, Carolina can prove it.

In October 1986, North Carolina opened the doors to its new Student-Athlete Development Center, located at the east end of Kenan Stadium, adjacent to Kenan Fieldhouse. The Center is a 10,000 square-foot state-of-the-art academic facility that sets the standard for other universities to follow.

"The Department of Athletics has always been committed to academics," says John Blanchard, Director of Athletic Academic Affairs. "But they felt they needed to make a tangible sign of their commitment by putting in a building that could really serve the students, and they went about doing it in a first-class manner. They erected the best building of its kind in the country."

The academic center boasts an impressive array of facilities for the benefit of all Tar Heel athletes in the 26-sport program. Included in the building, convenient to classrooms and dorms alike, are 10 computers for the student-athletes to complete homework assignments and papers on, several study rooms, a language lab with eight tape players used by the students to execute oral work for their foreign language classes, two conference rooms, seven tutorial rooms, a large classroom that can be divided into two smaller ones and a 128-seat auditorium, used for seminars and lectures.

One seminar held in the auditorium every year is a freshman orientation and learning skills program, required for all freshman athletes.

"When students struggle in college," says Blanchard, "95 percent of the time that struggle is in their freshman year, and that's due to all the adjustments they need to make. We want to have a program that aids in those adjustments and minimizes the struggle.

"It involves getting our students fully acquainted with the University and the resources available to them. They learn about what we have to offer, the University advisory system, the University processes and procedures—everything that's available to them academically."

To further ensure that athletes will not run into early academic problems, Blanchard and his staff teach the freshmen necessary study skills, such as note taking and time management, and all freshman football players are required to attend study hall every night Sunday through Thursday at the Center. On those nights, tutors are available to assist the student-athletes in a variety of subjects.

The building is open from 8 a.m. to midnight during the week and from 6 p.m. to midnight on Sundays. During those hours, the facility is in almost constant use.

"Our students make great use of it," says Blanchard. "They use it for a variety of purposes, and they use it throughout the day."

Blanchard estimates that in any given week at least half of the University's 600 athletes use the Center.

The statistics prove that the Center has made a difference since it opened. In three of the last four years, Carolina has received an honorable mention award from the College Football Association for graduating at least 70 percent of its football players. The CFA uses a five-year period from matriculation to graduation to base its awards. Carolina won CFA honors in 1987 for the freshman class of fall 1981, in 1989 for the freshman class of fall 1983 and in 1990 for the freshman class of 1984. Carolina was one of 12 schools in the nation so honored in the past two years.

In the last two years under Coach Mack Brown, Carolina has tied for the league leadership in football players placed on the Atlantic Coast Conference All-Academic Team. Carolina had seven players named to that honor squad in 1988 and five players last fall. Also last fall, offensive tackle Kevin Donnalley was named to the GTE/College Sports Information Directors of America District III Academic All-America Team. And last spring, three Tar Heel football players made the Dean's List — Jonathan Perry, Maurice Drayton and Glenn Ridout.

It's obvious from these facts that the Center has had an enormously positive impact on the academic well-being of the Carolina student-athlete.

Yet, Blanchard emphasizes that the Student-Athlete Development Center is only "one concrete way in which things have become better. The Department of Athletics also initiated moving the academic support program out of the Department of Athletics administratively, and into the College of Arts and Sciences. That has put us under the supervision of the University, which has been a very good move."

Under Brown, the football program has renewed its resolve to provide the best education possible for its students.

"The football program is in a position now where we are really doing things to maximize the academic opportunities here," says Blanchard.

"Coach Brown has been very supportive and creative in developing academic standards for the team, and pressing the players to reach those standards. That's been very helpful to us as a program."

Without such a commitment to academic excellence, the Student-Athlete Development Center would be a meaningless structure. But with that commitment soundly in place at the University of North Carolina, the Center becomes a vitally useful tool for helping with the education of student-athletes—and for proving that "student" does indeed belong as a prefix to the word "athlete" in Chapel Hill.

The Athletic Fitness Program

As head strength coach at the University of North Carolina, Rich Tuten's primary job is to make believers out of Coach Mack Brown's football squad.

"The players have got to believe in your program," says Tuten, who is charged with running the strength and conditioning regimen for the Tar Heels. "They've got to know that if they follow the program, they'll eventually achieve their goals."

And Tuten is fortunate to have a first-class facility to help him in his endeavor. In 1986, a new 8,000 square-foot weight room was created as part of the Kenan Fieldhouse expansion project. The strength and conditioning area contains a complete line of Nautilus equipment, cardiovascular machines and, by Tuten's estimate, over 20,000 pounds of free weight equipment.

"We have the facilities to do what we need to do," says Tuten, who came to Carolina in June of 1988 after spending eight years as the stength coach at the University of Florida. Since his arrival, Tuten has purchased over 11,000 pounds of free weight equipment for the Tar Heels.

While at Florida, Tuten experimented with Nautilus equipment, but found he prefers the free weights, and has instituted a training program for the football squad that relies almost solely on them.

"The Nautilus machines were a good program," explains Tuten, "but what I found is that while it helped me increase my strength and endurance, it was very mentally fatiguing. It got to the point that I wasn't looking forward to my next workout. Strength training should be an enjoyable part of your career in college football."

Towards that end, Tuten has instituted a program that has already been an enormous success. Typically, he explains, a team hopes to maintain 90 percent of its strength level during rigorous spring workouts. The past two springs, however, the Tar Heels managed to actually increase their overall strength.

Tuten has implemented a computer program at Carolina to help in the strength training process. Each player is given his own personal strength chart to follow.

"On the computer, we save information on every player," says Tuten. "We can tell the computer exactly what we want to do—the intensity we want to work with, the number of sets and reps we want to work with and how heavy we want those sets and reps. Once the printout is done, it's very simple for the players to follow.

"Everything is mapped out for them. There's no guesswork involved. The computer prints out how much their poundage is—how much they should be able to do based on their level of strength, not on how good they feel on a given day. So it's a daily challenge for them to meet those poundages based on their level of strength."

In fact, the same system is used for every varsity sport at North Carolina. Football players operate on a four-day-a-week split routine program. On Mondays and Thursdays, the athletes concentrate on the chest, shoulders and triceps. On Tuesdays and Fridays, they work on the back, biceps and legs. Essentially, every member of the football squad goes through the same program, although there are some differences between the workout for backs and that for linemen. Ultimately though, every member of the team is treated the same.

"We treat everyone as a starter," says Tuten. "We feel every player is important, whether he's first-team or fifth-team. A fifth-teammer is very important in practice—and hopefully down the line, he will work himself up to playing. We need to get him as strong and well-conditioned as we can so he can help the team in practice. If you practice against a weak link, you're not well prepared for the competition that's coming."

There now appears to be a level of excitement in the weight room that perhaps was not present in past years. Players are anxious to test themselves.

"We have a very intelligent team," says Tuten. "More players are getting involved with the finer points of the program, instead of just coming in to lift and leave. We bring them in and show them their program on the computer. The more the players trust the program and see the results, the more they'll get into it."

Along with assistant strength coach Greg Saporta and two part-time assistants, Tuten is ultimately helpless if the players don't want to improve themselves.

"I can sit at my desk and write programs all day, but they've really got to be motivated to come in and actually do the program, and get their teammates involved," he points out.

"I don't think I could do this program without Greg. He's very dedicated. This is his life. Greg and I are here from six in the morning to seven at night. We're here to do whatever we need to do to help the team."

Commitment like that is certain to pay off for the Carolina football squad in the long run. With a top-of-the-line staff and a great facility, the Tar Heel strength and conditioning program can go nowhere but up.

As Tuten says, "If you get past the point where you think you can't take another step and then you find you can take 10 more, you can start building champion teams."

1990 OUTLOOK

Randy Walker is going into his first year as a college head coach, hoping to rebuild Miami's proud football program. The Redskins were only 2-8-1 last year, but do return 43 lettermen. Walker will try to use some of that experience to put his alma mater's program back on the road to recovery. Nine starters are back on offense, including quarterback Joe Napoli who threw for 1,988 yards and seven touchdowns last fall. However, he also had 19 interceptions and will face a fight for his job from freshman Jim Clement and seniors Chris Ondrula and Barry Hanks. The ground game will be built around tailback Chris Alexander. Defensively, eight regulars are back. That group includes linebacker Bennie Caldwell, the team's leading tackler with 85 hits. Another key defender is outside linebacker Jon Wauford who had nine sacks and 12 tackles for losses in 1989.

1990 OUTLOOK

Despite the loss of running back Harold Green and quarterback Todd Ellis, South Carolina should again be a formidable football team in 1990. The Gamecocks return 46 lettermen from a year ago. In addition, several other players who could be key performers are ready to go after sitting out last season. Dickie DeMasi, who filled in for Ellis down the stretch last fall, and transfer Bobby Fuller are the top candidates for the quarterback job. Mike Dingle and Gerald Williams head the list of running back possibilities. A team strength figures to be at wide receiver where Robert Brooks, Eddie Miller and Carl Platt all are back. End Corey Miller, tackle Marty Dye and linebacker Patrick Hinton are expected to be the defensive leaders. The Gamecocks feature one of the nation's best kicking games with punter Daren Parker (44.9) and place-kicker Collin Mackie. Mackie has never missed a PAT attempt and has converted 56 of 76 career field goal efforts.

1990 OUTLOOK

Connecticut will feature two of the best offensive players in I-AA football this fall in quarterback Matt DeGennaro and tailback Kevin Wesley. With those two heading a potentially outstanding offense, the Huskies will be a threat to better last year's 8-3 record. DeGennaro, the holder of 14 UConn records, threw for 2,472 yards and 17 touchdowns in 1989. Wesley earned first-team All-Yankee Conference honors as he ran for 1,162 yards and 10 TDs. Also back is last year's leading receiver, split end Mark Didio who had 62 catches. Three new starters must be found in the offensive line, but there is experience available at all three spots. Despite the loss of linebacker Troy Ashley, last season's Yankee Conference Defensive Player of the Year, Connecticut has good talent and experience on defense. Tackle Mike Rembish, cornerback Rusty Neal and free safety Linwood Vereen should be the leaders there. The kicking game is highlighted by all-conference punter Sean Fay (39.6).

1990 OUTLOOK

Bill Curry heads into his first season as Kentucky coach with 13 returning starters and 32 lettermen from last year's 6-5 team. His offense will be directed by junior quarterback Freddie Maggard who threw for 1,515 yards and six touchdowns in 1989. Also back is leading receiver Phil Logan, a split end who had 28 catches last fall. Fullback Al Baker and tailback Mike Thomas hope to fill the void left by departed Alfred Rawls (893 yards). Defensively, six starters return including 1988 All-SEC linbacker Randy Holleran. He missed last season with a knee injury. Holleran should team with veteran Billy Swanson to form a solid combination at inside linebacker. One of the key spots to fill is at place-kicker where Ken Willis (17 of 22 FGs) has graduated. The rest of the kicking game should be outstanding with punter Bill Hawk (37.4) and return men Chris Tolbert and Kurt Johnson.

1990 OUTLOOK

With 54 lettermen returning from last year's 7-5 squad, North Carolina State should again be one of the best teams in the Atlantic Coast Conference this fall. The strength of this Wolfpack unit might be on defense where State played so well a year ago. Strong safety Jesse Campbell, free safety Fernandus Vinson and cornerback Joe Johnson are back as starters in what could be an outstanding secondary. Coach Dick Sheridan's biggest concern on defense is up front where tackles Ray Agnew and Derick Debnam are missing. Offensively, the big hole is at quarterback where Shane Montgomery must be replaced. Charles Davenport and Terry Jordan, both red-shirted last season, are the leading candidates there. State returns five of its top six rushers and 10 lettermen at the receiving posts. Three starters are back in the offensive interior and there is experience at the other two spots. The kicking game is set with punter Preston Poag and place-kicker Damon Hartman.

1990 OUTLOOK

With 34 returning lettermen, Wake Forest is optimistic it can bounce back from last fall's disappointing 2-8-1 season. The Deacons committed 13 turnovers in their first four games in 1989 to start 0-3-1. If Coach Bill Dooley can eliminate those mistakes and stay free of injuries, Wake should be a vastly improved team. Much of the Deacons' hopes will rest on quarterback Phil Barnhill, the Atlantic Coast Conference total offense leader a year ago. He produced more than 256 yards of offense a game in his first year as a starter to finish ninth nationally in total yards. He is one of seven returning starters on offense. Steve Brown heads up a receiving corps which could be exceptional, although a replacement must be found for all-star wingback Ricky Proehl. Free safety Lamont Scales tops a list of seven returning regulars on defense. He ranked third in the ACC in tackles last year and also intercepted three passes.

1990 OUTLOOK

Coming off the school's best season since 1985, hopes are high for a second straight winning campaign at Georgia Tech. The Yellow Jackets were 7-4 last year, winning seven of their last eight. Those victories included triumphs over Clemson and Georgia. The expectations are fueled by the return of 52 lettermen and 13 starters. Eight of those regulars are back on offense, including star tackle Darryl Jenkins and big-play quarterback Shawn Jones. Defensively, the line must be rebuilt as all three starters from last year are missing. But, five starters are back, including free safety Ken Swilling. Coach Bobby Ross rates him one of the nation's best. Other key defenders should be linebacker Jerelle Williams, cornerback Willie Clay and outside linebacker Marco Coleman. The kicking game is solid with the return of punter Scott Aldredge (39.6) and place-kicker Scott Sisson. Sisson made 15 of 24 field goal attempts last fall.

1990 OUTLOOK

Maryland must rebuild its offense if the Terps are to be challengers in the Atlantic Coast Conference race. Wide receiver Barry Johnson and tackle Clarence Jones are the only returning offensive starters. Only two other returnees have experience in the offensive line making that an area of great concern. There are also holes at running back and fullback. Johnson, who had 43 catches last fall, heads a group of wide receivers which could be outstanding. Scott Zolak is set to move in at quarterback and he has the talent to be an exceptional player. The picture is brighter on defense where nine starters are back. Tackle Larry Webster, middle guard Rick Fleece and linebackers Glenn Page and Jack Bradford head up the defensive unit. The secondary, led by cornerback Michael Hollis, returns intact. A key figure should be Dan DeArmas who punted for a 41.5 average and made 11 of 16 field goal attempts last year.

1990 OUTLOOK

With 49 returning lettermen, Clemson could be headed for a big season in Ken Hatfield's first year as head coach. The Tigers return eight starters on defense and four of five regulars in the offensive interior. The defense could be particularly outstanding. There are at least two returning lettermen at all 11 defensive spots. All-conference tackle Vance Hammond is the key man in the defensive front. The linebackers, featuring all-league selection Doug Brewster, are exceptional and the secondary is solid. With most of the offensive line back, the only questions about this team are in the backfield and at wide receiver. Although all the starters are gone at those positions, there is plenty of good young talent available. DeChane Cameron, last year's backup, is the top candidate at quarterback. The kicking game is one of the nation's best with the return of punter/place-kicker Chris Gardocki.

1990 OUTLOOK

Virginia returns 41 lettermen, including 14 starters, from last year's 10-3 team which was Atlantic Coast Conference co-champion and played in the Florida Citrus Bowl. All-ACC quarterback Shawn Moore heads up the offense after accounting for 2,078 yards passing, 505 rushing and 27 touchdowns last fall. Other offensive returnees are all-conference tight end Bruce McGonnigal and second-team All-ACC choices Herman Moore at wide reciever, placekicker Jake McInerney and tackle Ray Roberts. The strength of the defense could be the secondary where all four starters are back. That group includes second-team All-ACC performer Tony Covington at cornerback; Tyrone Lewis, the team's top returning tackler at strong safety; and free safety Keith McMeans who has 14 career interceptions. Returning up front are nose guard Ron Carey, tackle Joe Hall and end Chris Slade, who was named Virginia's top defensive player in the Florida Citrus Bowl.

1990 OUTLOOK

Coming off their most successful season in nearly three decades, the Duke Blue Devils have some holes to fill if they are to defend their Atlantic Coast Conference co-championship. Gone are consensus All-America wide receiver Clarkston Hines and All-America tackle Chris Port, along with two other starting offensive linemen, star tight end Dave Colonna and six defensive starters. Offensively, the quarterback position is in solid hands with Dave Brown and Billy Ray. Running back Randy Cuthbert and fullback Chris Brown return as well. But, new Head Coach Barry Wilson must find help in the offensive interior. Defensively, the secondary returns intact with Wyatt Smith, Erwin Sampson, Quinton McCracken and Derrick Jackson. Most of the down linemen will be new while the linebacking corps should be led by Mark Allen and Darrell Spells, two part-time players from last year. Sophomore Randy Gardner is back to handle the punting and place-kicking.

Carolina's First-Team All-Americas

George Barclay

Andy Bershak

Steve Maronic

George Barclay, Guard, 1934

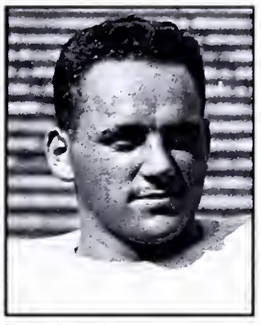
Here is Carolina's first football All-America. The 5-11, 185-pound guard and linebacker was a three-year standout for Chuck Collins and Carl Snavely. A fine blocker and an extraordinary tackler, Barclay lined up in the offensive interior next to tackle Jim Tatum. He was captain of the 1934 team which went 7-1-1. Barclay later served as head coach at Carolina for three seasons, from 1953 to 1955.

Andy Bershak, End, 1937

A 185-pound end, Bershak was a two-way performer for the Tar Heels. He was a fine receiver, but was even better on defense. He played two years for Carl Snavely and one for Ray Wolf. Bershak, an honor student, also was a basketball starter. He was selected to the Order of the Golden Fleece and served as president of the Carolina Athletic Association.

Steve Maronic, Tackle, 1938

Maronic was a two-way tackle for the Tar Heels and team co-captain in 1938. He was an "iron man," playing almost 60 minutes in every game that season. He turned in two of his best performances in front of the New York media against NYU at Yankee Stadium and Fordham at the Polo Grounds. Those games solidified his All-America chances. Maronic also was a place-kicker and hit 13 straight PATs in his final season.



Paul Severin

Ray Poole

Paul Severin, End, 1939-40

Severin was a two-time All-America selection by the Associated Press (1939 and 1940) and made most of the all-star teams in his senior season. His career was filled with big plays—a touchdown catch to tie Tulane in 1939, two scoring catches against Penn that same season and a touchdown-saving tackle from behind of Duke's great Steve Lach in a 6-3 win over the Blue Devils in 1940.

Ray Poole, End, 1943

Ray came to Carolina in 1943 as part of the Navy's World War II V-12 program. He had spent the previous two seasons at Mississippi and returned to Ole Miss after the war to finish his education. A 6-3, 215-pound end, Ray was a rugged defender. His brothers, Barney and Oliver, joined him at Carolina. Barney later earned All-America honors at Ole Miss in both 1947 and 1948.

Charlie Justice

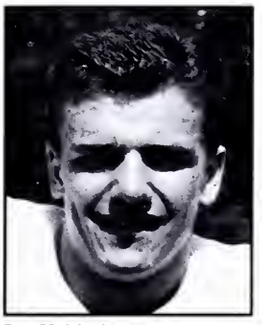
Charlie Justice, Halfback, 1948-49

Twice runnerup for the Heisman Trophy, Charlie Justice is rated by many as the best all-around player in the history of southern football. He was a true triple-threat performer, leading Carolina in rushing, passing and punting from 1946 to 1949. He sparked Tar Heel teams which appeared in the Sugar Bowl twice and the Cotton Bowl once. He is the school's all-time total offense leader with 4,883 yards and also ranks as the Tar Heels' second-leading career scorer, sixth-leading rusher and 10th-leading passer. He had a career punting average of 42.6 and averaged 14.2 yards on punt returns and 26.6 yards on kickoff returns.

Art Weiner, End, 1948-49

A great, all-around end, Weiner led the nation in receiving in 1949 with 52 catches. He had been seventh nationally in receiving the previous year with 31 catches. His 106 career catches are the second-most in school history and he still holds the Carolina career record with 18 touchdown receptions. However, many remember him best for a game-saving defensive play on the last snap of the 1949 Duke game. After his senior season, Weiner was named the most outstanding lineman in the Senior Bowl.

Ken Powell



Irv Holdash

Ken Powell, End, 1949

Powell teammed with Art Weiner to give Carolina sensational end play during the post-war "Justice Era" in Chapel Hill. A brilliant defensive player, Powell also caught 10 passes during the 1949 season. As a freshman, he had been a standout in the 1947 Sugar Bowl game with Georgia.

Irv Holdash, Center, 1950

While Carolina's football fortunes slipped in the years immediately following the Charlie Justice Era, Holdash still received national attention for his outstanding play. A center on offense and linebacker on defense, Holdash was a three-year regular who never missed a game during his varsity career. He probably made All-America in 1950 with a sensational performance in a 14-7 loss at Notre Dame. Irish quarterback Bobby Williams called him "the best I've played against."

Al Goldstein

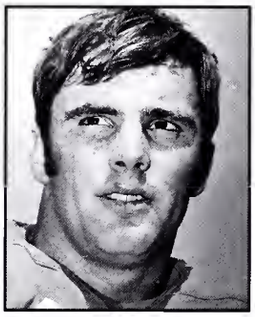
Bob Lacey

Al Goldstein, End, 1958

Goldstein was another outstanding two-way end at Carolina. He earned All-America honors in 1958 by making 24 catches for 490 yards, averaging an amazing 20.4 yards a reception. Adept at making the seemingly impossible catch, he had a 68-yard TD reception at Virginia. He also starred defensively and had a 46-yard interception return for a touchdown against Maryland.

Bob Lacey, End, 1963

Lacey led the Atlantic Coast Conference in receiving in 1963 with 48 catches for 533 yards. His pass-catching was a key factor as Carolina rolled to a 9-2 record, defeating the Air Force, 35-0, in the Gator Bowl. Lacey was also the team's top receiver in 1962 with 44 catches. He is the only Tar Heel player to have at least 40 catches on two occasions. His career total of 102 receptions is the third-best in school history.



Don McCauley

Ron Rusnak

Charles Waddell

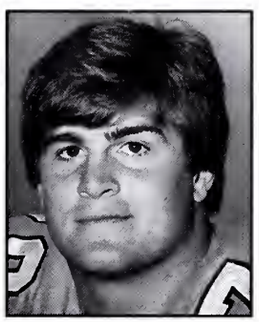
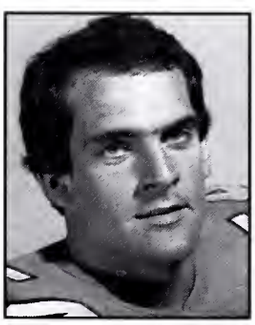
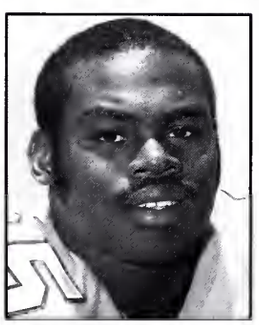
Lawrence Taylor



Ron Wooten



David Drechsler



William Fuller

Brian Blados

Don McCauley, Halfback, 1970

Don McCauley shattered the Carolina and the Atlantic Coast Conference record books with a dazzling senior season in 1970. He rushed for 1,720 yards and scored 21 touchdowns, setting marks which still stand. His 1,720 yards rushing was an all-time collegiate high at the time, breaking O.J. Simpson's NCAA record. McCauley led the nation in all-purpose running that season. He was twice the ACC Player of the Year and still ranks fourth in both career scoring and rushing at Carolina. He had a lengthy professional career with the Baltimore Colts.

Ron Rusnak, Offensive Guard, 1972

Rusnak was a unanimous All-America selection in 1972 as Carolina posted an 11-1 record. At 6-2 and 220 pounds, he did not have the size to play professional football, but Rusnak was a great college player. He was a two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference choice, starting on teams which combined for a 20-4 record. In 1972 he won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the best blocker in the ACC.

Ken Huff, Offensive Guard, 1974

Huff was a key man on one of the most explosive units in Carolina history. He was the leader of an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels accumulate 4,691 yards in 1974, at the time a school record. The 6-4, 255-pound Huff won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the best blocker in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Sparked in great part by his play up front, the Tar Heels had two backs rush for over 1,000 yards in the same season. Huff was the third player selected in the NFL draft by the Baltimore Colts.

Charles Waddell, Tight End, 1974

Waddell rates as one of the best all-around athletes in Carolina history. He won three football letters, two in basketball and one in track. Not only was he a fine receiver at tight end, but he also was a dynamic blocker there. He set a school single-game record in 1974 with three touchdown catches against Clemson. He had 41 career catches for 518 yards and seven TDs. His professional career was cut short by a knee injury.

Dee Hardison, Defensive Tackle, 1977

A two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection, Hardison played on one of the top defensive teams in Carolina history. In 1977 Carolina led the nation in scoring defense, giving up just 7.4 points a game. The Tar Heels led the ACC in total, rushing, pass and scoring defense. A big reason was Hardison, a 6-3, 252-pound tackle who dominated the line of scrimmage all season. After leaving Carolina he began a lengthy NFL career with the Buffalo Bills.

Lawrence Taylor, Outside Linebacker, 1980

From midway in his junior season until the end of his senior year in 1980, Taylor dominated the football field as few defensive players ever had. Now regarded as the finest outside linebacker in the history of the game, Taylor had a remarkable senior season which featured 16 quarterback sacks and six other tackles for losses. In Carolina's only close games in an 11-1 season, Taylor made the game-saving defensive plays against Texas Tech and Clemson. He was a runaway selection as Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year.

Ron Wooten, Offensive Guard, 1980

Wooten won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy in 1980 as the best blocker in the Atlantic Coast Conference. He was the leading vote-getter in the offensive line on the All-ACC team. He was one of the leaders of an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels lead the ACC in total offense and which also helped produce two 1,000-yard backs. He is currently a starting guard with New England in the NFL.

David Drechsler, Offensive Guard, 1981-82

Drechsler became Carolina's first two-time All-America since Charlie Justice and Art Weiner when he earned first-team honors in 1981 and 1982. He played every position in the offensive interior during his Carolina career, but settled in at guard. The 6-4, 253-pound Drechsler played on Tar Heel teams which were 37-10-1 and were unbeaten in four bowl games. He also was the winner of a post-graduate scholarship from the NCAA. Drechsler went on to become a starter with the Green Bay Packers until a back injury forced him to give up the game.

William Fuller, Defensive Tackle, 1982-83

Fuller is one of just five Carolina players to win first-team All-America honors twice. Although powerfully built at 6-3 and 250 pounds, Fuller's greatest asset was his quickness. He used that quickness to make 13 tackles for losses and six sacks in 1982 and 17 tackles for losses and five sacks the following year. He was the only unanimous choice on the 1983 All-ACC team and is one of just two linemen ever to make All-ACC for three straight years.

Brian Blados, Offensive Tackle, 1983

When two Carolina tailbacks ran for over 1,000 yards in 1983, much of that yardage came behind Blados. The 6-6, 305-pound left tackle dominated the line of scrimmage as Carolina set a school total offense record and finished seventh nationally in yardage. Blados was named on 90 of 100 ballots in voting for the All-Atlantic Coast Conference team. He was a first round choice by the Cincinnati Bengals in the NFL draft.

Harris Barton, Offensive Tackle, 1986

Barton was a four-year starter for the Tar Heels, first at center and then at tackle. With so many teams playing even-man front defenses, Barton was moved to tackle in 1984 to take better advantage of his skills. He excelled at left tackle, the key blocking spot in the Carolina passing game. As a senior, he led an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels rank first in the Atlantic Coast Conference and sixth nationally in total offense. An excellent student, he was chosen for a post-graduate scholarship by the National Football Foundation and was a first-round selection in the NFL draft.

Choo Choo

The Incomparable Charlie Justice

There is an understandable tendency by sports fans to be wary when an athlete is called "the absolute greatest ever" or "the best who ever played."

It is so difficult to compare athletes of the past with those of today that such descriptions are generally regarded as exaggerations of overzealous publicists.

Even with that in mind, however, it is undeniably safe to say that the greatest all-around football player ever to wear Carolina Blue was Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice.

Some have even said Charlie Justice was the best all-around player in the history of the South. We won't go that far even though there's a good chance it's true. We don't want to make our readers too wary.

Charlie Justice was more than just a great football player. He was a bonafide superstar...a hero...a legend in his own time. He had an impact on his home state as no other athlete had ever had before or few have had since.

During his four years in Chapel Hill, from 1946 to 1949, Justice helped guide the Tar Heels to three major bowl games. For one week during the 1948 season Carolina was ranked as the nation's number one college football team. The Tar Heels ended that year rated third, the best finish in school history.

It is no wonder then he was held in great esteem by everyone in the state. Certainly, the time was right for a hero like Charlie Justice. The war had just ended and people wanted to turn their attention to more pleasant things. They wanted someone to help them forget the trauma they had just suffered. So they looked for heroes and they found Charlie Justice.

In his book, They made the Bell Tower Chime, the late Bob Quincy summed up Charlie Justice's college career quite succintly. An excerpt is repeated here:

The Justice Era of 1946-49 was the most exciting in Carolina's football history. Charlie was the ringleader of a circus of thrills. He set the pace, but his backing was superb. Carl Snavely had so many football players he couldn't have named them all had he taken a memory course. The Tar Heels operated from the single wing with the kind of variations that at times resembled the Harlem Globetrotters' pregame ball-handling act. The four seasons netted 32 victories, seven losses and two deadlocks. Plus three major bowl appearances.

The 170-pound Justice was one of the nation's most sought-after players when he enrolled at Carolina. Some called him the hottest property in the history of football at that time. He had been a standout at Asheville's Lee Edwards High, leading the Maroons to two unbeaten seasons. He was

Pictures by Hugh Morton

All-Southern two years at Asheville, and as a member of the Shrine Bowl football team in 1942 he scored three touchdowns against South Carolina, a record that still stands.

The Navy became home for Charlie during the war years, and he became a phantom on a pro-studded Bainbridge Navy squad. After two years of romping for Bainbridge against opponents across the country, he was a target for pro offers from the Philadelphia Eagles and Washington.

Charlie wanted an education, and scouts stayed in pursuit. He chose Chapel Hill after seriously considering South Carolina and Duke. An off-hand remark by Snavely —"I hope he comes out for football"— became a classic understatement.

Smart! Example: In the Virginia Tech opener, Justice had two kicks blocked. He bristled and vowed it would never happen again. It didn't during his collegiate career.

After Virginia Tech's 14-14 stalemate, a shocker to say the least, the Tar Heels played at Miami. Early in the game, Justice went back to punt. The Hurricane came hard with an all-out rush to block him. He faked the kick and ripped off a 65-yard touchdown run.

In the Virginia game his freshman year

he gained 170 yards in 17 carries with runs of 18, 40 and 56 yards. He had seen little practice because of a leg injury, but the Cavaliers were certain he carried a spare appendage.

Choo Choo (he acquired the name at Bainbridge when a gob remarked, "He runs along just like a choo choo train,") was excitement. He was all eagerness on the sidelines and all business when he moved into the tailback slot. He thrived on duty, and he was a master of the quick kick, a devastating rusher, a good passer, and a fake artist who could charm a cobra.

Jack Fitch, a thick-legged back who occasionally shared duty with Justice when not playing the wing, sized up Charlie's style by noting, "Justice has the ability to be running at full speed, stop suddenly, and then be back at full speed almost instantly. He was never regarded as fast in terms of a track man. He had a change of pace that couldn't be matched, and he knew how to follow blockers as well as any back I've ever watched."

Justice was blessed by having excellent blocking backs in front of him (Joe Wright, Don Hartig, Eddie Knox, Paul Rizzo, Bobby Weant) and two fullbacks in Hosea Rodgers and Walt Pupa who could pass as well as run. Pupa had been a tailback in pre-war years.

The Snavely system called for a spinning fullback, fakes and counter fakes, fullback pass plays and reverses. It was a dashing brand of football made more exciting by men who had the ability and maturity to accept Snavely's often complicated maneuvers.

A book, "Choo Choo," documents the career of Charlie Justice. He was a folk hero and deserved the special treatment. The great Benny Goodman and the late Johnny Long recorded the Campbell-Beebe song, "All The Way Choo Choo." It sold by the thousands.

Typical of Justice was the Georgia game of 1948. He scored three times against the Bulldogs in a 21-14 triumph, the climax being an 84-yard punt return. At mid-way point that season, the Tar Heels were ranked No. 1 in the nation.

Justice erased more records than a company of auditors during his four years at UNC. He scored 234 points and passed or ran for 64 touchdowns. As a ball carrier he accumulated 2,634 yards.

His total offense record is still in the books at 4,883 yards. His punting average for four years was 42.6 yards per kick for 231 boots. Justice also was a dependable defensive player, going both ways on occasion for the Tar Heels and also as a Redskin.

Justice seemed to peak when the traditional games were being played. He led the Tar Heels to four straight wins over Duke. He was an All-America mention as a freshman and made many of the major teams as a junior and as a senior. He was runner-up for the Heisman Trophy to Doak Walker of SMU in 1949.

Charlie's finest moment came in the College All-Star Game of 1950 at Chicago's Soldier Field. He was voted the MVP of the game for good reason. The All-Stars walloped the Philadelphia Eagles, led by Steve Van Buren, 17-7. Justice gained 133 yards individually, or 48 more than the Eagles posted as a team. He set up a touchdown on a 60-yard pass from Eddie LeBaron of College of Pacific.

Every year since Charlie's departure from Chapel Hill, someone has a "find" who is labeled as "the next Charlie Justice." No player has yet come up to Choo Choo's standards. Good runners, yes! Expert passers, yes! Booming punters, yes! But for endurance, ability to dazzle the crowd and overall quality, there was only one Charlie Justice.

The History of Carolina Football

By Dave Lohse, Associate Sports Information Director

The University of North Carolina, one of the institutions involved in the first intercollegiate football game in the state of North Carolina's history, holds a special place in the annals of the game, both in the Tar Heel state and the nation as a whole.

Carolina, which began playing the sport in 1888, will embark on its 99th season of football competition in 1990. The Tar Heels do that with a history of gridiron greatness, including some of the top coaches in the game, a lineage of talented running backs and one of the most beautiful and historic stadiums in college football. All factors considered, Carolina's football tradition is one of the most respected in both the South and the entire United States.

Surprisingly, football is actually not the oldest varsity sport at UNC. Baseball is accorded that honor, having fielded its first varsity squad back in 1867. But while football started 21 years later, its history is replete with memories that have thrilled legions of Carolina fans as the decades have elapsed.

The first UNC team competed back in 1888 and played but two games, losing both and being outscored 22-4. That inauspicious beginning belies the success of the program since then, but those football pioneers are nevertheless credited with starting football at Carolina.

In the fall of 1888, the sophomore class at UNC had formed a team and after vanquishing all the other classes at UNC, began to look around for stiffer opposition. The UNC team challenged the Wake Forest squad to a game which was scheduled during the State Fair in Raleigh on October 18, 1888. Wake won the game 6-4 in what came to be acknowledged as the first intercollegiate football game in the history of the state of North Carolina.

Later that same fall, Carolina challenged Trinity (now Duke) to a Thanksgiving Day contest in Raleigh that drew a crowd of 600 for a 16-0 Trinity triumph. One member of that 1888 UNC team was John Motley Morehead, who went on to great fame as the founder of Union Carbide and who endowed the Morehead Scholarship program and several buildings on the Carolina campus.

That first Carolina team's results may not have been what was expected, but the leaders of the '88 team did get the ball rolling. In Carolina's first 98 seasons of football competition, the Tar Heels have compiled a record of 516-381-53, a winning percentage of .571, Carolina has played in 16 bowl games in its history and won five Southern Conference championships and five Atlantic Coast Conference titles.

Twenty-two Tar Heel players have been honored as first-team All-Americas on 27 occasions. Carolina had 32 All-Southern Conference selections when it played in that league until 1952 and since joining the ACC in 1953, has had 130 first-team All-ACC choices.

Just a few months after the loss to Trinity in 1888, UNC acquired the services of Hector Cowan, former great tackle and captain at Princeton, to help teach the UNC players the fundamentals of the game. Cowan arrived in February 1889 and drilled the Tar Heel troops on the existing athletic field, located on the current site of Bynum Hall.

The 1889 team played two games in the spring and two in the fall. On March 1, 1889, Carolina earned its first win in football as it routed Wake Forest 33-0 before a crowd of 500 in Raleigh. UNC went on to post a 2-2 record that year and earn a share of the state championship with Trinity and Wake Forest.

After a Carolina player suffered a broken collarbone that fall, the University faculty voted to discontinue the sport of football in January 1890 and Carolina did not compete at all the following fall. That is one of only three years since the start of football in 1888 in which the Tar Heels have not fielded a team, the other years being during World War I in 1917 and 1918.

The following year, students petitioned to have football restored at UNC and the ban was lifted with the help of Professors Horace Williams, F.P. Venable and Eban Alexander. At this time, athletic control passed from the hands of students to the faculty, a situation that still exists today.

Football returned to UNC that fall with W.P. Graves as coach and UNC compiling an 0-2 record.

The following year, 1892, is considered by most to be the first year of real football at UNC with a representative six-game schedule being played. That squad also earned the distinction of being UNC's first good team. Mike Hoke acted as team captain and the entire squad consisted of just 15 players, with UNC using only one substitute the entire season. The team opened the year with a 40-0 rout of Richmond and after a loss to Virginia in the next game, it went on to win its last four. Carolina's 5-1 mark was the best record in the South that year. That season also marked the first year in which University teams were referred to as "Carolina," with the appellations "University" and "Chapel Hill" being dropped from the popular vernacular.

A meeting in February 1893 signalled the start of the formation of what would become the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association in later years. Ten schools, including UNC, were involved in the meeting and Dr. Venable was voted temporary chairman of the group. Later that same year, on May 12, the UNC athletic association approved the awarding of varsity letters for the first time.

Although the 1893 team managed only a 3-4 record, it did have the distinction of being the first Southern team to play in New York City as Carolina lost a 34-0 decision to Lehigh on November 25, 1893. A year later, Carolina brought in Vernon K. Irvine from Princeton as coach and he led Carolina to a 6-3 mark, attesting to the fact that experienced coaching benefitted the team's performance. That UNC team finished second in the South and won the state championship. It was also the first to be forced to stage closed practices because of problems with crowd control at open sessions.

In 1895, T.C. "Doggie" Trenchard came from Princeton to coach the Tar Heels and he led UNC to an outstanding 7-1-1 season marred only by a loss to Virginia. A crowd of 12,000 was on hand for the meeting between the Tar Heels and the Cavaliers in Richmond, which UVa won 6-0. Twice during the game spectators ran onto the field to block the path of Tar Heel runners who had broken into the clear on apparent touchdown runs.

Carolina began to gain some consistency in the sport of football with the arrival of Will A. Reynolds of Princeton as head coach in 1897. Reynolds produced four winning Carolina teams in his four-year tenure at Chapel Hill. His first squad finished at 7-3 and was followed in 1898 by what is still the only unbeaten, untied team in school history. That 1898 squad was a perfect 9-0 and outscored its opponents by an amazing 201-8. The team finished the season by beating Virginia for the first time in six years, 6-2, in Richmond.

Reynolds' final two teams also posted respectable records, going 7-3-1 in 1889 and 4-1-3 in 1900.

Reynolds yielded the coaching reins after the 1900 season to Charles Jenkins, who led UNC to seven straight wins prior to a pair of season-ending losses in 1901. Carolina beat all of its state opponents to win its seventh state championship since 1892. In 1901, letters began to be awarded by an advisory committee of the athletic association. Previously, anyone who played had lettered.

The next 11 seasons saw Carolina with nine different head coaches. The 1905 Carolina squad was coached by William Warner, the brother of the famed "Pop" Warner.

Trenchard returned as Carolina coach in 1913 for a three-year run. His 1914 squad was outstanding. Sixty men reported for the team and UNC went on to win its first 10 before losing to Virginia 20-3 before a record crowd of 15,000 in Richmond. That UNC team outscored its opponents 359-42 and became the first team in the South to display players' numbers on their jerseys.

Trenchard's 1915 squad did not fare as well, finishing the campaign with a 4-3-1 mark. Seven regulars missed the VMI game and the reserves struggled, fumbling 16 times en route to a 3-3 tie. That same year, Trenchard started the first athletic training table at UNC in his home, feeding the 56 squad members on a daily basis.

The year 1916 found the Tar Heels in a new home as Carolina began to play its games at Emerson Stadium, the site of the current Davis Library. Freshmen were banned from varsity participation for the first time and the team went 5-4 and won its sixth successive state championship.

All of the members of the 1916 squad had entered the military service in World War I by the following fall and varsity football was dropped for the second time in UNC history, this time for a two-year hiatus.

Carolina made its full-fledged return to the gridiron in 1919, going 4-3-1 under Coach Thomas J. Coleman. Carolina twice broke its single game home attendance record that year as it won the state championship. The Tar Heels defeated N.C. State, 13-12, before a crowd of 7,500 and then topped that with 9,000 for a 6-0 win over Virginia. That game marked the first time the Cavaliers had ever played in Chapel Hill.

The 1920 campaign was a dismal one as UNC went 2-6 and scored only 16 points in eight games. But a more positive era in North Carolina football began a year later with the hiring of Bill and Bob Fetzer as co-head coaches. Their hiring also marked a change in athletic policy at UNC as the Fetzers were assured of long-term positions instead of the usual one-year contracts. Carolina went 5-2-2 under the Fetzers in 1921 and 10,000 filled Emerson Field for Carolina's 7-3 win over Virginia.

That year also marked the first for UNC's participation in the Southern Intercollegiate Conference, the official name for what has come to be known today simply as the Southern Conference. At a February 25, 1921 meeting in Atlanta, the SIC was formed with a 16-school membership. The conference agreed to bans on post-season play, freshman eligibility and athletic training tables, required eligibility forms for players and disallowed organized practice before September 10.

Carolina would go on to have great success in the Southern Conference, tying for the league crown in 1922 and winning it outright in 1934, 1937, 1946 and 1949.

The Fetzers' greatest team was probably the 1922 edition which posted an impressive 9-1 mark, won the South Atlantic championship and tied for the Southern Conference crown. That team lost only to Yale, 18-0, and had three touchdowns called back by penalities in the game. The squad was ranked 11th in the nation by I.B. Thomas in the January 1923 issue of Intercollegiate Athletics and played before a record 68,500 fans during the course of the campaign.

The 1923 team was ravaged by injuries but limped to a 5-3-1 record nevertheless and a state championship for a second straight year. A year later, the Tar Heels were only 4-5 but they did play before their largest crowd to that date, 25,000 at New Haven's Yale Bowl in a 27-0 loss to the Bulldogs.

The 1925 season would prove to be the Fetzers' last as co-coaches. The Tar Heels responded with an excellent season, going 7-1-1 and winning the state championship. The only loss came at the hands of Wake Forest. A crowd of 16,000 jammed Emerson Field (capacity 2,400) to see the Heels and Virginia play to a 3-3 tie in the season finale.

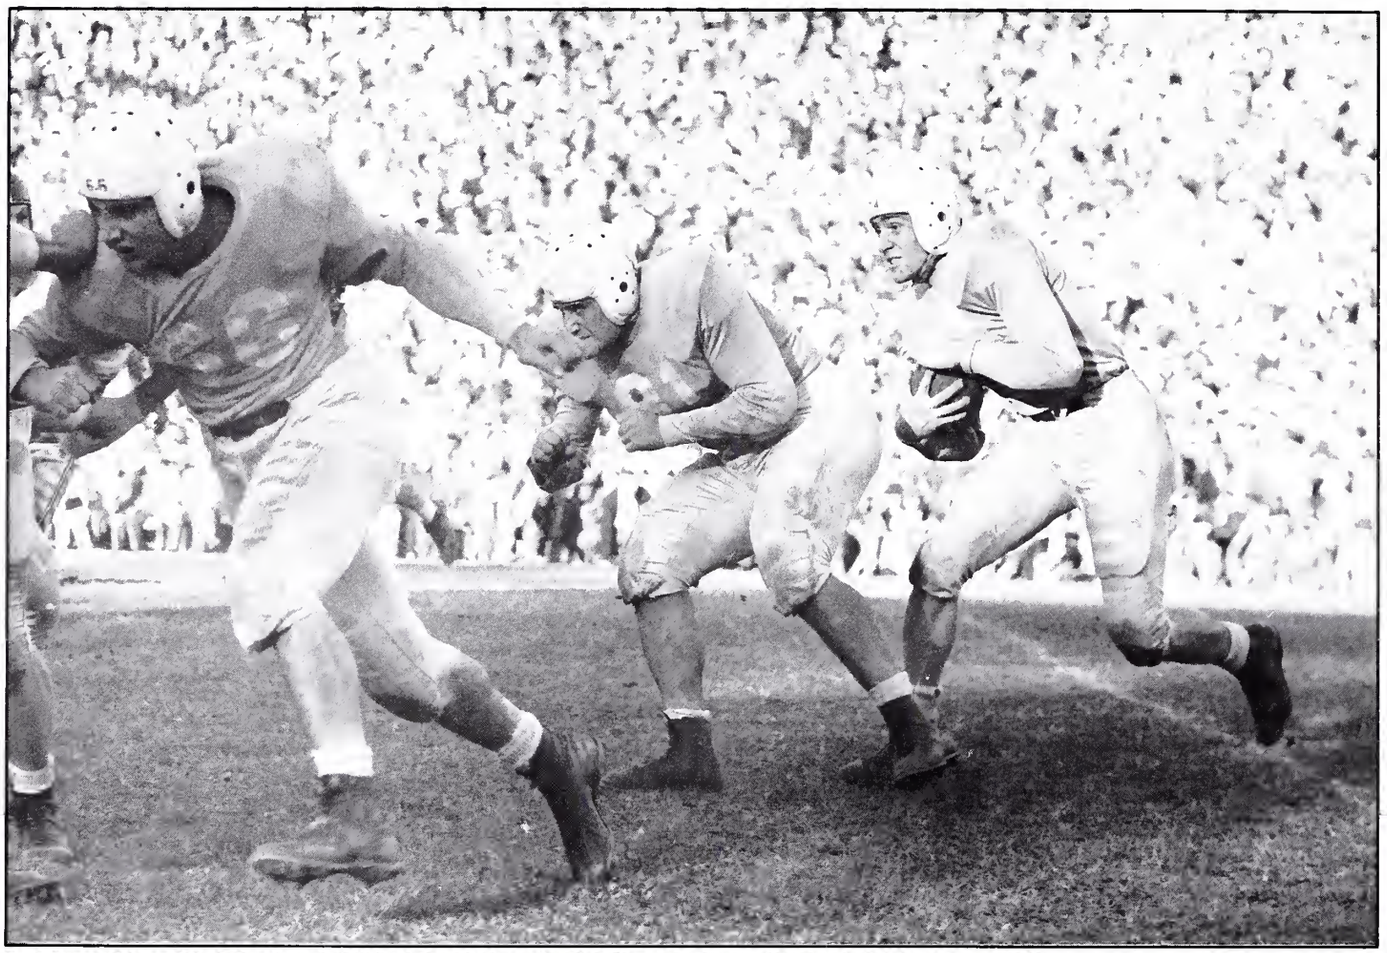
The following year began a new era in Carolina football as Chuck Collins came on the scene as head coach. He had the longest tenure (eight years) of the early Carolina coaches. Collins, who was one of the seven mules in the offensive line for Notre Dame's famed Four Horsemen, served as Carolina's coach from 1926 through 1933.

The 1926 season also brought onto the scene the infamous Kay Kyser, later to be a renowned Big Band leader and radio and motion pictures personality, as head cheerleader and his Cheerios as the first major organized cheer block at Carolina.

New stadium plans were also in the works in 1926. Carolina alumni in Durham and Chapel Hill met on May 24, 1926 to form the Durham Stadium Committee. On November 13 of that same year, William Rand Kenan, a New York City engineer and 1893 UNC football letterman, gave the University a gift of $275,000 to help build the stadium.

The first game was played in Kenan Stadium on November 12, 1927 with UNC beating Davidson 27-0 before a crowd of 9,000 fans. The following Saturday, UNC beat two-touchdown favorite Duke 18-0 in Kenan. The stadium was officially dedicated on Thanksgiving Day 1927 with 28,000 attending as Carolina edged Virginia 14-13. John Sprunt Hill officially made the presentation of the stadium to Governor A.W. McLean who accepted on behalf of the University and state.

Quarterback "Sweet" Jim Lalanne (93) and end Paul Severin, a two-time All-America in 1939 and 1940.



Paul Rizzo (66) and Ted Hazelwood (81) lead the blocking for Bob Kennedy during Carolina's 9-1-1 season in 1948.

Carolina won its first state championship since 1925 during the 1928 season. Its 5-3-2 record that year included a 65-0 win over Wake Forest in the season opener. That still stands as the largest margin of victory in UNC history. President Calvin Coolidge attended the Carolina-Virginia game in Charlottesville that year and saw the Tar Heels pull out a 24-20 win. It was the first time a U.S. president had ever attended a game in the South.

Collins' first great team was the 1929 edition which went 9-1 and outscored its opponents 346-60. The only loss of the year came to Georgia and only Southern California scored more points during the course of the season. Ray Farris was the captain of that UNC team and was a unanimous All-Southern Conference choice at guard. Carolina was called the "Team of a Million Backs" and drew a record attendance of 139,500.

The 1931 team coached by Collins went 4-3-3 and won the state championship. The Carolina-Duke game went big time for the first time that year as a crowd of 20,000 in Durham watched the two teams play to their second straight scoreless tie. Johnny Branch, a great all-purpose runner, was the star of that squad.

The quiet Dutchman, Carl Snavely, came to Chapel Hill in 1934 from Bucknell to take over the coaching reins of the Tar Heels. It would be the first of two tours of duty for Snavely as head coach. The 1934 team went 7-1-1 and was led by George Barclay, UNC's first All-America in football, at guard. Carolina lost only to Tennessee and it tied N.C. State that season. The Carolina-Duke game drew state and Kenan record crowds as the Tar Heels eked out a thrilling 7-0 victory.

The 1935 team also proved to be a great one as Snavely led his squad to an 8-1 record. Carolina won its first seven of the season and there was talk that the Tar Heels were headed to the Rose Bowl. But arch-rival Duke made sure that didn't happen on Saturday, November 14 in Durham as the Blue Devils played an errorless game, winning 25-0. That game drew a new Southern attendance record of 47,000 and in total 149,500 saw UNC play during the course of the year, another record. After losing to Duke, UNC came back to pummel Virginia 61-0 and ended up eighth in the final Associated Press rankings. Ace passer Don Jackson was named a second-team All-America.

Ray Wolf came to Carolina in 1936 to coach after Snavely had gone on to Cornell. Wolf had six successful seasons at UNC, producing winning teams the first five. The 1936 team went 8-2 and lost only to Tulane and Duke. That squad was led by end Andy Bershak, who was a second-team All-America in 1936 and a first teamer a year later. Wolf's teams continued their success, going 7-1-1, 6-2-1, 8-1-1 and 6-4 in subsequent years. Some of Wolf's outstanding players were Jim Lalanne, Paul Severin and George Stirnweiss.

The World War II years were an unsettled time in Carolina athletic history. From 1942 through 1944, UNC had three different head coaches who put makeshift teams through the paces against adjusted schedules which included some military teams. Jim Tatum, an outstanding player at Carolina in the 1930's, coached the 1942 unit. He would return for another coaching tenure later.

Snavely returned to Chapel Hill in 1945 and during the next five years produced some of the best teams in Carolina football history. His 1948 team finished third in the AP poll, the highest final ranking ever for the Tar Heels.

An Omaha, Nebraska native, Snavely was a 1915 alumnus of Lebanon Valley College. He had coached Carolina teams in 1934 and 1935 to a 15-2-1 record and returned in 1945 after nine years at Cornell.

His 1945 team did well, finishing 5-5 after winning only one game the previous season. Then the incomparable Charlie

Justice arrived a year later, and with his compatriots, UNC went to three major bowl games and won two Southern Conference titles in the period from 1946-49.

Snavely's 1946 team was 8-2-1, won the Southern Conference championship and lost to Georgia, 20-10, in the Sugar Bowl. The 1947 team was probably the best of the four. It finished 8-2, winning its last seven, but went uninvited in the postseason. The 1948 unit had only a regular-season tie with William & Mary to mar its record. It went on to lose to Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl. Finally, the 1949 team was unbeaten in the conference and finished 7-4 overall, losing to Rice in the Cotton Bowl.

Justice was not the only star of those Snavely teams. Art Weiner and Ken Powell were tremendous ends on those teams and Hosea Rodgers was a great rugged fullback of the era.

But Justice was the main attraction unquestionably. He ran and passed for over 5,000 yards in his four-year career and he averaged over 42 yards a punt. He had only two punts blocked in his career and both of those were in the first game of his freshman year. When he was done after the 1949 season, Justice had established NCAA records in total offense and punting and was considered the greatest punter of all-time.

As a triple-threat All-America halfback, Justice captured the imagination and fancy of the football fan as no one else ever had. He was idolized and the attention he received from the fans and the media was almost unheard of in that time.

A native of Asheville, he had served in the Navy in World War II and was already 26 years old by the time of his senior year in 1949. He capped his amazing career by being named the Most Valuable Player in the 1950 College All-Star Game in Chicago.

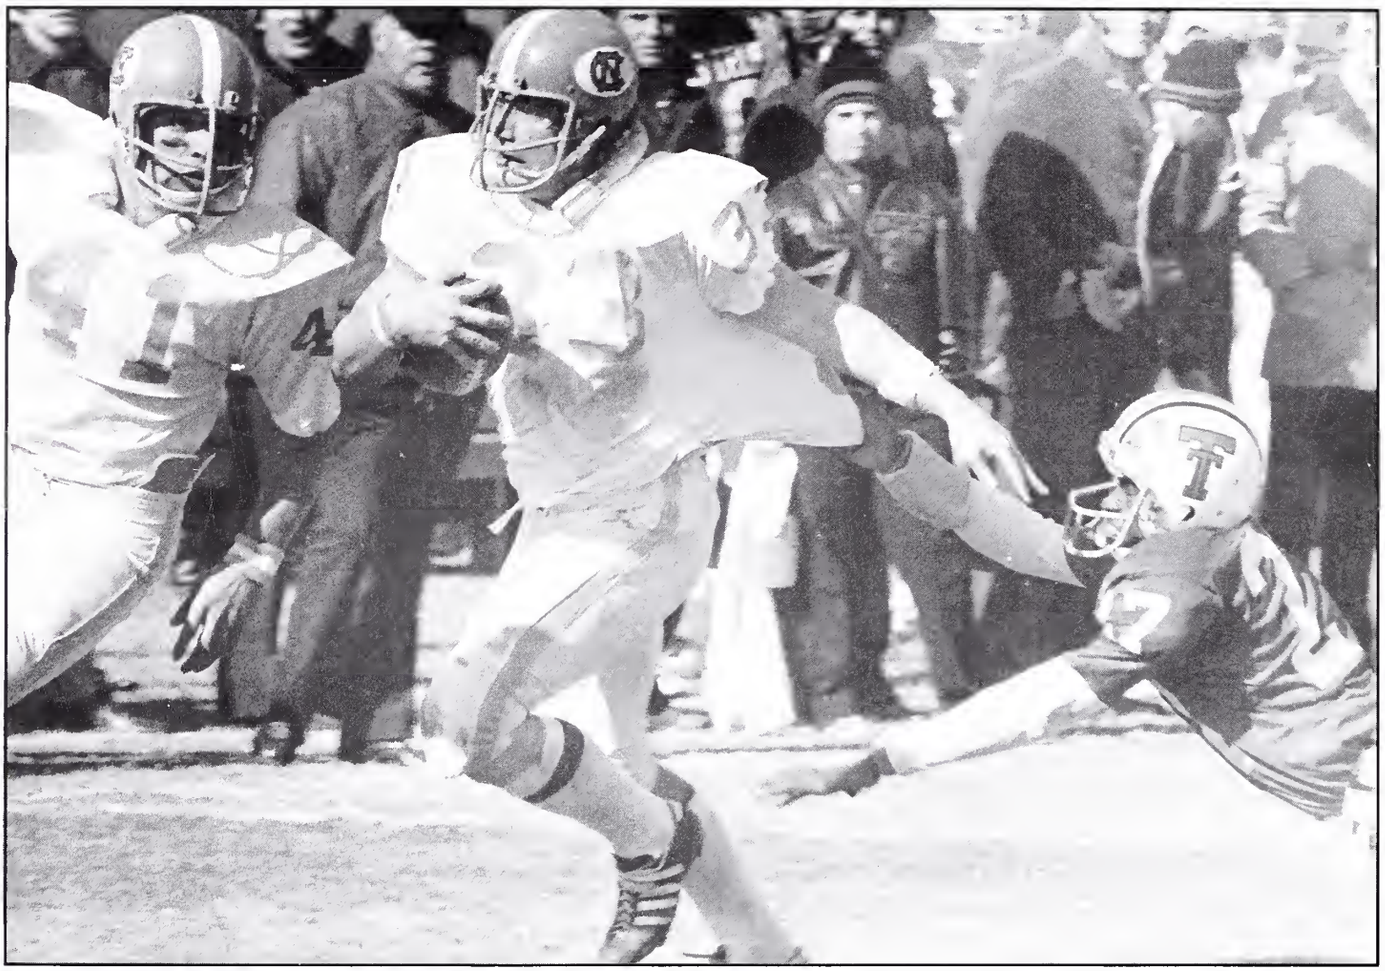
The departure of Justice from campus coincided with a 20-year drought in UNC's football fortunes. Snavely, despite all his earlier successes, could not produce a winning team after the Justice era. George Barclay, Carolina's first All-America player back in 1934, was brought in as head coach, but he encountered little success in his three years of running the program. That's when Carolina successfully lured Jim Tatum back to the fold. Tatum was a great UNC player in the 1930's and had coached the Tar Heels during World War II in 1942. He had since been at Maryland where he led the Terrapins to the national championship in 1953.

Tatum's first season back in Chapel Hill, in 1956, was rather undistinguished. The Tar Heels went 2-7-1 with victories over Virginia and Maryland. In 1957, in Tatum's first return trip to College Park where he had enjoyed so much success, the Carolina-Maryland game was marked by the appearance of Queen Elizabeth II. The queen and her entourage watched the Terrapins beat the Tar Heels 21-7. But that 1957 team finished 6-4 as did the 1958 team under Tatum's steady leadership.

It appeared Carolina had the corner turned when Tatum died suddenly in the summer of 1959 from Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever. He was replaced by assistant Jim Hickey whose teams did not meet with a great deal of success in his eight seasons as head coach. Hickey produced only one winning record, that in 1963 when the Tar Heels finished 9-2 and shared their first Atlantic Coast Conference title. That team went on to post the school's first win in a bowl game, a 35-0 decision over Air Force in the Gator Bowl. That 1963 squad was led by the running of Ken Willard, the passing of Junior Edge and Gary Black and the pass receiving of Bob Lacey. Linebacker Chris Hanburger was a stalwart on defense for the Tar Heels.

After Hickey resigned after a 2-8 season in 1966, UNC looked to Bill Dooley to revitalize its football fortunes. The choice proved to be a wise one. Dooley's teams won 69, lost 53 and tied two in his 11-year tenure. ACC championships were won under Dooley in 1971, 1972 and 1977. Bowl trips became a regular feature— six in all during the Dooley years.

Don McCauley got a victory ride off the field after his 279 yards and five touchdowns in the 1970 Duke game.



This 22-yard touchdown run by Dickie Oliver helped Carolina defeat Texas Tech, 32-28, in the 1972 Sun Bowl, putting the final touches on a 11-1 season.

After three rebuilding seasons, Dooley's first good team was in 1970. It finished 8-4 and went on to play Arizona State in the Peach Bowl. Tailback Don McCauley, who had gained 1,092 yards rushing in 1969, returned for a 1,720-yard season in 1970. He was the first of UNC's 19 1,000-yard rushers. The Garden City, N.Y. native's 1,720 yards in 1970 broke what was then O.J. Simpson's single-season NCAA rushing standard.

Dooley's teams won back-to-back ACC titles in 1971 and 1972. The '71 team lost to Georgia 7-3 in the Gator Bowl in a matchup of coaching brothers, Vince Dooley being the head mentor of the Bulldogs. The 1972 team had an 11-1 record marred only by a loss at Ohio State. It won a thrilling 32-28 decision from Texas Tech in the Sun Bowl.

The mid-1970's brought more success as UNC made bowl appearances in 1974 (Sun), 1976 (Peach) and 1977 (Liberty). Sammy Johnson was a 1,000-yard rusher for Carolina in 1973 as was James Betterson in 1974. But the outstanding offensive player of this era was Mike Voight who gained over 1,000 yards in 1974, 1975 and 1976, including 1,407 yards in '76. Voight was named the ACC Player-of-the-Year in both 1975 and '76 for his efforts.

The 1977 team would prove to be Dooley's last at UNC. It won the ACC title and earned a berth opposite Nebraska in the Liberty Bowl. A rugged defense led by All-America tackle Dee Hardison helped Carolina lead the nation in scoring defense that season. UNC allowed only 81 points in 11 regular-season games. The new offensive star was a freshman tailback named Amos Lawrence, who rushed for 1,211 yards and was named ACC Rookie-of-the -Year.

Dooley resigned in January 1978 to accept the dual role of head football coach and athletic director at Virginia Tech. At that time, Carolina turned to the "Cradle of Coaches" at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, to find its new head coach, Dick Crum.

Crum had just completed an outstanding four-year run at Miami. His 10-years as head coach at UNC was equally brilliant. The winningest coach in Tar Heel history, he compiled a 72-41-3 ledger at the UNC helm. He took six of his 10 UNC teams to bowl games, winning on four occasions, and the 1980 squad won the ACC championship.

After a 5-6 record in 1978, Crum's teams from 1979 through 1983 went to five successive bowls and won 45 games in that time, an average of nine per season. UNC posted four consecutive bowl wins over national football powers in that time frame, beating Michigan in the 1979 Gator Bowl, Texas in the 1980 Bluebonnet Bowl, Arkansas in the 1981 Gator Gowl and Texas again in the 1982 Sun Bowl.

In 1980 and 1981, UNC became the first team in league history to finish in the Top 10 of both wire service polls in successive years. The 1980 team was 11-1 and ranked ninth by United Press International and 10th by Associated Press. The 1981 unit was 10-2 and rated eighth by UPI and ninth by AP. Two more Carolina teams coached by Crum would later go to Bowl games, the 1983 team to the Peach Bowl to face Florida State and the 1986 corps to the Aloha Bowl for a meeting with Arizona.

There was a plethora of outstanding players at Carolina during the Crum era and the Tar Heel football record book was being constantly updated. In 1980, linebacker Lawrence Taylor was named the ACC Player-of-the-Year and he has gone on to all-pro status with the New York Giants. That season, Taylor led what was one of the greatest defenses in ACC history. Other great defensive players at UNC included linebacker Buddy Curry, defensive tackle Donnell Thompson, linebacker Darrell Nicholson, defensive back Steve Streater, defensive tackle William Fuller and outside linebacker Mike Wilcher. All of those players were All-ACC selections and several went on to have distinguished pro careers. Fuller made four first-team All-America squads in 1983.

Although Crum's teams were known for their rugged defense, Carolina also excelled offensively, leading the ACC in total offense four times in the 1980's and ranking sixth nationally in 1986.

There were several reasons behind the offensive fireworks. First, there was a succession of outstanding running backs. Five different players gained 1,000 or more yards rushing in a season a total of 10 times under Crum's tutelage. After his brilliant freshman year, Lawrence went on to gain 1,000 yards three more times. He and Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett are the only two runners in college football history to gain 1,000 yards rushing in each of their four seasons. Kelvin Bryant overcame an injury-marred career to gain 1,000 yards on three occasions. Ethan Horton turned the trick twice in his career and both Tyrone Anthony and Derrick Fenner had one 1,000-yard rushing season each.

A second reason behind UNC's offensive success was the presence of some outstanding offensive linemen in the 1980's, four of whom gained first-team All-America status—guard Ron Wooten in 1980, guard David Drechsler in 1981 and '82, tackle Brian Blados in 1983 and tackle Harris Barton in 1986. Wooten, Blados and Barton are all currently starters in the National Football League.

Carolina's offense also became more diversified in the Crum era and the passing section of the Carolina record book was basically rewritten at that time by a string of accomplished starters at quarterback—Matt Kupec, Rod Elkins, Scott Stankavage, Kevin Anthony and Mark Maye.

At the conclusion of the 1987 season, Crum resigned to return home to his native Ohio where he is now head coach at Kent State University. Carolina conducted a national search to find a successor to lead the Tar Heels into their second century. The unanimous choice of the search committee was a native of Cookeville, Tenn., Mack Brown, who came to Carolina after head coaching stops at Appalachian State and Tulane. He is considered nationally as one of the finest young minds in the game, a brilliant motivator and communicator.

Caught with slim material, Brown's first two teams struggled. However, there were some bright individual stars for Carolina in that period, including center Jeff Garnica. He was a third-team All-America and the Jacobs Blocking Trophy recipient in 1988 as the best offensive lineman in the ACC. Offensive guard Pat Crowley became only the second offensive lineman in ACC history to be named All-ACC in three successive years when he accomplished that feat in 1989.

The blocking of those two players was instrumental in tailback Kennard Martin leading the ACC in rushing in 1988 with 1,146 yards. Martin thus became the 19th runner in Tar Heel history to gain 1,000 yards in a season. That is the most by one school in NCAA history.

Despite the rigors of the last two campaigns, Brown has become a very popular figure in Carolina athletics for his engaging personality, his recruiting prowess and his outstanding ability to deal with the media and fans. There are few long-time observers who don't agree that it is just a matter of time before Brown restores the Carolina football program to its winning ways, building on a century's worth of tradition in the process.

A brilliant defense led by Lawrence Taylor (98) helped Carolina to an 11-1 season in 1980.

1,000 yards.

That's the magic figure for any runner in football.

Call him a halfback, a running back, a tailback, an I-Back or whatever you want. But, when he rushes for 1,000 yards, you simply call him something special.

Nowhere in college football have there been more special runners than at the University of North Carolina.

In the last 21 years Tar Heel tailbacks have rushed for over 1,000 yards on 19 occasions. That gives Carolina more 1,000-yard backs than anyone else in collegiate history.

The University of Southern California has produced eighteen 1,000-yard rushers. That's the second-highest total in the game and puts the Tar Heels and the Trojans well ahead of everyone else.

In a 12-year period from 1973 to 1984, Carolina had at least one player break the 1,000-yard mark each season.

Three times in that 12-year stretch, the Tar Heels had two tailbacks get 1,000 yards in the same season. It has been rare in college football for a school to produce two 1,000-yard backs in one year. When it has happened it has generally been with option attacks—the veer or the wishbone. But, on all three occasions when Carolina has had a pair of 1,000-yard rushers, the players actually shared the same position—tailback in the Tar Heels' I-formation.

Tailback at Carolina, in fact, has become the glamour position in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Year in and year out, more attention goes to Tar Heel tailbacks than to players at any other position at any other school in the league. To be a tailback at Carolina, one has to be a superb athlete, one of the nation's best players, someone special.

How has Carolina been able to produce so many 1,000-yard backs?

Certainly, having outstanding runners has been a major factor. But, other schools also have had great backs and haven't been able to compile the figures of Carolina. For example, the Tar Heels have had more 1,000-yard rushers that Alabama, Notre Dame and Oklahoma combined.

No, there are also other reasons, the most important of which are probably fine offensive linemen, belief in the I-formation and tradition. Those reasons also hold true for Southern California.

Carolina and USC have each had two players rush for 1,000 yards three times—Mike Voight and Kelvin Bryant of the Tar Heels and the Trojans' Charles White and Anthony Davis.

In addition, Carolina's Amos Lawrence had an amazing four 1,000-yard seasons. He and Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett are the only major college players ever to hit the 1,000-yard mark four times.

The biggest difference between the tailback systems at Carolina and Southern Cal is that Trojan backs have generally had higher yardage totals. But, USC usually picks one player as its tailback and sticks with him throughout the season. In fact, Southern Cal has never had two backs gain 1,000 yards in the same season.

Carolina, on the other hand, has alternated tailbacks quite a bit, trying to keep a fresh player in the game at all times. When two players split a position, their individual yardage totals obviously aren't as high as those of runners who stay in the game constantly. The Tar Heel philosophy is simply that if you've got two great runners, let them both play. In the long run, both will be more effective.

That's not to say Carolina would never go with a system like USC's. If one runner is clearly better than all others, he will get the majority of the playing time. For example, Don McCauley rushed for 1,720 yards in 1970. At that time that broke O.J. Simpson's all-time NCAA single-season yardage record. Still, McCauley's backup, Ike Oglesby, had 562 yards.

McCauley is Carolina's only 1,000-yard back from outside the ACC's geographic area. He is a native of Garden City, N.Y.

Bryant, Tyrone Anthony, James Betterson, Ethan Horton, Sammy Johnson and Kennard Martin are all North Carolinians. Lawrence and Voight grew up in Virginia, while Derrick Fenner is from Maryland.

All have played professional football. McCauley and Bryant have had the most success to date. McCauley played with the Baltimore Colts for 11 seasons and broke many of the club's rushing and scoring records set by Alan Ameche and Lenny Moore. Bryant was the USFL's Player of the Year in that league's first season. He joined the Washington Redskins in 1986.

Horton and Johnson were recruited as quarterbacks. All of the others were high school halfbacks, although McCauley was more highly regarded as a defensive back.

Those players have turned in some of the greatest individual performances in ACC history. In fact, Carolina players have had the five best rushing days in league history. Fenner set the ACC rushing record in 1986 by gaining 328 yards against Virginia. Martin had 291 in 1988 against Duke. Lawrence has the third-best figure with 286 against Virginia in 1977. Fourth on the ACC list is McCauley's 279 against Duke in 1970. Then comes Voight's 261 against the Blue Devils in 1976.

Top single-season efforts ever in the ACC have been McCauley's 1,720 yards in 1970 and Voight's 1,407 in 1976.

It has been performances like those which have made Carolina's tailback position what it is—a spot filled with tradition, a spot for special players, a spot for 1,000-yard rushers.

The Linebacker Tradition

The most dynamic defensive player in the National Football League is Lawrence Taylor, the sensational linebacker of the New York Giants and another in a long line of standouts at that position from the University of North Carolina.

Four seasons ago Taylor captured pro football's most prized award when he was named the NFL's Most Valuable Player. That award came after he led the Giants to a Super Bowl triumph. The MVP trophy gave Taylor a sweep of the NFL's top individual honors in just his sixth year in the league.

Taylor roared into the NFL in 1981 as few rookies ever have. He not only was the league's Rookie of the Year, but also the NFL Defensive Player of the Year as well. In his nine seasons with the Giants he has established himself as the outside linebacker with whom all others must be compared.

Of course, Taylor's success has come as no surprise to those who followed his great career at Carolina.

And the fact Taylor played for the Tar Heels was no surprise to NFL fans. Carolina has been turning out star linebackers for years.

The biggest star of them all may well be Taylor. The second player chosen in the 1981 NFL draft, he actually helped turn the Giant franchise around. New York, which had only a 4-12 record in 1980, improved to 9-7 in Taylor's first year there. The Giants made the playoffs for the first time since 1963.

The major reason for that improvement was an outstanding defense featuring Taylor. The New York offense wasn't great by any means, but the defense was strong enough to offset that. Quick and powerful with tremendous instincts, Taylor presented a major problem for opposing offenses. He actually re-defined the outside linebacker position.

In his first year in the league, Taylor received more votes than any other NFC player in balloting for the Pro Bowl.

Taylor has been an All-Pro selection in all nine of his NFL seasons and has also been in the Pro Bowl each year. Four times he has been named Defensive Player of the Year.

Taylor had similar success at Carolina. He was a consensus All-America and the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year in his senior season. During that fall of 1980, he led a Tar Heel defense which helped Carolina post an 11-1 record, equalling the most wins in school history.

Taylor had really begun to develop into a true superstar late in his junior year. He finished third on the team in tackles that fall, had five sacks and made six tackles for losses. Then he was sensational against Michigan in the Gator Bowl.

That set the stage for a dynamic senior season in which Taylor seemed to make big plays every week. He had 55 solo tackles, 16 sacks and six tackles for losses. He forced three fumbles, recovered three and made plays that had to be seen to be believed. Even then instant replay would have been helpful.

However, as mentioned earlier, Taylor was not the first Tar Heel linebacker to reach stardom in the NFL. The year before Taylor entered the league, the NFL's best rookie linebacker was Buddy Curry of the Atlanta Falcons. Curry had won All-ACC honors at Carolina in 1977 and 1979. He was a key figure, as just a sophomore, on a 1977 Tar Heel defense which gave up the fewest points in the nation.

Two former Carolina linebackers helped their teams reach the Super Bowl in the 1970's. Chris Hanburger sparked a Redskin defense which took Washington to Super Bowl VII. John Bunting was a key performer for the Philadelphia Eagles when they reached Super Bowl XV.

While Hanburger and Bunting were two of the NFL's premier linebackers during the 1970's, two of the league's best in the Sixties were also former Tar Heels—Rip Hawkins of the Minnesota Vikings and Bill Koman of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Like Curry, Hanburger and Hawkins were two-time All-ACC choices during their college days. Jimmy DeRatt, a Carolina linebacker in the early 1970's, also won all-conference honors twice.

Other Tar Heel linebackers who have made the All-ACC team since 1970 are Bunting, Taylor, Bill Richardson, Mike Mansfield, Darrell Nicholson, Lee Shaffer, Chris Ward, Mike Wilcher, Micah Moon and Brett Rudolph.

Wilcher is one of the NFL's best defenders today. He has become a Pro Bowl player for the Los Angeles Rams and ranks as one of the best outside linebackers in the game. In other words, people are comparing him to Lawrence Taylor, the best who's ever played.

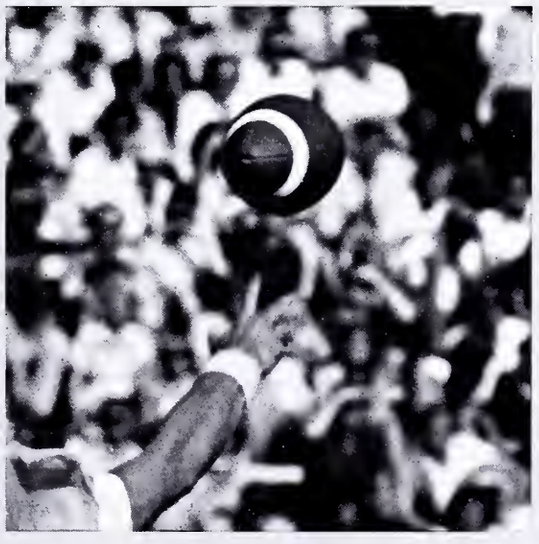
The First Forward Pass

While is is foolish to state emphatically that the first forward pass was thrown by a North Carolina football team, certain records would indicate as much. No less an authority than John Heisman himself credits the Tar Heels with the game's first pass.

The scene was Atlanta on October 25, 1895. Carolina and Georgia were locked in a scoreless struggle in the game's closing moments. The Tar Heels were in a punting situation deep in their own territory. Here is an account of what then happened as reported by Heisman in a 1928 edition of Collier's Weekly:



"The North Carolina fullback retreated until the crossbar of his goal was above his head and from the Georgia stands came the exhortation to 'block it, block it, block it.'

"And Georgia's forwards, gathering all their waning strength and riding over North Carolina's tired defense might have blocked it and even scored had the sturdy boy from North Carolina kicked.

"But instead of punting into the leaping bodies of those onrushing Georgians, he ran a few mincing steps to the right. Raising the ball to his shoulder he tossed it.

"Luck was with the boy. The ball was caught by a North Carolinian. Now as we know forward passes, it wasn't much. It traveled a few yards and laterally as well as forward. It may have appeared to the spectators that it had been knocked from the fullback's hands.

"At any rate the lad who caught it ran 70 yards for a touchdown!

"I had seen the first forward pass in college football. It was illegal, of course. Already Pop Warner, the Georgia coach, was storming at the referee. But the referee had not seen the North Carolina lad, goaded to desperation, toss the ball. A touchdown had been made and a touchdown it remained."

Other accounts of the game do not mention the forward pass. However, George Stephens is credited with a 70 - yard touchdown run in the game.

At any rate, Heisman wrote that he immediately saw the possibilities that the forward pass had. He personally wrote Walter Camp about the play.

The forward pass was discussed for several years. It became a part of the rules at Camp's suggestion in 1906.

Certainly, the idea of the pass had to come from something. It may well have been Carolina's strange play in 1895.

Carolina's Bowl History

North Carolina has played in 16 post-season bowl games, including 12 in the last 20 years.

Carolina's post-season trips have been to the Sugar Bowl in 1947 and 1949; the Cotton Bowl in 1950; the Gator Bowl in 1963, 1971, 1979 and 1981; the Peach Bowl in 1970, 1976 and 1983; the Sun Bowl in 1972, 1974 and 1982; the Liberty Bowl in 1977; the Bluebonnet Bowl in 1980; and the Aloha Bowl in 1986.

The Tar Heels' bowl history started in the late Forties when Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice was running wild from the single wing. Carolina went to bowl games three times during the Justice Era, but lost all three.

Perhaps the most famous of those games was the 1947 Sugar Bowl which matched Carolina against Georgia. The game produced one of the most controversial plays in bowl history. Carolina was leading 7-0 in the third period when Bulldog defensive end Joe Tereshinski intercepted a Tar Heel pass. He then flipped a lateral to Dick McPhee who raced to the Carolina 14.

The Tar Heels argued the lateral was a forward one and the play should have been called back. However, the officials ruled differently. Georgia went on to score and eventually won the game.

Carolina returned to the Sugar Bowl two years later and lost to Oklahoma, 14-6. Justice had a great day for the Tar Heels, clicking off runs of 10, 13, 25, 11 and 14 yards. He punted four times for 65, 65, 57 and 53 yards.

Justice had another great day in the 1950 Cotton Bowl, but Carolina lost to Rice, 27-13.

The Tar Heels' next bowl appearance came in the 1963 Gator Bowl where Carolina walloped the Air Force, 35-0. Ken Willard was the big star that day. He ran for 94 yards on 18 carries and scored the first touchdown which keyed the runaway victory.

In the 1970 Peach Bowl the Tar Heels dropped a wild 48-26 decision to unbeaten Arizona State. All-America tailback Don McCauley had 143 yards rushing and three touchdowns for Carolina. But a second-half snowstorm and an injury to quarterback Paul Miller helped the Sun Devils to race to victory.

The 1971 Gator Bowl produced a bowl first—brothers opposing each other as coaches in bowl competition. It matched Vince Dooley of Georgia against Bill of Carolina. The game was a great defensive struggle in which the Bulldogs came from behind to win, 7-3.

Carolina capped a 11-1 season in the 1972 Sun Bowl by defeating Texas Tech, 32-28. Quarterback Nick Vidnovic was the big star, completing 14 of 26 passes for 215 yards. He fired a 62-yard scoring strike to Ted Leverenz to help the Tar Heels to a 24-21 halftime lead.

Tech came back to go ahead, 28-24, but Vidnovic hit Leverenz with a 13-yard TD pass with just a minute to play to bring Carolina back. The Tar Heels then added two more points when Ronnie Robinson dropped Raider quarterback Joe Barnes for a safety.

Mike Voight and James Betterson had big days rushing in the 1974 Sun Bowl, but Mississippi State won another thriller, 26-24. The Tar Heels put on a desperation drive in the game's closing moments, but were stopped on a fourth-and-one at their own 48-yard line.

Playing without the injured Voight, Carolina lost to Kentucky, 21-0, in the 1976 Peach Bowl. The Tar Heels had trouble all day with a tough Wildcat defense.

Carolina dropped a heartbreaking 21-17 decision to Nebraska in the 1977 Liberty Bowl. Sparked by quarterback Matt Kupec, the Tar Heels held a 17-7 lead going into the fourth period. However, the Cornhuskers rallied behind reserve quarterback Randy Garcia to score their come-from-behind victory.

Kupec and Amos Lawrence were the big stars in Carolina's 17-15 win over Michigan in the 1979 Gator Bowl. Kupec directed a 97-yard touchdown drive in the third quarter which put the Tar Heels ahead to stay (14-9). Jeff Hayes later added a 32-yard field goal. Michigan scored with 1:28 left to cut the lead to two, but a two-point pass failed.

Kupec completed 18 of 28 passes, while Lawrence ran for 118 yards. They were named co-MVPs.

Lawrence again was the big star in Carolina's 16-7 win over Texas in the 1980 Bluebonnet Bowl. He rushed for 104 yards and had a 59-yard touchdown run. Carolina's other scoring came on a short plunge by Kelvin Bryant and a field goal by Hayes. A key factor in this game was the Carolina defense which limited the Longhorns to just two first downs and only 36 yards of total offense in the second half. Lawrence topped Bryant in voting for the game's outstanding offensive player, while Steve Streater edged Lawrence Taylor in balloting for the defensive MVP.

Bryant and his backup, Ethan Horton, both had big nights as Carolina defeated Arkansas, 31-27, in the 1981 Gator Bowl. Bryant rushed for 148 yards and Horton added 144. They shared the MVP award.

Horton again was the big star in 1982 as Carolina came from behind to defeat seventh-ranked Texas, 26-10, in the Sun Bowl. Coming off the bench in the second half for an injured Bryant, Horton rushed for 119 yards and won MVP honors. Sparked by his play, the Tar Heels rallied from a 10-3 halftime deficit.

However, Horton was not the only Carolina star. The Tar Heel defense, which made two brilliant goal line stands, shut down the Texas attack in the second half. Rob Rogers and Brooks Barwick each kicked two field goals despite weather conditions which featured a wind chill factor of 12 degrees and snow throughout the game.

That Sun Bowl victory made Carolina the first Atlantic Coast Conference school ever to win four straight bowl games. However, that streak came to an end the following year in the 1983 Peach Bowl. Florida State scored the first two times it had the ball and was never headed in a 28-3 victory. The Tar Heels hurt themselves badly with a fumbled punt which allowed the Seminoles to go just 16 yards for their third touchdown and with penalties which killed two drives of their own.

Carolina went to the Aloha Bowl in 1986. The trip to Honolulu was great except for the game itself—a 30-21 loss to Arizona. The Tar Heels spotted the Wildcats a 30-0 lead before putting on a big second-half rally. Arizona seemed to have the game in hand as Carolina struggled offensively against a rugged Wildcat defense. However, Torin Dorn got the Tar Heels going in the third quarter with an Aloha-record 58-yard touchdown run.

Then Norris Davis made two big plays, intercepting a pass and blocking a punt, to get the ball back for the offense. Mark Maye threw to Randy Marriott for one score and got another TD himself on a two-yard run. That cut the lead to 30-21 with over nine minutes to play. But, despite driving inside Wildcat territory on two other occasions, Carolina could get no closer.

The Florida Citrus Bowl

In an innovative and unique relationship, the Atlantic Coast Conference and the Florida Citrus Bowl have reached an agreement which may well be the forerunner of most future bowl-conference tieups.

The outstanding feature of the four-year pact, which began in 1988, is the flexibility it allows both organizations. It contains a "national championship exclusion" option which could allow the ACC to be involved in another major bowl game if the national title is at stake. By the same token, the Florida Citrus Sports Association could bypass the ACC champion if it could land the nation's top team for a title game.

The basic agreement called for the FCSA to invite the ACC champion in 1988 and 1990. The FCSA also could select the ACC winner in 1989 and 1991. However, the Association has to exercise that option by the second Tuesday in November, which it did last year.

But, if the FCSA has the opportunity to secure the number one team in the country, according to the weekly United Press International poll, for its game, it may exercise the "national championship exclusion" option and pass on the ACC champion this year. That option has to be exercised by the second Tuesday in November and the FCSA must commit to the ACC winner in 1991.

If the ACC champion, in any year of the agreement, is ranked second, third or fourth in the UPI poll and has the chance to play the top-ranked team in the Cotton, Orange or Sugar Bowls, it has the option to pass on its Florida Citrus Bowl invitation. Again, that option must be exercised by the second Tuesday in November and the FCSA will then have the option to invite the ACC champion for the next two years.

Under these provisions, the ACC winner is committed to the Florida Citrus Bowl if it is the number one team in the country and the bowl payoff is competitive with other New Year's Day bowls.

The conference also guarantees 15,000 ticket sales in the newly renovated Florida Citrus Bowl-Orlando Stadium. Capacity there is now 72,000.

Carolina Athletic Director John Swofford, who chaired the ACC negotiating team which handled these arrangements, hails the agreement.

"I think this is great for the ACC and great for the Florida Citrus Bowl," he says. "The flexibility given each makes it very attractive. We have had teams from our league in this game seven times in the last 12 years and all of them have enjoyed the hospitality of the FCSA. It's certainly an outstanding trip for the players and the national television exposure helps us all."

ABC Sports has the television contract for the Florida Citrus through 1993. The Florida Citrus Bowl team payout should be at least $2.4 million in 1990.

The FCSA is a non-profit organization supported by almost 1,000 businesses and individuals who volunteer their time and service throughout the year to work on the bowl's 65 committees and 38 events. Children's hospitals, special community projects and educational institutions are the primary recipients each year of profits.

Orlando itself is one of the most popular tourist spots in the country and, thus, a great location for a bowl game. Playing in the Florida Citrus Bowl is a wonderful reward for a successful football season.

Perhaps the best-known attraction in the area is Walt Disney World, which opened a new movie theme park last year to go along with such favorites as EPCOT Center, Magic Kingdom, Typhoon Lagoon and Pleasure Island. But, also nearby are Sea World, Boardwalk and Baseball and Cypress Gardens.

Downtown Orlando has added two new shopping grounds, the Exchange and the Market, next to world-famous Church Street Station. Central Florida now has 66,000 hotel rooms, second only to New York City in this country.

While the football game is the grand finale, the FCSA preludes are sensational. For sports, there are golf, tennis, basketball, lacrosse, rugby, running and sailing. For entertainment, the FCSA offers ballooning, a fashion show, a black tie gala, band competition, street parties, pep rallies and a star-studded New Year's Eve celebration at Sea World.

It's a wonderful time for the competing teams and their families. And the ACC champion is now a part of it.

Five Retired Jersies

Charlie Justice

Art Weiner

George Barclay

Cotton Sutherland

Five Carolina football numbers—22, 46, 50, 59 and 99—have been retired over the years in honor of the men who wore them.

The number 22 was almost as well known in this state as the athlete who wore it—Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice. One of college football's all-time superstars, Justice was an All-America halfback at Carolina from 1946 to 1949. In fact, those years generally are known as simply "The Justice Era" in Chapel Hill.

Justice still holds numerous school records, including the career total offense mark. A tailback in Coach Carl Snavely's single-wing attack, he was a dynamic weapon as a runner, passer, punter and return specialist. Justice is a member of the College Football Hall of Fame. A lengthy story on his career appears elsewhere in this book.

Bill "Cotton" Sutherland was a blocking back on the first of the Justice teams in 1946. Although just a freshman from Laurinburg, he showed great promise as a player and was extremely popular with his teammates.

However, in the spring of 1947 he was killed in an automobile accident. Snavely was stunned by the loss of Sutherland's life and was instrumental in getting his number 46 retired.

Number 50 belonged to Art Weiner, a two-time All-America end in the late Forties. It appeared Weiner was meant for stardom when he scored a touchdown on his first collegiate play. That came against Virginia Tech in 1946. He did not disappoint anyone.

In 1947 Weiner caught 20 passes for 396 yards, averaging 19.8 yards a reception. It was an amazing total considering that the Tar Heels were a power-packed team, loaded with talent and featuring a number of outstanding ends.

However, Weiner's figures were to get even more impressive. He won All-America honors as a junior, catching 31 passes and finishing seventh in the nation in receiving. As a senior he led the country in pass-catching with 52 receptions. That total still stands as the school single-season record. His 106 career catches are the second most in Tar Heel history.

But, Weiner was more than just a great receiver. He was also a star defender in a time when players were expected to play both ways. In fact, his most famous play at Carolina probably was one he made on defense. He stormed through the Duke line to block a field goal attempt on the game's last play to preserve a 21-20 Tar Heel win over the Blue Devils in his senior year.

Weiner went on from Carolina to play in the Senior Bowl and was voted the game's outstanding lineman. He played briefly with the old New York Yankees, but a knee injury ended his career.

How great of a player was Weiner?

Well, Wally Butts of Georgia, one of the game's winningest coaches and himself a former end, once called Weiner "the greatest pass-catching end I've ever seen."

Another end, Andy Bershak, wore 59. Also a two-way performer, Bershak won All-America honors in 1939. He was a brilliant defensive player and a solid receiver, too.

Bershak also played basketball at Carolina. He wasn't a high scorer, but was a rugged rebounder and, as might be expected, an excellent defender.

However, Bershak believed there was more to life than just athletics. He tried to excel in every phase of student life and did so. He was an honor student and a member of the Order of the Golden Fleece and the Order of the Grail, the University's two most prestigious honorary societies. He also served as president of the Athletic Association.

A man with a great love for his alma mater, he stayed on at Carolina as a graduate assistant coach.

Unfortunately, his life came to a tragically early end. He came down with Bright's Disease and died in 1943.

Carolina's first All-America, George Barclay, wore the number 99. He was a three-year starter at offensive guard and linebacker. At 5-11 and 185 pounds, he excelled as a downfield blocker and was a tenacious tackler.

Barclay was a special thorn in the side of Virginia fans. In 1933 he intercepted a Cavalier pass and ran 35 yards for a touchdown as the Tar Heels scored a 14-0 victory. The following year he opened the game's scoring with a 55-yard interception return for a touchdown as Carolina won, 25-6.

Carolina posted a 7-1-1 record in his senior year as Barclay became the school's first All-America player. He later returned to Chapel Hill to coach the Tar Heels in the 1950's.

Why Tar Heels?

University of North Carolina athletic teams are known as the Tar Heels because North Carolina is "The Tar Heel State."

There are a number of different stories about how the nickname was originally acquired. The two most widely accepted explanations are repeated here. The fact that the production of tar, pitch and turpentine was for many years the state's principal industry is a key element in both stories.

One legend has the nickname being applied to the state's residents as long ago as the Revolutionary War. According to this story, the troops of British General Cornwallis were fording what is now known as the Tar River between Rocky Mount and Battleboro when they discovered that tar had been dumped into the stream to impede their crossing. When they finally got across the river they found their feet completely black with tar. Their observation that anyone who waded North Carolina rivers would acquire tar heels led to the nickname first being used.

Others say the nickname was acquired during the War Between the States. During one of that war's fiercest battles a column supporting North Carolina troops was driven from the field. After the battle, the North Carolinians who had successfully fought it out alone, happened to meet the regiment which had fled to safety and were greeted with the question, "Any more tar down in the Old North State, boys?"

"No, not a bit," shot back one of the North Carolina soldiers. "Old Jeff's bought it all up," he went on, referring to Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy.

"Is that so? What's he going to do with it?"

"He's going to put it on you'ns heels to make you stick better in the next fight."

Upon hearing of the incident, Robert E. Lee smiled and said to a fellow officer, "God bless the Tar Heel boys."

A Ram For A Mascot?

For over 60 years the mascot of North Carolina's football team has been a ram. The current sideline star for the Tar Heels is Rameses IXI.

Since Carolina's nickname is Tar Heels, it might seem strange to have a ram as a mascot. It is. But, there is a good explanation. It's offered by Vic Huggins, Carolina's head cheerleader back in 1924.

"In 1924 school spirit was at a peak," Huggins once explained. "But something seemed to be missing. One day it hit me. Georgia had a bulldog for a mascot and State a wolf. What Carolina needed was a symbol."

Two years earlier the Tar Heels had posted a brilliant 9-1 record. The star of that 1922 team was a bruising fullback named Jack Merritt. Merritt was nicknamed "the battering ram" for the way he plunged into lines. It seemed natural to Huggins to link a mascot with Merritt's unusual sobriquet.

"Charlie Woollen, the athletic business manager at that time, agreed with the idea and gave us $25 to purchase a fitting mascot," said Huggins.

Rameses the First was shipped in from Texas, arriving just in time to be introduced at a pep rally before the VMI game. Complete with a mongram blanket on his back, Rameses helped make the pep rally one of the school's greatest.

Then the ram was taken to Emerson Field where Carolina was an underdog to a strong VMI team. But, for three quarters the Tar Heels battled the visitors to a scoreless tie.

Late in the fourth period Carolina's Bunn Hackney was called upon to attempt a field goal. Before taking the field he stopped to rub Rameses's head for good luck.

Seconds later Hackney's 30-yard dropkick sailed between the goalposts, giving the Tar Heels a 3-0 victory and a legendary mascot.

From that November afternoon in 1924, the deeds and experiences of Rameses I and his successors have been the basis for countless anecdotes.

For instance, there was Rameses I making his first indoor appearance. Huggins was again the originator of the idea, the Tin Can was the scene and a basketball game was the event.

A theatrical debut with bright lights and a chorus was planned for the ram's introduction before a capacity audience. But when Rameses was led to midcourt at halftime, it became evident that he was not housebroken. In addition to being his first, that was also Rameses's last basketball game.

Tar Heels rams have traveled everywhere from New York City (for the Carolina-Notre Dame game in 1949) to Jacksonville for Carolina's Gator Bowl appearances.

Generally, the highlight of each season for Rameses is trying to outwit Duke students who always try to ram-nap him before the traditional big game with the Blue Devils.

School Colors

The adoption of light blue and white as the University of North Carolina's colors dates back to the 19th Century.

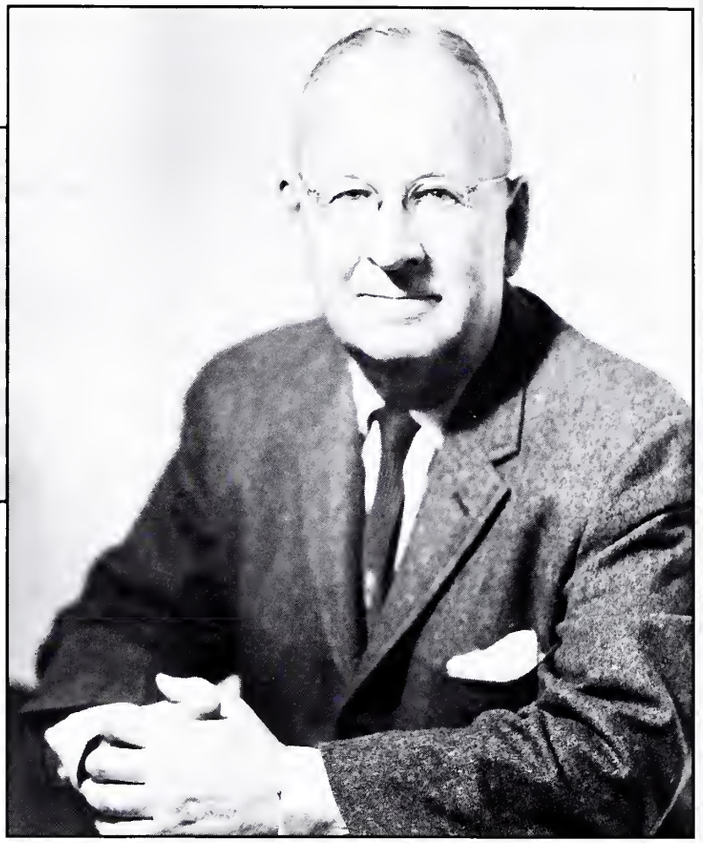
When the University reopened following the War Between the States most social activities were directed by two literary societies, the Dialectic and Philanthropic. The official color of the Di was light blue and that of the Phi white. Since society membership was compulsory for all students, the opinions and activities of these organizations were by nature of circumstances all embracing. It was the custom for all men from localities west of Chapel Hill to affiliate with the Di and generally for students from the east to become members of the Phi.

On public occasions such as commencement exercises, the student officers, marshals and ball managers were chosen equally from the membership of the two societies. It had long been the custom of each society for its members to wear its color on such occasions. However, the chief marshal and chief ball manager, one from the Di and the other from the Phi, wore combination light blue and white regalias and rosettes signifying that they represented the whole student body and not just one of the societies.

Later, when intercollegiate athletics were established and students began accompanying teams to other colleges or cities, the question of what to wear became a problem. Certainly, the students wanted to be associated with the University, but the school had no official colors. So it seemed only natural for the fans to adorn themselves with the same combination as that used by the chief marshals and ball managers, colors which represented not membership in a society, but in the University student body.

The light blue worn by Tar Heel students today has many different names. It is called simply light blue, powder blue, sky blue or Columbia Blue among other things. Generally, however, it is just referred to as Carolina Blue. The accomplishments of Tar Heel athletes have made the color synonimous with the University so it now simply bears it name.

A Town Touched by Strange Magic



The late Jake Wade wrote this piece a good many years ago. Even today, it captures the spirit of this Town as well as anything we know. Mr. Wade was director of sports publicity at the University at the time of his death.

This is a town touched by strange magic and one to which its peoples, many of them a curious breed, hold a rare and somewhat inexplicable attachment. Our town has no rivers, no mountains, no seas, but in the spring it is beautiful and in all seasons it is both wonderful and sad, romantic in the spirit of the youth it harbors in the educational process of the great State University, which is the town's principal industry.

Chapel Hill, where bells wake you in the morning, regardless of whether you live in the Beta house, Cobb dormitory or on Laurel Hill Road, and where the bells keep ringing periodically the day long, with the chimes taking over in the majesty of twilight and on certain important occasions such as the big football games.

Not really a village any more, although its inhabitants, some living in the past, like to consider it as such . . . None of us will go so far as to say that it possesses the tranquillity and serenity of the Twenties, when Thomas Wolfe, and Paul Green and LeGette Blythe and "Monk" McDonald and the Carmichaels found adventure, melancholy and beauty in their diverse pursuits on the old campus and the unexplored lands beyond . . . It is not as small, and not quite as nice, but almost, and there is a whole new world of knowledge to be discovered here with resouces of mind and matter in abundance.

Chapel Hill, where the civic clubs do not sing, salute flags or wear badges, but unostentatiously and quietly engage in humanitarian projects as earnestly as their backslapping counterparts of the cities . . . Where its only commercial radio station taboos hillbilly tunes and plays sweet music and deathless great arias.

In Chapel Hill that man in dungarees, coming out of the post office, is just as apt to be a best-selling novelist as the town's leading plumber or the divorced author of profound treatises on the science of nuptial compatibility . . . Where shoe shines, on the most modest leather, cost you twenty cents per copy, with the same treatment from five to ten cents cheaper in a much larger town across the way, but there you are not waited on by one of the town's most popular citizens who contributes philosophy, sound sense and remarkably accurate football prognostications as a dividend to the dab of mundane polish.

People in our town go to church, pray, are kind and considerate, both the students and the townspeople, as in all towns . . . But where some of the ministers never wear hats, do wear sweaters, and sometimes drive the more modest editions of those little foreign make sports cars, but their democracy in manners is no compromise with the dignity of their souls, for our town is blessed with able and Godly preachers.

Chapel Hillians, like the folks in your town or city, play poker and bridge, but strangely, little or no gin rummy, and they play golf and handball . . . Chapel Hill, where the tiniest tots are able swimmers, and old men play an exciting brand of tennis . . . Where there are circles and cliques, as in all towns, for the socials, round tables and sports, but where those who travel together are frequently of oddly dissimilar tastes . . . A famous singer breaks bread often and attends games with a Kenan professor . . . A coach has tea regularly with a brilliant author . . . A university department head finds more wisdom, truth and beauty in the philosophy of a bistro keeper than in the ivory towers of his own intellectual level and prefers his company . . . But Chapel Hill is a town of neighbors who are bird watchers and who tend their flowers with loving care and talk over stone walls and drink their coffee or cocktails while talking oftenest about their children and grandchildren . . . That's Chapel Hill. God bless our town and its gentle way of life.

This sensational catch against Duke was one of 37 receptions Randall Felton made as a freshman in 1989.
